EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1899.

TWO CENTS

FILIPINOS DEFEATED.

Wheaton Routed a Force of About 2,000.

A HEAVY LOSS WAS INFLICTED.

Bodies of Some of the Dead Seen Floating Down the River—Over 300 of the Rebels Captured—More Than 100 Dead Found and New Made Graves.

MANILA, March 16.—General Lloyd Wheaton, commanding the United States flying column, attacked and defeated a force of 2,000 Filipinos at Pasig Wednesday afternoon, inflicting a heavy loss upon them. The American loss was slight. Many bodies of rebels killed in the engagement were floating down the river.

Private Fernoff of Company L, Twentieth regiment, was killed. The wounded were: Private Newman, Company F, Twentieth regiment. Private Carroll, Company A, Twenty-second regiment. Private Cocombs, Company C, Twenty-second regiment. Private Rogers, Company L, Twenty-second regiment.

About 350 Filipinos surrendered at the town of Taguig to the Washington regiment and 175 were captured at Pasig by the Twentieth regiment.

Our troops found 106 dead Filipinos and 100 new graves near Pasig. The prisoners were unarmed and, therefore, it was presumed they executed their threat of throwing their arms into the river.

LONDON, March 16.—The Evening News published the following dispatch from Manila: "General Wheaton has probably routed the Filipinos and has occupied Pasig, Taguig and Pateros. Several hundred of the enemy were killed and as many were captured."

"General Otis says this is the greatest victory since Feb. 5. The Americans will now press toward Aguinaldo's headquarters."

WASHINGTON, March 16.—General Otis has cabled the following list of casualties suffered by the United States troops Monday:

"MANILA, March 15. Adjutant General, Washington:

"Casualties March 13, near Caloocan: Killed—Twentieth Kansas, Company L, Private James W. Kline.

"Wounded—Twenty-second infantry, M, Privates William Renshart, leg, moderate; D, Willet Herman, scalp, slight; William S. O'Brien, head, severe; John Mubahille, scalp, slight; A, Theodore A. Mizner, finger, severe; Daniel Carroll, forearm, slight; E, Joseph Hoffman, thigh, severe; Joseph B. Cox, thumb, severe; I, John Blazek, chest, severe; David Mulholland, arm, moderate.

"Twentieth infantry, K, Corporal Chris Thompson, side, severe; B, Privates Charles Simon, back, moderate; K, Thomas Miller, hand, severe; D, Frank Nash, knee, severe; M, Richard F. Piper, thigh, slight; G, Lester M. Folger, neck, slight; H, Charles Sharkey, thigh, slight; Charles Davis, neck, severe. Second Oregon, B, Private Walter Irwin, foot, moderate, accidental injury. Twenty-second infantry, B, Corporal Charles J. Uxley, contusion, side. Twentieth infantry, E, Privates William Sampson, sprain, ankle; H, Adolph G. Koehper, sprain, ankle; B, Peter J. Phelan, hand, moderate; F, Corporal John E. Hoffman, sprain, ankle. March 14, near Guadalupe, killed: First Washington, E, Private Ralph Van Baskirk. Wounded, Second Oregon, D, Privates Alfred O. Carden, chest, severe; F. W. O. B. Dodson, ankle, slight; E, Charles J. Olson, foot, severe.

"OTIS." (Signed) The following dispatch from General Otis was also received:

"MANILA, March 15. Adjutant General, Washington:

"Three thousand insurgents moved down last night to towns of Pasig and Pateros, on shore Lagnanda bay, fronting Wheaton's troops on Pasig river line; by heavy fighting Wheaton has dislodged and driven them back, taking 400 prisoners and inflicting heavy loss in killed and wounded; he reports his loss as very moderate; he now occupies these towns with sufficient force to hold them. (Signed) "OTIS."

LONDON, March 16.—The Daily Graphic published this morning a letter from a British naval officer in Manila, under date of Feb. 7, describing the beginning of the fighting between the Americans and Filipinos, which, he says, was due to an attempt on the part of the latter to rush an American post. "The British officers," he continues, "were not allowed to land until the day following the battle, and were even then prohibited from going to the front, but on yesterday's battlefield I saw Filipino prisoners burying heaps of their dead.

"It cannot for a moment be doubted that the Americans fought with gallantry and pluck, while the rebels, who were armed with Mausers and Remingtons, maintained a stubborn defense. Their dead bodies testify to this. It is also clear that the Filipinos were as tounded and demoralized by the American tactics and the vigorous pursuit the Americans kept up throughout the day, instead of following, as the Filipinos expected, the Spanish custom of midday rest."

TO SIGN THE TREATY.

Spanish Cabinet Decided It Will Follow Dissolution of Cortes.

MADRID, March 16.—The cabinet council decided that the treaty of peace with the United States should be ratified immediately after the dissolution of the cortes, which will probably be decreed today.

HARD BLOWS AT BEEF.

Canned Article Made Soldiers Sick—Witness Said Dead Maggots Were Canned With the Meat.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The court of inquiry investigating the beef controversy held a short executive session Wednesday afternoon and determined to leave last night for Omaha, where an inspection of the stockyards will be made.

Then the members will proceed to Kansas City. It is the expectation of the court to return to Chicago by Tuesday of next week, when the examination of witnesses will be proceeded with.

During the hearing here an officer of the regular army, First Lieutenant M. E. Davis of the First cavalry, was called at the request of Major Lee, representative of General Miles. Lieutenant Davis testified that in Cuba one-half the canned roast beef issued to the soldiers was thrown away because it was unfit to eat. He testified that he had opened one can himself and found maggots in it.

Major Lee asked: "How did the maggots get in there?" "They were canned in there," the witness replied.

Colonel Davis: "Are you aware that in the process of canning this meat undergoes such an intense heat that no animal life could survive in it?"

"I don't mean to say they were alive, they were dead."

Major John Bliss Shaw, a local physician, who was with the Third Illinois in Porto Rico, told about being called out one night to look after the men of Company A, who were reported to have been poisoned by eating canned roast beef. He said they vomited fearfully, and it seemed that hypodermic injections of morphine would hardly relieve the pain. They were sick for some days afterward, with a great deal of diarrhoea and intestinal trouble.

"When the men ceased eating the canned roast beef was there any improvement?" asked Major Lee.

"Yes; the canned roast beef generally gave them diarrhoea and gastro-enteritis."

Further along this question was asked:

"When the beef was eaten from cans, did you order it emptied out of the can immediately?"

"We tried to have it served immediately, but under that intense heat putrefaction would set in almost as soon as the can was opened. I think ptomaines were developed almost immediately after the opening of the cans."

He also gave other testimony. Colonel Fred Bennett of the Third Illinois testified that the canned beef was bad and that some of the refrigerated beef showed signs of decomposition and was covered with a greenish mold.

"I went to General Grant," said the witness, "a great many times to speak about the condition of the beef, but he always claimed it was the fault of the cooks."

Colonel Bennett is a lawyer and has at times acted as attorney for stockyards companies. He was asked by Major Lee what class of cattle is used in the canning process.

"Very inferior," was the answer.

Packinghouse Expert Leets of Chicago was asked what was meant by the class of cattle called "canners." "The most inferior of cattle," he said. "A majority of these animals would be condemned in an English market."

The witness startled the commissioners by stating that a large number of condemned cattle were used in many packinghouses in the manufacture of canned beef.

William Replogle, a member of the auxiliary hospital corps, stated that he had opened cans of beef in Porto Rico while maggots hung to the cover.

"Much of the beef was thrown to the dogs," he said, "but even the hungry beasts refused to eat it."

The witness recalled an incident which interested the representative of General Miles. A soldier had been unable to get rations, according to the witness, and was forced to eat the canned beef, saying at the time that he could not keep it on his stomach. Within a week he died. Replogle also testified that maggots had been found in the refrigerated beef.

Others also testified.

Acquitted of Murder Charge.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Baron Curt Von Biedenfeld was acquitted of the charge of murder in the killing of Constable Charles McDonald. He killed him during a quarrel.

Governor Dyer Renominated.

PROVIDENCE, March 16.—The annual convention of the Republican party of Rhode Island was held here, Governor Dyer of Providence and the other state officers were unanimously renominated.

A RUN ON A BANK.

Depositors Crowded Into a Cincinnati Institution.

A MAD DEPOSITOR SUSPECTED.

He Had Been Ordered to Withdraw His Money and Was Believed to Have Circulated Stories as to the Bank's Condition—Police Enforced Order.

CINCINNATI, March 16.—The Cincinnati Savings society, 43 and 45 West Fifth street, was the scene of a panicky run. The officers of the bank suspect that a disgruntled depositor, who had been asked to withdraw his account and threatened to get even, circulated the story that the bank was in bad condition. It has nearly 14,000 depositors. When the bank opened a crowd of depositors were waiting to draw their money.

Some of them neglected to bring their books and were sent after them. These spread the alarm. Frightened women and men crowded around the place so that it was necessary to call policemen to preserve order. Meantime, the bank paid as rapidly as possible. In the afternoon the crush was so great that two patrol wagons were brought up and ropes stretched across the sidewalk so that the crowd could be kept in order.

About 4 o'clock the doors were closed with the announcement that they would be open at 9 o'clock this morning. The police with difficulty cleared the sidewalks. All the banks of the city believed in the soundness of the Savings society, and freely offered it all the money it needed.

years in forming. At the disposal of the 15 trustees, who will be elected, are the magnificent art bequests made by will by the late Horace Kelley, John Huntington and H. B. Hurlbut.

The value of the property they left for the gallery probably exceeds $750,000. In addition to this and made possible by a clause in the deed of gift of the magnificent Wade park to the city, Mr. J. H. Wade has given for the gallery a tract of land in the park facing Euclid avenue, near Adelbert college, in the heart of the fine new East End park way and boulevard system.

The gallery, work on which will probably begin next summer, will be a handsome building of classic design and the museum corporation will maintain in it an art gallery, an academic school of art and an art polytechnic school.

Favorable to Legislator-Soldiers.

COLUMBUS, March 16.—After a conference with Auditor of State Gilbert, Attorney General Monnett rendered a decision that the members of the Ohio legislature who served in the volunteer army in the war with Spain, can draw pay for both positions. The salary of several legislators has been held up pending this decision.

Dr. Scovel Very Ill.

WOOSTER, O., March 16.—S. F. Scovel, D. D., president of Wooster university, was considered in a critical condition as the result of a very large carbuncle over the jugular vein. He has been suffering for many weeks.

TORNADO IN ALABAMA.

Injured a Number of People and Destroyed Much Property.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 16.—A tornado struck the town of Avondale, on the eastern outskirts of the city, injuring a number of people and destroying much property.

Parsonage For Chaplain Hunter.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 16.—Letters were received here from the members of the Presbyterian church at Jamestown, Pa., stating that they had decided to build their pastor, Rev. Joseph L. Hunter, chaplain of the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment, a parsonage, and had adopted the "endless chain" system of letters to raise the funds.

BROOKE HAS THE POWER.

He Can Dissolve the Cuban Assembly If He Thinks Necessary—Gomez Will Ignore It.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The authorities consulted Gonzales Quesada, the Cuban representative, who has advised that the Cuban military assembly be allowed to run its course without molestation, as he holds that it has no strength outside of its own membership, and that any move to disband it would give the members an opportunity to appear as martyrs.

This view has been accepted thus far, and may continue, although General Brooke, being on the ground, has considerable latitude of action.

HAVANA, March 16.—General Gomez has decided to proceed with the plans agreed upon for distributing the $3,000,000 to the Cuban troops on disbanding, as though the military assembly did not exist.

General Brooke asked Washington several days ago whether, in case he dissolved the assembly, his action would be approved. The cabled reply authorized him to dissolve that body if, in his judgment, such an act was necessary. He hopes the assembly will soon cease of its own accord to hold its meetings, but should sessions disquieting to the public mind continue he will intervene.

ENTERTAINED CHOATE.

Lord Salisbury and Other Notables Attended a Banquet Given in London.

LONDON, March 16.—Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador to the court of St. James, made his first public appearance in England at the banquet of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, which was held at the Metropole hotel last evening. There was a brilliant and distinguished gathering, about 250 persons having been invited to meet the ambassador, including the lord chief justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen, the prime minister, the Marquis of Salisbury, and others.

Mr. Choate, who, on arriving, was heartily welcomed by the chairman and officials of the association, sat in the place of honor, on the right of the chairman.

TO RELATIVES OF THE DEAD.

Adj. Gen. Corbin Wishes Instructions Regarding Bodies of Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The following notice was given the press by Adjutant General Corbin:

"The secretary of war requests that parents and friends of soldiers who were killed around Santiago or who have since died in Cuba, desiring their remains sent home, send their home addresses to the quartermaster general, United States army, Washington. The remains upon arrival in this country will be sent by express to the address given. Otherwise the remains will be interred at Arlington."

ORDERED TO CAMP MEADE.

Major Wilkins Told to Have on Hand Supplies For Coming Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The re-establishment of Camp Meade, near Middletown, Pa., as a place for the muster out of volunteer troops is going rapidly forward. An officer of the quartermaster's department has been there some time and is now putting the camp in condition for the occupancy of the troops. Major Harry E. Wilkins, chief commissary of subsistence at New York, was ordered to Camp Meade to purchase and have on hand supplies to feed the troops when they reach there.

The difficulty that has already been encountered in southern ports has hastened matters at Meade.

SPANISH OFFICERS CONDEMNED.

Castellanos Said Soldiers Were Only Good Part of the Army.

MADRID, March 16.—An extraordinary speech made by General Castellanos, the Spanish governor general of Cuba, who was recently appointed captain general of Madrid, to the soldiers during an inspection which he made of the barracks caused intense anger in military circles.

The captain general said: "There is only one thing good in the army and it is the soldier himself. As to the officers, if they are derelict in their duty I am accustomed to send them to the galleys."

The officers have demanded that the minister of war, General Polaviega, take action in the matter.

To Accompany American Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Lieutenant Vitale, military attache of the Italian embassy, was granted permission by the war department to accompany troops from New York to San Francisco and thence to Manila and to remain with the army during the campaign in the Philippines. He desires to study, for his government, the American method of land and sea transportation of troops and to observe campaign methods in the islands.

Pingree Signed a Pet Measure.

LANSING, Mich., March 16.—Governor Pingree put the finishing touch to the legislation for which he has been contending since before his first term as governor, when he signed the Atkinson equal taxation bill. The act becomes operative immediately.

JOHN SHERMAN IS SICK.

Aged Statesman Has Pneumonia on the Paris.

HIS WIFE KEPT IN IGNORANCE.

Fearful of the Effect Upon Her, as She Is Not Entirely Recovered—The Patient Reported Better When the Steamer Reached St. Pierre, Martinique.

ST. PIERRE, Martinique, March 16.—On the arrival of the American line steamer Paris, Captain Watkins, from Fort De France, last evening, Mr. Sherman's physicians reported that his condition was much improved and gave ground for encouragement.

PORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, March 16.—John Sherman, who is a passenger on board the American line steamer Paris, Captain Frederick Watkins, which arrived here from Trinidad with the party of excursionists who are making a tour of the West Indian islands, is suffering from pneumonia.

While at San Juan de Porto Rico last Wednesday Mr. Sherman was entertained by Brigadier General Fred Grant, commander of the military department of San Juan, and caught cold. The malady was not considered serious until Tuesday night, after leaving Port of Spain, when pneumonia in the most serious form developed.

Dr. Graf of the Paris and Dr. Magoe of Duluth are attending him and Mr. and Mrs. Colgate Hoyt of New York and F. B. Wiborg of Cincinnati, close relations of Mr. Sherman, are constantly near him.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Several cablegrams were received from Fort de France regarding Former Secretary Sherman's condition. One, which came to General Miles, said the sufferer was much better and serious results were not feared. From the fact that Mr. Sherman was in first-class health when he left on the West Indian trip, the family here had every reason to hope that he will recover from the attack, as the dispatches concerning him say he is being given the best of care and attention. Mrs. Sherman is at her home in this city. The knowledge of her husband's condition is kept from her because of the effect it might have, as she has not entirely recovered from an attack of paralysis last fall.

MAJOR SMITH'S DENIAL.

American Press Association Not a Participant In Any Proposed Combine. Never Even Thought of It.

NEW YORK, March 16.—When shown the reports from Chicago regarding a great combination of all the ready print and plate houses, about to be formed in that city, Major O. J. Smith, president of the American Press association, with headquarters in this city and branches in all the principal cities of the United States, said:

"The report is utterly without the slightest foundation, and so far as this association is concerned, nothing of the kind has ever been talked of, or thought of."

Government Clerks Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—There was a heavy reduction in the clerical force of the war department, 120 employees being reduced in grade and 50 being discharged from the government service. The reason was the reduced state of the appropriations for their employment.

Mrs. Place to Be Executed.

ALBANY, March 16.—Governor Roosevelt refused to commute the sentence of Mrs. Martha Place, the Brooklyn murderer, and she will be electrocuted some day during the next week at Sing Sing prison.

Gomez Conferred With Brooke.

HAVANA, March 16.—General Gomez conferred with Governor General Brooke. The Patriota dissolved, after passing resolutions of adherence to Gomez.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The authorities consulted Gonzales Quesada, the Cuban representative, who has advised that the Cuban military assembly be allowed to run its course without molestation, as he holds that it has no strength outside of its own membership, and that any move to disband it would give the members an opportunity to appear as martyrs.

This view has been accepted thus far, and may continue, although General Brooke, being on the ground, has considerable latitude of action.

HAVANA, March 16.—General Gomez has decided to proceed with the plans agreed upon for distributing the $3,000,000 to the Cuban troops on disbanding, as though the military assembly did not exist.

General Brooke asked Washington several days ago whether, in case he dissolved the assembly, his action would be approved. The cabled reply authorized him to dissolve that body if, in his judgment, such an act was necessary. He hopes the assembly will soon cease of its own accord to hold its meetings, but should sessions disquieting to the public mind continue he will intervene.

ENTERTAINED CHOATE.

Lord Salisbury and Other Notables Attended a Banquet Given in London.

LONDON, March 16.—Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador to the court of St. James, made his first public appearance in England at the banquet of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, which was held at the Metropole hotel last evening. There was a brilliant and distinguished gathering, about 250 persons having been invited to meet the ambassador, including the lord chief justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen, the prime minister, the Marquis of Salisbury, and others.

Mr. Choate, who, on arriving, was heartily welcomed by the chairman and officials of the association, sat in the place of honor, on the right of the chairman.

TO RELATIVES OF THE DEAD.

Adj. Gen. Corbin Wishes Instructions Regarding Bodies of Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The following notice was given the press by Adjutant General Corbin:

"The secretary of war requests that parents and friends of soldiers who were killed around Santiago or who have since died in Cuba, desiring their remains sent home, send their home addresses to the quartermaster general, United States army, Washington. The remains upon arrival in this country will be sent by express to the address given. Otherwise the remains will be interred at Arlington."

ORDERED TO CAMP MEADE.

Major Wilkins Told to Have on Hand Supplies For Coming Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The re-establishment of Camp Meade, near Middletown, Pa., as a place for the muster out of volunteer troops is going rapidly forward. An officer of the quartermaster's department has been there some time and is now putting the camp in condition for the occupancy of the troops. Major Harry E. Wilkins, chief commissary of subsistence at New York, was ordered to Camp Meade to purchase and have on hand supplies to feed the troops when they reach there.

The difficulty that has already been encountered in southern ports has hastened matters at Meade.

SPANISH OFFICERS CONDEMNED.

Castellanos Said Soldiers Were Only Good Part of the Army.

MADRID, March 16.—An extraordinary speech made by General Castellanos, the Spanish governor general of Cuba, who was recently appointed captain general of Madrid, to the soldiers during an inspection which he made of the barracks caused intense anger in military circles.

The captain general said:

"There is only one thing good in the army and it is the soldier himself. As to the officers, if they are derelict in their duty I am accustomed to send them to the gallies."

The officers have demanded that the minister of war, General Polaviega, take action in the matter.

To Accompany American Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Lieutenant Vitale, military attache of the Italian embassy, was granted permission by the war department to accompany troops from New York to San Francisco and thence to Manila and to remain with the army during the campaign in the Philippines. He desires to study, for his government, the American method of land and sea transportation of troops and to observe campaign methods in the islands.

Pinigree Signed a Pet Measure.

LANSING, Mich., March 16.—Governor Pinigree put the finishing touch to the legislation for which he has been contending since before his first term as governor, when he signed the Atkinson equal taxation bill. The act becomes operative immediately.

JOHN SHERMAN IS SICK.

Aged Statesman Has Pneumonia on the Paris.

HIS WIFE KEPT IN IGNORANCE.

Fearful of the Effect Upon Her, as She Is Not Entirely Recovered—The Patient Reported Better When the Steamer Reached St. Pierre, Martinique.

ST. PIERRE, Martinique, March 16.—On the arrival of the American line steamer Paris, Captain Watkins, from Fort De France, last evening, Mr. Sherman's physicians reported that his condition was much improved and gave ground for encouragement.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, March 16.—John Sherman, who is a passenger on board the American line steamer Paris, Captain Frederick Watkins, which arrived here from Trinidad with the party of excursionists who are making a tour of the West Indian islands, is suffering from pneumonia.

While at San Juan de Porto Rico last Wednesday Mr. Sherman was entertained by Brigadier General Fred Grant, commander of the military department of San Juan, and caught cold. The malady was not considered serious until Tuesday night, after leaving Port of Spain, when pneumonia in the most serious form developed.

Dr. Graf of the Paris and Dr. Magee of Duluth are attending him and Mr. and Mrs. Colgate Hoyt of New York and F. B. Wiborg of Cincinnati, close relations of Mr. Sherman, are constantly near him.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Several cablegrams were received from Fort de France regarding Former Secretary Sherman's condition. One, which came to General Miles, said the sufferer was much better and serious results were not feared. From the fact that Mr. Sherman was in first-class health when he left on the West Indian trip, the family here had every reason to hope that he will recover from the attack, as the dispatches concerning him say he is being given the best of care and attention. Mrs. Sherman is at her home in this city. The knowledge of her husband's condition is kept from her because of the effect it might have, as she has not entirely recovered from an attack of paralysis last fall.

MAJOR SMITH'S DENIAL.

American Press Association Not a Participant in Any Proposed Combine.

Never Even Thought of It.

NEW YORK, March 16.—When shown the reports from Chicago regarding a great combination of all the ready print and plate houses, about to be formed in that city, Major O. J. Smith, president of the American Press association, with headquarters in this city and branches in all the principal cities of the United States, said:

"The report is utterly without the slightest foundation, and so far as this association is concerned, nothing of the kind has ever been talked of, or thought of."

Gomez Conferred With Brooke.

Government Clerks Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—There was a heavy reduction in the clerical force of the war department, 120 employees being reduced in grade and 60 being discharged from the government service. The reason was the reduced state of the appropriations for their employment.

Mrs. Place to Be Executed.

ALBANY, March 16.—Governor Roosevelt refused to commute the sentence of Mrs. Martha Place, the Brooklyn murderer, and she will be electrocuted some day during the next week at Sing Sing prison.

Gomez Conferred With Brooke.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1899.

FILIPINOS DEFEATED.

Wheaton Routed a Force of About 2,000.

A HEAVY LOSS WAS INFLICTED.

Bodies of Some of the Dead Seen Floating Down the River—Over 300 of the Rebels Captured—More Than 100 Dead Found and New Made Graves.

MANILA, March 16.—General Lloyd Wheaton, commanding the United States flying column, attacked and defeated a force of 2,000 Filipinos at Pasig Wednesday afternoon, inflicting a heavy loss upon them. The American loss was slight. Many bodies of rebels killed in the engagement were floating down the river.

Private Fernoff of Company L, Twentieth regiment, was killed.

The wounded were:

Private Newman, Company F, Twentieth regiment.

Private Carroll, Company A, Twenty-second regiment.

Private Rogers, Company L, Twenty-second regiment.

About 350 Filipinos surrendered at the town of Taguig to the Washington regiment and 175 were captured at Pasig by the Twentieth regiment.

Our troops found 106 dead Filipinos and 100 new graves near Pasig.

The prisoners were unarmed and, therefore, it was presumed they executed their threat of throwing their arms into the river.

LONDON, March 16.—The Evening News published the following dispatch from Manila:

"General Wheaton has probably routed the Filipinos and has occupied Pasig, Taguig and Pateros. Several hundred of the enemy were killed and as many were captured."

"General Otis says this is the greatest victory since Feb. 5. The Americans will now press toward Aguinaldo's headquarters."

WASHINGTON, March 16.—General Otis has cabled the following list of casualties suffered by the United States troops Monday:

"MANILA, March 15.

Adjutant General, Washington:

"Casualties March 13, near Caloocan:

"Killed—Twenty-two Kansas, Company L, Private James W. Kline.

"Wounded—Twenty-second infantry, M, Privates William Renshaw, leg, moderate; D, Willet Herman, scalp, slight; William S. O'Brien, head, severe; John Mubahille, scalp, slight; A, Theodore A. Mizner, finger, severe; Daniel Carroll, forearm, slight; E, Joseph Hoffman, thigh, severe; Joseph B. Cox, thumb, severe; I, John Blazek, chest, severe; David Mulholland, arm, moderate.

Piper, thigh, slight; G, Lester M. Folger, neck, slight; H, Charles Sharkey, thigh, slight; Charles Davis, neck, severe. Second Oregon, B, Private Walter Irwin, foot, moderate, accidental injury. Twenty-second infantry, B, Corporal Charles J. Uxley, confusion, side. Twentieth infantry, E, Privates William Sampson, sprain, ankle; H, Adolph G. Koelher, sprain, ankle; B, Peter J. Phelan, hand, moderate; F, Corporal John E. Hoffman, sprain, ankle. March 14, near Guadalupe, killed: First Washington, E, Private Ralph Van Buskirk. Wounded, Second Oregon, D, Privates Alfred O. Carden, chest, severe; F, W. O. B. Dodson, ankle, slight; E, Charles J. Olson, foot, severe.

(Signed) "OTIS."

The following dispatch from General Otis was also received:

"MANILA, March 15.

Adjutant General, Washington:

"Three thousand insurgents moved down last night to towns of Pasig and Pateros, on shore Laguna bay, fronting Wheaton's troops on Pasig river line; by heavy fighting Wheaton has dislodged and driven them back, taking 400 prisoners and inflicting heavy loss in killed and wounded; he reports his loss as very moderate; he now occupies these towns with sufficient force to hold them.

(Signed) "OTIS."

LONDON, March 16.—The Daily Graphic published this morning a letter from a British naval officer in Manila, under date of Feb. 7, describing the beginning of the fighting between the Americans and Filipinos, which, he says, was due to an attempt on the part of the latter to rush an American post.

"The British officers," he continues, "were not allowed to land until the day following the battle, and were even then prohibited from going to the front, but on yesterday's battlefield I saw Filipino prisoners burying heaps of their dead.

"It cannot for a moment be doubted that the Americans fought with gallantry and pluck, while the rebels, who were armed with Mausers and Remingtons, maintained a stubborn defense. Their dead bodies testify to this. It is also clear that the Filipinos were astounded and demoralized by the American tactics and the vigorous pursuit the Americans kept up throughout the day, instead of following, as the Filipinos expected, the Spanish custom of midday rest."

TO SIGN THE TREATY.

Spanish Cabinet Decided It Will Follow Dissolution of Cortes.

MADRID, March 16.—The cabinet council decided that the treaty of peace with the United States should be ratified immediately after the dissolution of the cortes, which will probably be decreed today.

HARD BLOWS AT BEEF.

Canned Article Made Soldiers Sick—Witness Said Dead Maggots Were Canned With the Meat.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The court of inquiry investigating the beef controversy held a short executive session Wednesday afternoon and determined to leave last night for Omaha, where an inspection of the stockyards will be made.

Then the members will proceed to Kansas City. It is the expectation of the court to return to Chicago by Tuesday of next week, when the examination of witnesses will be proceeded with.

During the hearing here an officer of the regular army, First Lieutenant M. J. Davis of the First cavalry, was called at the request of Major Lee, representative of General Miles.

Lieutenant Davis testified that in Cuba one-half the canned roast beef issued to the soldiers was thrown away because it was unfit to eat. He testified that he had opened one can himself and found maggots in it.

Major Lee asked: "How did the maggots get in there?"

"They were canned in there," the witness replied.

Colonel Davis:

"Are you aware that in the process of canning this meat undergoes such an intense heat that no animal life could survive in it?"

Major John Bliss Shaw, a local physician, who was with the Third Illinois in Porto Rico, told about being called out one night to look after the men of Company A, who were reported to have been poisoned by eating canned roast beef. He said they vomited fearfully, and it seemed that hypodermic injections of morphine would hardly relieve the pain. They were sick for some days afterward, with a great deal of diarrhoea and intestinal trouble.

"When the men ceased eating the canned roast beef was there any improvement?" asked Major Lee.

"Yes; the canned roast beef generally gave them diarrhoea and gastro-enteritis."

Further along this question was asked:

"We tried to have it served immediately, but under that intense heat putrefaction would set in almost as soon as the can was opened. I think ptomaines were developed almost immediately after the opening of the cans."

He also gave other testimony.

Colonel Fred Bennett of the Third Illinois testified that the canned beef was bad and that some of the refrigerated beef showed signs of decomposition and was covered with a greenish mold.

"I went to General Grant," said the witness, "a great many times to speak about the condition of the beef, but he always claimed it was the fault of the cooks."

Colonel Bennett is a lawyer and has at times acted as attorney for stockyards companies. He was asked by Major Lee what class of cattle is used in the canning process.

"Very inferior," was the answer.

Packhouse Expert Leets of Chicago was asked what was meant by the class of cattle called "canners." "The most inferior of cattle," he said. "A majority of these animals would be condemned in an English market."

The witness startled the commissioners by stating that a large number of condemned cattle were used in many packinghouses in the manufacture of canned beef.

William Replogle, a member of the auxiliary hospital corps, stated that he had opened cans of beef in Porto Rico while maggots hung to the cover.

The witness recalled an incident which interested the representative of General Miles. A soldier had been unable to get rations, according to the witness, and was forced to eat the canned beef, saying at the time that he could not keep it on his stomach. Within a week he died. Replogle also testified that maggots had been found in the refrigerated beef.

Others also testified.

Acquitted of Murder Charge.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Baron Curt Von Biedenfeld was acquitted of the charge of murder in the killing of Constable Charles McDonald. He killed him during a quarrel.

Governor Dyer Renominated.

PROVIDENCE, March 16.—The annual convention of the Republican party of Rhode Island was held here, Governor Dyer of Providence and the other state officers were unanimously renominated.

A RUN ON A BANK.

Depositors Crowded Into a Cincinnati Institution.

A MAD DEPOSITOR SUSPECTED.

He Had Been Ordered to Withdraw His Money and Was Believed to Have Circulated Stories as to the Bank's Condition—Police Enforced Order.

CINCINNATI, March 16.—The Cincinnati Savings society, 43 and 45 West Fifth street, was the scene of a panicky run. The officers of the bank suspect that a disgruntled depositor, who had been asked to withdraw his account and threatened to get even, circulated the story that the bank was in bad condition. It has nearly 14,000 depositors. When the bank opened a crowd of depositors were waiting to draw their money.

Some of them neglected to bring their books and were sent after them. These spread the alarm. Frightened women and men crowded around the place so that it was necessary to call policemen to preserve order. Meantime, the bank paid as rapidly as possible. In the afternoon the crush was so great that two patrol wagons were brought up and ropes stretched across the sidewalk so that the crowd could be kept in order.

About 4 o'clock the doors were closed with the announcement that they would be open at 9 o'clock this morning. The police with difficulty cleared the sidewalks. All the banks of the city believed in the soundness of the Savings society, and freely offered it all the money it needed.

The value of the property they left for the gallery probably exceeds $750,000. In addition to this and made possible by a clause in the deed of gift of the magnificent Wade park to the city, Mr. J. H. Wade has given for the gallery a tract of land in the park facing Euclid avenue, near Adelbert college, in the heart of the fine new East End park way and boulevard system.

The gallery, work on which will probably begin next summer, will be a handsome building of classic design and the museum corporation will maintain in it an art gallery, an academic school of art and an art polytechnic school.

Favorable to Legislator-Soldiers.

COLUMBUS, March 16.—After a conference with Auditor of State Gilbert, Attorney General Monnett rendered a decision that the members of the Ohio legislature who served in the volunteer army in the war with Spain, can draw pay for both positions. The salary of several legislators has been held up pending this decision.

Dr. Scovel Very Ill.

WOOSTER, O., March 16.—S. F. Scovel, D. D., president of Wooster university, was considered in a critical condition as the result of a very large carbuncle over the jugular vein. He has been suffering for many weeks.

THE EAST END. NEAR THE STATE LINE

A Chapel Will Be Built by Methodists.

TWO CHURCHES ARE INTERESTED

Ground Has Been Purchased, and Work Will Be Commenced Soon—Little Girl May Lose Her Foot—Postoffice Had a Big Month.

The trustees of the First and Second M. E. churches have purchased a piece of ground near the state line and possibly next week will commence the erection of a chapel. The deal for the ground was completed several weeks ago, and much of the work reflects credit on the members of the Second church. Next Sunday a mission will be organized in the Neville institute at Dry Run under the leadership of Reverend Haverfield, and it is thought that gentleman will have charge of the new mission. It is the intention of the two churches to convert the mission into a third church should it be profitable.

Property to Change Hands.

No less than six real estate agents were in East End yesterday, with as many prospective customers. None of the agents will say anything, but it was learned last evening considerable property will change hands within the next few weeks. Most of the land which will be bought during the season is situated near the race track and on the ridge overlooking the river.

Building News.

Frederick Rayl will commence the erection of a residence in Pennsylvania avenue, Helana, within a few weeks. The home will contain all the modern improvements.

Work on the residence of Captain Martin in Mulberry street is progressing rapidly and by the last of April it will be ready for occupancy.

Finley Cooley has commenced the erection of an addition to his home in Pennsylvania avenue.

The Alarm Failed to Sound.

Last evening Thomas Bucheit, living on the Andrews farm, returned to his home rather late. He went in the house quietly and went to bed. This morning a searching party was instituted, and after hunting about the hills several hours returned to the house, and upon going to his room found him in bed. The trouble came about by the failure of an alarm clock to sound.

New Wagon Arrived.

The horses used in hauling the patrol at fire station No. 1 were taken to station No. 2 yesterday afternoon to replace the horses used at that place since it was opened. The wagon was converted into a one-horse hitch, the other horse to be used in the street wagon, also brought up yesterday afternoon. Chief Morley and Fireman Bryan assisted Fireman Terrence in making the change.

Opened For Traffic.

Pennsylvania avenue, which has been closed to traffic since last fall, was opened yesterday morning. The closing was caused by the improving of the culvert, and now that the derick has been removed to the opposite side of the street many teamsters and farmers are glad. The culvert will not be completed for many weeks, although work is being done every day.

Hig Postal Business.

The receipts at the postoffice for the month ending last night were very large and more business was handled during the month than was the same month of last year. When the quarterly report is completed it will show an increase over the report of the last quarter.

May Lose Her Foot.

It is thought that Nora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, of Grandview street, will be compelled to suffer an operation of the left foot. The member was burned some time ago and recently has turned black and is causing her much pain at present.

Among the Sick.

Chambers Smith is ill at his home with a slight attack of fever. His condition is not serious.

The condition of Lincoln Harker continues to improve and it is now thought his recovery is but a matter of a short time.

Baseball Meeting.

A meeting of the East End Red baseball club is scheduled for tomorrow evening. Several vacant positions in the club will be filled and a manager will also be selected.

Coming to Town.

S. G. Kernott, of Catlettsburg, Ky., has written friends in this city that he will move his family and effects to East End March 22. He has rented a home in Helana.

NO REVENUE STAMPS

Are Required on the Expense Accounts of Candidates.

Secretary of State Kinney has given out for publication the following statement:

"The question as to whether candidates' statements of expenses, as required by the corrupt practices act, and nomination papers should bear the revenue stamp, has been frequently submitted to the secretary of state. In order to obtain definite information upon the subject, Secretary of State Kinney addressed a telegram to the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, requesting a ruling upon these questions, and today received a telegram in answer as follows:

NEW SAMPLES.

Potteries Are Again After Their Old Trade.

A number of potteries are arranging new samples for their travelers, and in a short time they will be presented to the trade.

"The time lost in waiting for the trust to begin business is being made up as rapidly as possible," said a well informed manufacturer. "Those few months cost Liverpool a pretty penny because no preparation for capturing trade was made. But that is all gone now. No buyers are being turned away."

MORMON ELDERS

Came to the City Last Night From Cleveland.

Elders Burton and Erickson, of the Mormon church, arrived in the city last night from Cleveland. They attempted to keep out of the way of a reporter in Second street, and when asked what they intended to do while in the city refused to talk. They went to the home of one of the members of their belief, and this morning it was learned they would remain in the city the remainder of the week.

MARLATT IS QUIET.

The Last Punishment Did Him Some Good.

Demon Marlatt has again subsided and is behaving himself very well at the penitentiary, but is being closely watched. He has quit talking to himself and does not worry the guards.

But his cage is not empty. Instead it is occupied by Frenchy Wings, another notorious prisoner. He refused to eat the food given him, and is now being disciplined.

STOLE A HAT.

Some Sneak Thief Called on a Dancing Party.

Monday evening at the Chevalier club dance some one stole a $4 hat and an ostrich plume which had been left in the cloak room.

The fellow was seen by parties in the hall and his description was furnished the police who watched the trains during the night, but failed to locate the man.

On the River.

Business was somewhat quiet on the river yesterday. Packets had the channel to themselves. The Virginia took a good trip to Cincinnati and the Avalon left for Charleston.

The stage of water last night was 9 feet and falling. The rainfall of the past 48 hours caused the perceptible difference in the condition of the river.

The Ben Hur will be down tonight, and the Lorena and Greenwood were up this afternoon with large cargoes. The Greenwood will be down tomorrow evening. The Queen City is due up tomorrow from Cincinnati.

New Weather Prophet.

The employees about the freight depot now have great faith in Agent T. J. Thomas as a weather prophet. Yesterday morning it is said Mr. Thomas told the boys colder weather would set in before the day was over, and since his prediction was true the boys are anxiously waiting the time when he will forecast warmer weather.

ON CORREGIDOR ISLAND.

New Site For the American
Army Hospital at Manila.

THE SITUATION IS DELIGHTFUL.

Island Where Our Soldiers Are Taken to Recuperate Is at the Mouth of Manila Bay—Natural Fortress That Commands the Approach to the City.

Arthur C. Johnson, special war correspondent of The Rocky Mountain News, writing from Manila under date of Jan. 22, describes the new site for the American army hospital at Manila as follows:

Corregidor island may be termed one of the beauty spots of the Philippine group. Compared to nearly all the other islands of the archipelago it is but a mere speck protruding from the sea, but close investigation discovers a stretch of nearly three miles of picturesque rocks, banana and pineapple groves, bubbling springs and sheltered little bays on the shore line.

Corregidor, or Alderman, island is located squarely in the entrance to Manila bay. Its rocky promontories have for centuries frowned down on the sea craft which have crept past its base to gain the broad expanse of Manila bay and tack away to the city of Manila, 28 miles off. It halted the Spanish galleons which 200 years ago entered and left the bay bound to and from Mexico twice a year with their loads of treasure. The island was the first to inspect the ships of England, France and Germany when they came poking their noses into the bay looking for trade. When Dewey and the Americans sailed past the island in the gloom of midnight a hoarse gun on a Corregidor hill demanded "Halt!" but failed to bring down its man when the order was not obeyed.

On Dec 1 the government took its first steps toward instituting a convalescent hospital on Corregidor island. The 5,000 bed hospital which formerly existed in Camp Merritt, San Francisco, had been transported to Manila on the Scandia. Major Owens, with Steward R. F. Geraghty as his right hand man and 50 hospital men of the regular service, went to Corregidor and cleared space for the hospital. Today there is a little colony of tents situated where the old Spanish arsenal stood, and 200 patients who have run the gantlet of the army hospitals in Manila bask in the sunshine and drink in the drafts of fresh sea air. The waves of a tiny cove lap the shore beside the camp and make an excellent bathing place.

The regular boat service to Corregidor was inaugurated on Christmas day, 1898. Thomas J. Tarsney, formerly adjutant general of the state of Colorado, is at the head of the enterprise, and the company is already doing a lucrative excursion business as well as handling government transportation contracts. The side wheel steamer Manila leaves the Pasig river wharf each morning at 8:30 loaded with the 24 hours' supply of fresh meat for the Robinson Crusoes on Corregidor, pale faced soldiers and pleasure seekers.

The journey requires three hours. At the end of that time the traveler has begun to pay some attention to the little heap of rocks and is able to discern a tower on the very pinnacle of a small mountain, which turns out to be the celebrated revolving Corregidor light, which may be seen 20 miles out in the China sea. This lighthouse is now in charge of a United States signal corps detachment. There are about 500 Filipinos on the island, so it is necessary to garrison the place to protect the hospital. The Pennsylvania camp is but a few hundred yards along the shore from the village of Corregidor.

High up on the promontory overhanging the town may be seen the vine clad ancient fortifications of the Spaniards. From the wharf the road divides, one branch entering the little thatched village and the other passing through a queer little gate built into the cliffs and opening the way to the collection of arsenal buildings, little whitewashed stone affairs, which have all been occupied by Steward Geraghty and his hospital.

The tent space for the hospital has been cleared from banana groves. The tents are pitched end to end, usually on slightly sloping ground, which is well drained. The front opening of a ward discloses a long aisle of center poles and cots. The patients are all dismissed and either running about or lolling on their army blankets. The buildings which were occupied by the old Spanish garrison have been turned into quarters and storerooms. One of the principal places of storage for the hospital is the little Corregidor church. This is a cement building about 40 feet long and fitted with the regulation chapel altar. A huge sheet of canvas has been hung up to protect the images and fittings of the altar and the entire front of the church piled with scores of chests of military medical supplies, barrels of brandy, army blankets, mattresses and all the necessities of a well equipped hospital.

The island is heavily wooded with mountainous tropical growths, and the shore is niced with bays. The rocks points have command of the region for 20 miles around and will make wonderfully strong battery points when the United States commences to modernize the defenses of Manila.

At 3 o'clock the steamer draws away from the wharf, and Corregidor has pulled up her drawbridge for the night. During the present insurgent troubles the little garrison on the island, including the hospital corps, stays by its arms, for the natives of the island have been infused with Aguinaldo doctrines and are continually in signal call with their brothers of the mainland.

Climate and Consumption.

I am in favor of treating tuberculous patients near their homes and in the same or nearly the same climate as that in which they will have to live and work after their restoration to health. My reasons for advocating such principles are founded on the experiences of all modern phthisio-therapists, who have demonstrated that the hygienic and dietetic treatment in special sanitariums is feasible and successful in nearly all climates.

I know from personal observation that cures of pulmonary tuberculosis effected in our ordinary home climates, which are on the average not considered as especially favorable to this class of sufferers, have been more lasting and more assured than cures obtained in more genial climates.

And, with all due deference to the opinions of others, I do not believe there exists any climate which has a special curative quality for any form of pulmonary tuberculosis. Climate can only be considered as a more or less valuable adjunct in the treatment of consumption, but not a specific.—S. A. Knopf, M. D., in North American Review.

Didn't Lose Any Sleep.

Jenner, the famous English physician, was essentially a strong and self reliant man. He attended the prince consort through his fatal illness, he was the Prince of Wales' doctor when the heir to the British throne had so narrow an escape in 1872, and he also went to Darmstadt and remained in attendance upon the Princess Alice till she died. To practice medicine in "the fierce light that beats upon a throne" is not calculated to lessen the physician's anxieties, and one who knew Jenner well once questioned him on this point and hinted that his responsibilities must sometimes be sufficient to render sleep or rest impossible.

"Sleep," replied Jenner in his characteristic way, "I don't think that anxiety about a patient ever kept me awake five minutes in my life. I go to a bedside. I do my best. What more can I do? Why should I not sleep?"

Fishing for Health.

When a man breaks down with that dread disease, consumption, and recognizes his condition, he starts out to fish for health. He tries this thing and that thing. He consults this doctor and that doctor. He indulges in all kinds of absurd athletic exercises. He tries first one climate and then another. He tries the rest cure and the work cure. He grows steadily worse. That is the story of most consumptives. Finally, when the consumptive dies, the doctor shrugs his shoulders and pronounces consumption incurable. A thirty years' test of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has demonstrated that it cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, before the lungs are too far wasted. In a consumptive there is a weaker spot than even the lungs. That spot is the stomach. A consumptive never really begins to die until his stomach gives out. The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only braces up the stomach, but acts directly on the lungs, healing them and driving out all impurities. Honest medicine dealers will not urge you to take an inferior substitute.

"I had a very bad cough, also night sweats, and was almost in my grave with consumption," writes Mrs. Clara A. McIntyre, Box 171, Ashland, Middlesex Co., Mass. A friend of mine who had died with consumption came to me in a dream and told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thank the Lord, I did so. By the time I had taken half of the first bottle I felt much better. I kept on until I had taken three bottles. That was all I needed. I got well and strong again."

Whenever constipation is one of the complicating causes of disease, the most perfect remedy is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are always effective, yet absolutely mild and harmless. There never was any remedy invented which can take their place. They never gripe.

READ, MARK, LEARN.

Some Pertinent Questions That Can Be Answered With One Reply.

Why is it that in East Liverpool and its suburbs with a combined population of 1,400 there is only one medical preparation which gives statements from residents to back up its representations? Why is it that Doan's Kidney Pills do this in East Liverpool as in every other town and city of any importance in the Union?

Why is it that there are advertised in every newspaper a dozen remedies and only one can supply local proof, local endorsement of its claims?

The solution of the problem is simple. Only one remedy has the curing and staying power. Other remedies make all kinds of gigantic yet futile efforts to get local proof but the attempt ends in producing a statement or two from places that as far as East Liverpool is concerned might just as well live in the moon.

Mrs. William James who lives at 235 Third street, says: "I was troubled off and on for eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys, a dull aching pain across my loins, up under my shoulder blades and rheumatic pains in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes in the weather and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing a frequent fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. I generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and obtained instant relief. The symptoms all left, and there was nothing wrong with my kidneys after the treatment."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

THE EAST END. NEAR THE STATE LINE

A Chapel Will Be Built by Methodists.

Ground Has Been Purchased, and Work Will Be Commenced Soon—Little Girl May Lose Her Foot—Postoffice Had a Big Month.

The trustees of the First and Second M. E. churches have purchased a piece of ground near the state line and possibly next week will commence the erection of a chapel. The deal for the ground was completed several weeks ago, and much of the work reflects credit on the members of the Second church. Next Sunday a mission will be organized in the Neville institute at Dry Run under the leadership of Reverend Haverfield, and it is thought that gentleman will have charge of the new mission. It is the intention of the two churches to convert the mission into a third church should it be profitable.

Property to Change Hands.

No less than six real estate agents were in East End yesterday, with as many prospective customers. None of the agents will say anything, but it was learned last evening considerable property will change hands within the next few weeks. Most of the land which will be bought during the season is situated near the race track and on the ridge overlooking the river.

Building News.

Frederick Rayl will commence the erection of a residence in Pennsylvania avenue, Helana, within a few weeks. The home will contain all the modern improvements.

Work on the residence of Captain Martin in Mulberry street is progressing rapidly and by the last of April it will be ready for occupancy.

Finley Cooley has commenced the erection of an addition to his home in Pennsylvania avenue.

The Alarm Failed to Sound.

Last evening Thomas Bucheit, living on the Andrews farm, returned to his home rather late. He went in the house quietly and went to bed. This morning a searching party was instituted, and after hunting about the hills several hours returned to the house, and upon going to his room found him in bed. The trouble came about by the failure of an alarm clock to sound.

New Wagon Arrived.

The horses used in hauling the patrol at fire station No. 1 were taken to station No. 2 yesterday afternoon to replace the horses used at that place since it was opened. The wagon was converted into a one-horse hitch, the other horse to be used in the street wagon, also brought up yesterday afternoon. Chief Morley and Fireman Bryan assisted Fireman Terrence in making the change.

Opened For Traffic.

Pennsylvania avenue, which has been closed to traffic since last fall, was opened yesterday morning. The closing was caused by the improving of the culvert, and now that the derrick has been removed to the opposite side of the street many teamsters and farmers are glad. The culvert will not be completed for many weeks, although work is being done every day.

Big Postal Business.

The receipts at the postoffice for the month ending last night were very large and more business was handled during the month than was the same month of last year. When the quarterly report is completed it will show an increase over the report of the last quarter.

May Lose Her Foot.

It is thought that Nora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, of Grandview street, will be compelled to suffer an operation of the left foot. The member was burned some time ago and recently has turned black and is causing her much pain at present.

Among the Sick.

Chambers Smith is ill at his home with a slight attack of fever. His condition is not serious.

The condition of Lincoln Harker continues to improve and it is now thought his recovery is but a matter of a short time.

Baseball Meeting.

A meeting of the East End Red baseball club is scheduled for tomorrow evening. Several vacant positions in the club will be filled and a manager will also be selected.

Coming to Town.

S. G. Kernott, of Catlettsburg, Ky., has written friends in this city that he will move his family and effects to East End March 22. He has rented a home in Helana.

NO REVENUE STAMPS

Are Required on the Expense Accounts of Candidates.

Secretary of State Kinney has given out for publication the following statement:

"The question as to whether candidates' statements of expenses, as required by the corrupt practices act, and nomination papers should bear the revenue stamp, has been frequently submitted to the secretary of state. In order to obtain definite information upon the subject, Secretary of State Kinney addressed a telegram to the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, requesting a ruling upon these questions, and today received a telegram in answer as follows:

"No stamps are required under internal revenue laws on any instruments pertaining to the exercise of the elective franchise, such as statements of expenses incurred by candidates."

NEW SAMPLES,

Potteries Are Again After Their Old Trade.

A number of potteries are arranging new samples for their travelers, and in a short time they will be presented to the trade.

"The time lost in waiting for the trust to begin business is being made up as rapidly as possible," said a well informed manufacturer. "Those few months cost Liverpool a pretty penny because no preparation for capturing trade was made. But that is all gone now. No buyers are being turned away."

MORMON ELDERS

Came to the City Last Night From Cleveland.

Elders Burton and Erickson, of the Mormon church, arrived in the city last night from Cleveland. They attempted to keep out of the way of a reporter in Second street, and when asked what they intended to do while in the city refused to talk. They went to the home of one of the members of their belief, and this morning it was learned they would remain in the city the remainder of the week.

MARLATT IS QUIET.

The Last Punishment Did Him Some Good.

Demon Marlatt has again subsided and is behaving himself very well at the penitentiary, but is being closely watched. He has quit talking to himself and does not worry the guards.

But his cage is not empty. Instead it is occupied by Frenchy Wings, another notorious prisoner. He refused to eat the food given him, and is now being disciplined.

STOLE A HAT.

Some Sneak Thief Called on a Dancing Party.

Monday evening at the Chevalier club dance some one stole a $4 hat and an ostrich plume which had been left in the cloak room.

The fellow was seen by parties in the hall and his description was furnished the police who watched the trains during the night, but failed to locate the man.

Fishing for Health.

When a man breaks down with that dread disease, consumption, and recognizes his condition, he starts out to fish for health. He tries this thing and that thing. He consults his doctor and that doctor. He indulges in all kinds of absurd athletic exercises. He tries first one climate and then another. He tries the rest cure and the work cure. He grows steadily worse. That is the story of most consumptives. Finally, when the consumptive dies, the doctor shrugs his shoulders and pronounces consumption incurable. A thirty years' test of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has demonstrated that it cures over 90 per cent. of all cases of consumption, taken in the earlier stages of the disease, before the lungs are too far wasted. In a consumptive there is a weaker spot than even the lungs. That spot is the stomach. A consumptive never really begins to die until his stomach gives out. The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only braces up the stomach, but acts directly on the lungs, healing them and driving out all impurities. Honest medicine dealers will not urge you to take an inferior substitute.

"I had a very bad cough, also night-sweats, and was almost in my grave with consumption," writes Mrs. Clara A. McIntyre, Box 171, Ashland, Middlesex Co., Mass. "A friend of mine who had died with consumption came to me in a dream and told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thank the Lord, I did so. By the time I had taken half of the first bottle I felt much better. I kept on until I had taken three bottles. That was all I needed. I got well and strong again."

Whenever constipation is one of the complicating causes of disease, the most perfect remedy is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are always effective, yet absolutely mild and harmless. There never was any remedy invented which can take their place. They never gripe.

Some Pertinent Questions That Can Be Answered With One Reply.

Why is it that in East Liverpool and its suburbs with a combined population of 1,400 there is only one medical preparation which gives statements from residents to back up its representations? Why is it that Doan's Kidney Pills do this in East Liverpool as in every other town and city of any importance in the Union?

Why is it that there are advertised in every newspaper a dozen remedies, and only one can supply local proof, local endorsement of its claims?

The solution of the problem is simple. Only one remedy has the curing and staying power. Other remedies make all kinds of gigantic yet futile efforts to get local proof but the attempt ends in producing a statement or two from places that as far as East Liverpool is concerned might just as well live in the moon.

Mrs. William James who lives at 283 Third street, says: "I was troubled off and on for eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys, a dull aching pain across my loins, up under my shoulder blades and rheumatic pains in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes in the weather and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing a frequent fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. I generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and obtained instant relief. The symptoms all left, and there was nothing wrong with my kidneys after the treatment."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Insured Harrison's Renomination.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The result of the Democratic primaries, which were held here, insured the renomination of Carter H. Harrison for mayor. No opposition to the Harrison ticket was made at the polls by the adherents of ex-Governor Altgeld, who will run as an independent candidate.

THE EAST END.

NEAR THE STATE LINE

A Chapel Will Be Built by Methodists.

Ground Has Been Purchased, and Work Will Be Commenced Soon—Little Girl May Lose Her Foot—Postoffice Had a Big Month.

The trustees of the First and Second M. E. churches have purchased a piece of ground near the state line and possibly next week will commence the erection of a chapel. The deal for the ground was completed several weeks ago, and much of the work reflects credit on the members of the Second church. Next Sunday a mission will be organized in the Neville institute at Dry Run under the leadership of Reverend Haverfield, and it is thought that gentleman will have charge of the new mission. It is the intention of the two churches to convert the mission into a third church should it be profitable.

Property to Change Hands.

No less than six real estate agents were in East End yesterday, with as many prospective customers. None of the agents will say anything, but it was learned last evening considerable property will change hands within the next few weeks. Most of the land which will be bought during the season is situated near the race track and on the ridge overlooking the river.

Building News.

Frederick Rayl will commence the erection of a residence in Pennsylvania avenue, Helana, within a few weeks. The home will contain all the modern improvements.

Work on the residence of Captain Martin in Mulberry street is progressing rapidly and by the last of April it will be ready for occupancy.

Finley Cooley has commenced the erection of an addition to his home in Pennsylvania avenue.

The Alarm Failed to Sound.

Last evening Thomas Bucheit, living on the Andrews farm, returned to his home rather late. He went in the house quietly and went to bed. This morning a searching party was instituted, and after hunting about the hills several hours returned to the house, and upon going to his room found him in bed. The trouble came about by the failure of an alarm clock to sound.

New Wagon Arrived.

The horses used in hauling the patrol at fire station No. 1 were taken to station No. 2 yesterday afternoon to replace the horses used at that place since it was opened. The wagon was converted into a one-horse hitch, the other horse to be used in the street wagon, also brought up yesterday afternoon. Chief Morley and Fireman Bryan assisted Fireman Terrence in making the change.

Opened For Traffic.

Pennsylvania avenue, which has been closed to traffic since last fall, was opened yesterday morning. The closing was caused by the improving of the culvert, and now that the derrick has been removed to the opposite side of the street many teamsters and farmers are glad. The culvert will not be completed for many weeks, although work is being done every day.

Big Postal Business.

The receipts at the postoffice for the month ending last night were very large and more business was handled during the month than was the same month of last year. When the quarterly report is completed it will show an increase over the report of the last quarter.

May Lose Her Foot.

It is thought that Nora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, of Grandview street, will be compelled to suffer an operation of the left foot. The member was burned some time ago and recently has turned black and is causing her much pain at present.

Among the Sick.

Chambers Smith is ill at his home with a slight attack of fever. His condition is not serious.

The condition of Lincoln Harker continues to improve and it is now thought his recovery is but a matter of a short time.

Baseball Meeting.

A meeting of the East End Red baseball club is scheduled for tomorrow evening. Several vacant positions in the club will be filled and a manager will also be selected.

Coming to Town.

S. G. Kernott, of Catlettsburg, Ky., has written friends in this city that he will move his family and effects to East End March 22. He has rented a home in Helana.

NO REVENUE STAMPS

Are Required on the Expense Accounts of Candidates.

Secretary of State Kinney has given out for publication the following statement:

"The question as to whether candidates' statements of expenses, as required by the corrupt practices act, and nomination papers should bear the revenue stamp, has been frequently submitted to the secretary of state. In order to obtain definite information upon the subject, Secretary of State Kinney addressed a telegram to the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, requesting a ruling upon these questions, and today received a telegram in answer as follows:

"No stamps are required under internal revenue laws on any instruments pertaining to the exercise of the elective franchise, such as statements of expenses incurred by candidates."

NEW SAMPLES.

Potteries Are Again After Their Old Trade.

A number of potteries are arranging new samples for their travelers, and in a short time they will be presented to the trade.

"The time lost in waiting for the trust to begin business is being made up as rapidly as possible," said a well informed manufacturer. "Those few months cost Liverpool a pretty penny because no preparation for capturing trade was made. But that is all gone now. No buyers are being turned away."

MORMON ELDERS

Came to the City Last Night From Cleveland.

Elders Burton and Erickson, of the Mormon church, arrived in the city last night from Cleveland. They attempted to keep out of the way of a reporter in Second street, and when asked what they intended to do while in the city refused to talk. They went to the home of one of the members of their belief, and this morning it was learned they would remain in the city the remainder of the week.

MARLATT IS QUIET.

The Last Punishment Did Him Some Good.

Demon Marlatt has again subsided and is behaving himself very well at the penitentiary, but is being closely watched. He has quit talking to himself and does not worry the guards.

But his cage is not empty. Instead it is occupied by Frenchy Wings, another notorious prisoner. He refused to eat the food given him, and is now being disciplined.

STOLE A HAT.

Some Sneak Thief Called on a Dancing Party.

Monday evening at the Chevalier club dance some one stole a $4 hat and an ostrich plume which had been left in the cloak room.

The fellow was seen by parties in the hall and his description was furnished the police who watched the trains during the night, but failed to locate the man.

On the River.

Business was somewhat quiet on the river yesterday. Packets had the channel to themselves. The Virginia took a good trip to Cincinnati and the Avalon left for Charleston.

The stage of water last night was 9 feet and falling. The rainfall of the past 48 hours caused the perceptible difference in the condition of the river.

The Ben Hur will be down tonight, and the Lorena and Greenwood were up this afternoon with large cargoes. The Greenwood will be down tomorrow evening. The Queen City is due up tomorrow from Cincinnati.

New Weather Prophet.

The employes about the freight depot now have great faith in Agent T. J. Thomas as a weather prophet. Yesterday morning it is said Mr. Thomas told the boys colder weather would set in before the day was over, and since his prediction was true the boys are anxiously waiting the time when he will forecast warmer weather.

ON CORREGIDOR ISLAND.

New Site For the American Army Hospital at Manila.

THE SITUATION IS DELIGHTFUL.

Island Where Our Soldiers Are Taken to Recuperate Is at the Mouth of Manila Bay—Natural Fortress That Commands the Approach to the City.

Arthur C. Johnson, special war correspondent of The Rocky Mountain News, writing from Manila under date of Jan. 22, describes the new site for the American army hospital at Manila as follows:

Corregidor island may be termed one of the beauty spots of the Philippine group. Compared to nearly all the other islands of the archipelago it is but a mere speck protruding from the sea, but close investigation discovers a stretch of nearly three miles of picturesque rocks, banana and pineapple groves, bubbling springs and sheltered little bays on the shore line.

Corregidor, or Alderman, island is located squarely in the entrance to Manila bay. Its rocky promontories have for centuries frowned down on the sea craft which have crept past its base to gain the broad expanse of Manila bay and tack away to the city of Manila, 28 miles off. It halted the Spanish galleons which 200 years ago entered and left the bay bound to and from Mexico twice a year with their loads of treasure. The island was the first to inspect the ships of England, France and Germany when they came poking their noses into the bay looking for trade. When Dewey and the Americans sailed past the island in the gloom of midnight a hoarse gun on a Corregidor hill demanded "Halt!" but failed to bring down its man when the order was not obeyed.

On Dec. 1 the government took its first steps toward instituting a convalescent hospital on Corregidor island. The 5,000 bed hospital which formerly existed in Camp Merritt, San Francisco, had been transported to Manila on the Scandia. Major Owens, with Steward R. F. Geraghty as his right hand man and 50 hospital men of the regular service, went to Corregidor and cleared space for the hospital. Today there is a little colony of tents situated where the old Spanish arsenal stood, and 200 patients who have run the gantlet of the army hospitals in Manila bask in the sunshine and drink in the drafts of fresh sea air. The waves of a tiny cove lap the shore beside the camp and make an excellent bathing place.

The regular boat service to Corregidor was inaugurated on Christmas day, 1898. Thomas J. Tarsney, formerly adjutant general of the state of Colorado, is at the head of the enterprise, and the company is already doing a lucrative excursion business as well as handling government transportation contracts. The side wheel steamer Manila leaves the Pasig river wharf each morning at 8:30 loaded with the 24 hours' supply of fresh meat for the Robinson Crusoes on Corregidor, bare faced soldiers and pleasure seekers.

The journey requires three hours. At the end of that time the traveler has begun to pay some attention to the little heap of rocks and is able to discern a tower on the very pinnacle of a small mountain, which turns out to be the celebrated revolving Corregidor light, which may be seen 20 miles out in the China sea. This lighthouse is now in charge of a United States signal corps detachment. There are about 500 Filipinos on the island, so it is necessary to garrison the place to protect the hospital. The Pennsylvania camp is but a few hundred yards along the shore from the village of Corregidor.

High up on the promontory overhanging the town may be seen the vine clad ancient fortifications of the Spaniards. From the wharf the road divides, one branch entering the little thatched village and the other passing through a queer little gate built into the cliffs and opening the way to the collection of arsenal buildings, little whitewashed stone affairs, which have all been occupied by Steward Geraghty and his hospital.

The tent space for the hospital has been cleared from banana groves. The tents are pitched end to end, usually on slightly sloping ground, which is well drained. The front opening of a ward discloses a long aisle of center poles and cots. The patients are all dismissed and either running about or lolling on their army blankets. The buildings which were occupied by the old Spanish garrison have been turned into quarters and storerooms. One of the principal places of storage for the hospital is the little Corregidor church. This is a cement building about 40 feet long and fitted with the regulation chapel altar. A huge sheet of canvas has been hung up to protect the images and fittings of the altar and the entire front of the church piled with scores of chests of military medical supplies, barrels of brandy, army blankets, mattresses and all the necessities of a well equipped hospital.

The island is heavily wooded with mountainous tropical growths, and the shore is niched with bays. The rocky points have command of the region for 20 miles around and will make wonderfully strong battery points when the United States commences to modernize the defenses of Manila.

At 3 o'clock the steamer draws away from the wharf, and Corregidor has pulled up her drawbridge for the night. During the present insurgent troubles the little garrison on the island, including the hospital corps, stays by its arms, for the natives of the island have been infused with Aguinaldo doctrines and are continually in signal call with their brothers of the mainland.

Climate and Consumption.

I am in favor of treating tubercular patients near their homes and in the same or nearly the same climate as that in which they will have to live and work after their restoration to health. My reasons for advocating such principles are founded on the experiences of all modern phthisis-therapists, who have demonstrated that the hygienic and dietetic treatment in special sanitariums is feasible and successful in nearly all climates.

I know from personal observation that cures of pulmonary tuberculosis effected in our ordinary home climates, which are on the average not considered as especially favorable to this class of sufferers, have been more lasting and more assured than cures obtained in more genial climes.

And, with all due deference to the opinions of others, I do not believe there exists any climate which has a special curative quality for any form of pulmonary tuberculosis. Climate can only be considered as a more or less valuable adjuvant in the treatment of consumption, but not a specific. —S. A. Knopf, M. D., in North American Review.

Didn't Lose Any Sleep.

Jenner, the famous English physician, was essentially a strong and self reliant man. He attended the prince consort through his fatal illness, he was the Prince of Wales' doctor when the heir to the British throne had so narrow an escape in 1872, and he also went to Darmstadt and remained in attendance upon the Princess Alice till she died. To practice medicine in "the fierce light that beats upon a throne" is not calculated to lessen the physician's anxieties, and one who knew Jenner well once questioned him on this point and hinted that his responsibilities must sometimes be sufficient to render sleep or rest impossible.

"Sleep," replied Jenner in his characteristic way. "I don't think that anxiety about a patient ever kept me awake five minutes in my life. I go to a bedside. I do my best. What more can I do? Why should I not sleep?"

Insured Harrison's Renomination.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The result of the Democratic primaries, which were held here, insured the renomination of Carter H. Harrison for mayor. No opposition to the Harrison ticket was made at the polls by the adherents of ex-Governor Altgeld, who will run as an independent candidate.

OBJECTED TO COLLINS

On the Ground That He Was a Democrat.

AFFIDAVIT MADE IT CLEAR

Joe P. Hanlon Faced the Same Objection, but Came Out All Right—The Ticket For Saturday's Primaries Made Out by the Republican Central Committee.

The Republican central committee last night made arrangements for the primary election to be held Saturday afternoon.

There was a good attendance at the meeting, and it was called to order by Chairman George H. Owen. Several short addresses were made before the committee began the transaction of business.

When the work of making up the ticket was commenced an objection was raised to the name of Thomas S. Collins, who is a candidate for council from the Third ward, on the ground that he was a Democrat. He presented an affidavit stating that he had voted the Republican ticket for the last four years. This settled the question, but when the name of Joseph P. Hanlon, who is a candidate for justice of the peace, was reached a like objection was raised. A committee was sent after Mr. Hanlon, and he made oath that he had been a Republican for two years and would continue to vote the Republican ticket, no matter what action the committee took. This was satisfactory to the committee, and the ticket will be as follows:

Justice of the peace—Daniel McLane, J. P. Hanlon.

Township trustee—J. W. Albright.

Township assessor—W. S. McBane.

Council—First ward, Willard Morris, James Oballis; Second ward, Josiah T. Smith, W. C. Stewart, Joseph Osborn; Third ward, George Peach, Thomas S. Collins; Fourth ward, William Cuthbert, George Olnhausen.

Assessor—First ward, Robert McKenty, Grant McDade; Second ward, J. E. Anderson, Sylvester Kinsey, T. G. Stevenson; Third ward, Thomas Lloyd, Henry Deitz, Thomas Green; Fourth ward, E. N. Croxall.

Water works trustee—Jacob Shenkel, W. L. Smith.

Cemetery trustee—Frank Dickey.

Board of education—Rev. J. C. Taggart, J. H. Smith, Harry Peach, W. B. Hill.

The name of Enoch Elden was also placed on the ticket as a candidate for the board of education, but he withdrew from the race this morning.

The election will be conducted under the Australian ballot system, and the matter of having tickets printed was left in the hands of a committee. Each candidate will be entitled to have one representative in the polls while the votes are being counted, and the members of the central committee will act as judges and clerks of the election.

After some discussion it was decided to have only one voting precinct in the Third ward. The places selected are as follows:

First ward—First precinct, East End fire station; Second precinct, Robert Hall's office; Third precinct, Minerva street.

Second ward—First precinct, city hall; Second precinct, planing mill.

Third ward—Laundry office.

Fourth ward—First precinct, store in Sixth street; Second precinct, Collins building.

Township—City hall, East End, West End.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free.

TOD SLOANE MAKES A CALL.

Visits Jean de Reszke and Condolea With Him on His Size.

"I wish to see Mr. James D. Risky," said a well dressed little fellow to the clerk at the Gilsey House in New York recently. It was "Tod" Sloane, the jockey, with a big bundle in his arms, paying a social call.

"Do you mean Mr. Jean de Reszke, the opera singer?" inquired the clerk. "Well, Jim and James is all the same," replied the jockey. "Send up my card to Mr. Risky."

Max Hirsh, treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera House, who is a great friend of Sloane's, was discussing things operative with him the other day, when he happened to tell him of the splendid stable M. de Reszke keeps in Poland. He was surprised that Sloane, who knows the Prince of Wales and so many other celebrities both at home and abroad, had never met the singer, and the jockey's visit to the Gilsey House was the result of the conversation. M. de Reszke saw Sloane ride in England and had spoken admiringly of him. He was admitted at once to the singer's presence. The jockey is not much of a conversationalist and he knows it, so he brought along a lot of photographs of himself to use as topics of talk. When he saw the singer he said to him:

"My, but you're big! You'd never make a jockey in a million years." "I have often regretted my size on that account," replied the singer, "but, you see, being big gives me large lungs, and I can sing better. But I love horses, and I like to ride, and I keep lots of jockeys in my place in Poland." "Did you ever meet the Prince of Wales?" inquired "Tod." "Yes," the singer said. "I know him very well." "I know him, too," the jockey announced, proudly. "Ever meet Lord William? Lord William Beresford, you know. I stopped at his place in England. Here's a photograph of himself he gave me." "I saw you ride on the other side," the singer observed, "and I was delighted with you."

"They all are," the jockey answered complacently. Then he added, "I brought some pictures of me that I thought you might like to stick around your room." These were accepted with thanks, and then Mr. Sloane asked the singer to have a drink. They talked about the photographs. "Tod" said he'd never heard "Mr. Risky" sing, and he'd like to, so he was invited around to the opera house. Then he asked the singer if he'd ever been up in a balloon. Sloane was once assistant to an aeronaut, and this was one of the topics he could talk on. They kept coming back to the subject of the photographs, however. Sloane remarked that he had 98 pairs of trousers, all of which he had selected himself and had made under his own supervision. He told about his diamonds also and of all the horse races he had ever won.

When he came down stairs, he met a lot of his racing friends. "I've just been calling on Jim Risky," he said, with a slight display of vanity. "Gin rickey!" cried the crowd in derision. "No, Jim Risky, the opera singer," he replied. "He's a dead game sport too. He asked me to go and visit him in Poland, where the mineral water comes from. I don't know where it is, but I guess the place is all right. It's a shame Risky is so big. He'd make a splendid jockey, for I'm sure he's got the spunk. It's a shame such a nice chap should waste his time singing. You ought to see where he put his photographs of me—right on the mantelpiece, next to the pictures of a lot of kings and queens."—New York Journal.

Mysterious illness.

A puzzling illness visited nurses and patients at the Retreat For the Sick in Richmond a few days ago. The institution has two resident physicians, and all the physicians in the city practice there. At the same hour a number of the nurses were seized with pains in the back and head and went into delirium. While in this state several cried out that hot metal or sand was being poured down their backs. It became necessary to put some of the nurses in straitjackets to prevent violence to themselves. The physicians were baffled, and the illness remains a mystery.—New York Sun.

MACHINE TO TRY PUPILS

Ergograph to Indicate Their Comparative Abilities.

NOW BEING TRIED IN OHIOAGO.

Nervous Condition of the Subject and Physical State Are Indicated by the Instrument—Fatigue Is Shown by the Fingers—It Will Aid the Teachers.

Tests psychological in their nature are being made in the public schools in Chicago for the purpose of determining the comparative ability of the younger pupils to stand the fatigues of study.

These tests have for their ultimate object the reduction of the ordinary common school or public school education to a scientific basis and are made through the medium of the ergograph, an invention of Professor A. Mosso of Italy, which has never been tried, it is understood, in the United States before.

The experiments are under the direction of Professor Frederick W. Smedley, lecturer on pedagogy at the University of Chicago, and Mr. Victor Campbell, the principal of the Brighton evening school. As not more than 100 children have been examined, while it is the intention to experiment with fully 1,000, it is too early to speak of results. Both Professor Smedley and Mr. Campbell argue that if a child is backward in his studies there is some cause for it that the instructor should determine and for which he should find a remedy.

The ergograph consists of two main parts, one of which is a cylinder, revolved by means of clockwork, about which a paper strip is pasted, on which the records are made. The working portion of the second part is a small sliding carriage to which is attached a stylographic pen, the point of which rests upon the paper covered cylinder. To one end of this carriage is attached a weight and to the other a cord made of twisted wire.

The arm of the child to be examined is strapped into a rest—that has no connection with the ergograph, however—so that it is possible to move only the fingers. The second finger is then hooked into a loop in the end of the wire cord spoken of, and the pupil is required to work the finger back and forth in time with a metronome, which is a contrivance for marking time.

This moves the carriage and the pen attached back and forth, and on the paper of the cylinder, which has been set into a barely perceptible motion, the pen records an unbroken line that waves from side to side on the paper, forming an outline something like the teeth of a saw.

Naturally, as the finger of the pupil weakens from fatigue, the distance he is able to pull the carriage forward grows shorter and shorter, until he cannot move it at all. Correspondingly the teeth of the saw made by the pen grow shorter until the jagged line becomes almost perfectly straight.

The physiological principle upon which the operation of the ergograph is based is that one set of muscles is an index to the general condition of the body. It is agreed that in the majority of cases there is a physical cause for the bad standing of a child at school. If he grows thin and scrawny, it is probable he is not cared for properly and that some tonic or physical remedy is necessary. Possibly the cause of the failing health of a child is overwork.

This does not necessarily cause a breakdown, but it certainly proves a menace to health. The stupid boy or girl in school is, no doubt, crowded with work and derives no benefit whatever from any of the studies. It is for the purpose of combining physical with mental training that these tests have been inaugurated in the public schools of Chicago under the auspices of the board of education.

As to the test on the ergograph, the regularity of the saw teeth, as these may be called, recorded on the paper indicates the nervous condition of the pupil, and the length of time the child can continue pulling the carriage with his finger is an index to his physical condition.

From this record the length of time the child can work to advantage and the period of fatigue and the period when the child is at its best mentally can be learned. When these are found out, the teacher is in position to instruct the pupil to the best possible advantage.

In addition to the ergograph record the height, weight and lung capacity of each pupil were noted.—New York Herald.

Terribly Cold In Porto Rico.

The cold snap has reached San Juan. Although we were a little late in point of time, we get there just the same. At 4:45 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 28 the thermometer dropped to 65.9 degrees F., according to the official minimum thermometer of the weather bureau. The lowest that has heretofore been recorded by the bureau since it was established here last fall was 67.4 degrees, and as the mercury goes down to 68 degrees or 70 degrees every night of the winter this tremendous lowering of the mercury is extraordinary.—San Juan News.

OBJECTED TO COLLINS

On the Ground That He Was a Democrat.

Joe P. Hanlon Faced the Same Objection, but Came Out All Right—The Ticket For Saturday's Primaries Made Out by the Republican Central Committee.

The Republican central committee last night made arrangements for the primary election to be held Saturday afternoon.

There was a good attendance at the meeting, and it was called to order by Chairman George H. Owen. Several short addresses were made before the committee began the transaction of business.

When the work of making up the ticket was commenced an objection was raised to the name of Thomas S. Collins, who is a candidate for council from the Third ward, on the ground that he was a Democrat. He presented an affidavit stating that he had voted the Republican ticket for the last four years. This settled the question, but when the name of Joseph P. Hanlon, who is a candidate for justice of the peace, was reached a like objection was raised. A committee was sent after Mr. Hanlon, and he made oath that he had been a Republican for two years and would continue to vote the Republican ticket, no matter what action the committee took. This was satisfactory to the committee, and the ticket will be as follows:

Justice of the peace—Daniel McLane, J. P. Hanlon.

Constable—L. L. Golden, G. W. Powell.

Township trustee—J. W. Albright.

Township assessor—W. S. McBane.

Council—First ward, Willard Morris, James Challis; Second ward, Josiah T. Smith, W. C. Stewart, Joseph Osborn; Third ward, George Peach, Thomas S. Collins; Fourth ward, William Cuthbert, George Olmhausen.

Assessor—First ward, Robert McKent, Grant McDade; Second ward, J. E. Anderson, Sylvester Kinsey, T. G. Stevenson; Third ward, Thomas Lloyd, Henry Deitz, Thomas Green; Fourth ward, E. N. Croxall.

Water works trustee—Jacob Shenkel, W. L. Smith.

Cemetery trustee—Frank Dickey.

Board of education—Rev. J. C. Taggart, J. H. Smith, Harry Peach, W. B. Hill.

The name of Enoch Elden was also placed on the ticket as a candidate for the board of education, but he withdrew from the race this morning.

The election will be conducted under the Australian ballot system, and the matter of having tickets printed was left in the hands of a committee. Each candidate will be entitled to have one representative in the polls while the votes are being counted, and the members of the central committee will act as judges and clerks of the election.

After some discussion it was decided to have only one voting precinct in the Third ward. The places selected are as follows:

First ward—First precinct, East End fire station; Second precinct, Robert Hall's office; Third precinct, Minerva street.

Second ward—First precinct, city hall; Second precinct, planing mill.

Third ward—City hall office.

Township—City hall, East End, West End.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free.

TOD SLOANE MAKES A CALL.

Visits Jean de Reszke and Condolea With Him on His Size.

"I wish to see Mr. James D. Risky," said a well dressed little fellow to the clerk at the Gilsey House in New York recently. It was "Tod" Sloane, the jockey, with a big bundle in his arms, paying a social call.

"Do you mean Mr. Jean de Reszke, the opera singer?" inquired the clerk. "Well, Jim and James is all the same," replied the jockey. "Send up my card to Mr. Risky."

Max Hirsh, treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera House, who is a great friend of Sloane's, was discussing things operative with him the other day, when he happened to tell him of the splendid stable M. de Reszke keeps in Poland. He was surprised that Sloane, who knows the Prince of Wales and so many other celebrities both at home and abroad, had never met the singer, and the jockey's visit to the Gilsey House was the result of the conversation. M. de Reszke saw Sloane ride in England and had spoken admiringly of him. He was admitted at once to the singer's presence. The jockey is not much of a conversationalist, and he knows it, so he brought along a lot of photographs of himself to use as topics of talk. When he saw the singer he said to him:

"My, but you're big! You'd never make a jockey in a million years." "I have often regretted my size on that account," replied the singer, "but, you see, being big gives me large lungs, and I can sing better. But I love horses, and I like to ride, and I keep lots of jockeys in my place in Poland." "Did you ever meet the Prince of Wales?" inquired "Tod." "Yes," the singer said, "I know him very well." "I know him, too," the jockey announced, proudly. "Ever meet Lord William? Lord William Beresford, you know. I stopped at his place in England. Here's a photograph of himself he gave me." "I saw you ride on the other side," the singer observed, "and I was delighted with you."

"They all are," the jockey answered complacently. Then he added, "I brought some pictures of me that I thought you might like to stick around your room." These were accepted with thanks, and then Mr. Sloane asked the singer to have a drink. They talked about the photographs. "Tod" said he'd never heard "Mr. Risky" sing, and he'd like to, so he was invited around to the opera house. Then he asked the singer if he'd ever been up in a balloon. Sloane was once assistant to an aeronaut, and this was one of the topics he could talk on. They kept coming back to the subject of the photographs, however. Sloane remarked that he had 98 pairs of trousers, all of which he had selected himself and had made under his own supervision. He told about his diamonds also and of all the horse races he had ever won.

When he came down stairs, he met a lot of his racing friends. "I've just been calling on Jim Risky," he said, with a slight display of vanity. "Gin rickey!" cried the crowd in derision. "No, Jim Risky, the opera singer," he replied. "He's a dead game sport too. He asked me to go and visit him in Poland, where the mineral water comes from. I don't know where it is, but I guess the place is all right. It's a shame Risky is so big. He'd make a splendid jockey, for I'm sure he's got the spunk. It's a shame such a nice chap should waste his time singing. You ought to see where he put his photographs of me—right on the mantelpiece, next to the pictures of a lot of kings and queens."—New York Journal.

Mysterious illness. A puzzling illness visited nurses and patients at the Retreat For the Sick in Richmond a few days ago. The institution has two resident physicians, and all the physicians in the city practice there. At the same hour a number of the nurses were seized with pains in the back and head and went into delirium. While in this state several cried out that hot metal or sand was being poured down their backs. It became necessary to put some of the nurses in straitjackets to prevent violence to themselves. The physicians were baffled, and the illness remains a mystery.—New York Sun.

We're glad to hear you're better, Mr. Kipling. We heard as how you nearly passed away. An we didn't want to lose you, Mr. Kipling. We're glad you made your mind up for to stay.

You've kinder made yer way among our people. An, though you're mighty haughty in your looks. You know jest how to play upon our heart strings. An put real human nature in your books.

We're glad to hear you're better, Mr. Kipling. For you're a man that knows the thoughts of men. You catch the facts an' fancies in their passion. An' chain them down to paper with your pen surfaces.

To her as sat beside you, Mr. Kipling. A watchin' you a fightin' hard for life. We tip our hats an' bow in admiration. An' we send our lovin' greetin's to your wife.

We're glad to hear you're better, Mr. Kipling. For men like you don't turn up every day. We hope you'll learn to know and love us better.

We're glad you made your mind up for to stay.

Ergograph to Indicate Their Comparative Abilities.

NOW BEING TRIED IN CHICAGO.

Nervous Condition of the Subject and Physical State Are Indicated by the Instrument—Fatigue Is Shown by the Fingers—It Will Aid the Teachers.

Tests psychological in their nature are being made in the public schools in Chicago for the purpose of determining the comparative ability of the younger pupils to stand the fatigues of study.

These tests have for their ultimate object the reduction of the ordinary common school or public school education to a scientific basis and are made through the medium of the ergograph, an invention of Professor A. Mosso of Italy, which has never been tried, it is understood, in the United States before.

The experiments are under the direction of Professor Frederick W. Smedley, lecturer on pedagogy at the University of Chicago, and Mr. Victor Campbell, the principal of the Brighton evening school. As not more than 100 children have been examined, while it is the intention to experiment with fully 1,000, it is too early to speak of results. Both Professor Smedley and Mr. Campbell argue that if a child is backward in his studies there is some cause for it that the instructor should determine and for which he should find a remedy.

The ergograph consists of two main parts, one of which is a cylinder, revolved by means of clockwork, about which a paper strip is pasted, on which the records are made. The working portion of the second part is a small sliding carriage to which is attached a stylographic pen, the point of which rests upon the paper covered cylinder. To one end of this carriage is attached a weight and to the other a cord made of twisted wire.

The arm of the child to be examined is strapped into a rest—that has no connection with the ergograph, however—so that it is possible to move only the fingers. The second finger is then hooked into a loop in the end of the wire cord spoken of, and the pupil is required to work the finger back and forth in time with a metronome, which is a contrivance for marking time.

This moves the carriage and the pen attached back and forth, and on the paper of the cylinder, which has been set into a barely perceptible motion, the pen records an unbroken line that waves from side to side on the paper, forming an outline something like the teeth of a saw.

Naturally, as the finger of the pupil weakens from fatigue, the distance he is able to pull the carriage forward grows shorter and shorter, until he cannot move it at all. Correspondingly the teeth of the saw made by the pen grow shorter until the jagged line becomes almost perfectly straight.

The physiological principle upon which the operation of the ergograph is based is that one set of muscles is an index to the general condition of the body. It is agreed that in the majority of cases there is a physical cause for the bad standing of a child at school. If he grows thin and bony, it is probable he is not cared for properly and that some tonic or physical remedy is necessary. Possibly the cause of the failing health of a child is overwork.

This does not necessarily cause a breakdown, but it certainly proves a menace to health. The stupid boy or girl in school is no doubt crowded with work and derives no benefit whatever from any of the studies. It is for the purpose of combining physical with mental training that these tests have been inaugurated in the public schools of Chicago under the auspices of the board of education.

As to the test on the ergograph, the regularity of the saw teeth, as these may be called, recorded on the paper indicates the nervous condition of the pupil, and the length of time the child can continue pulling the carriage with his finger is an index to his physical condition.

From this record the length of time the child can work to advantage and the period of fatigue and the period when the child is at its best mentally can be learned. When these are found out, the teacher is in position to instruct the pupil to the best possible advantage.

In addition to the ergograph record the height, weight and lung capacity of each pupil were noted.—New York Herald.

Terribly Cold In Porto Rico.

The cold snap has reached San Juan. Although we are a little late in point of time, we get there just the same. At 4:45 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 28 the thermometer dropped to 65.9 degrees F., according to the official minimum thermometer of the weather bureau. The lowest that has heretofore been recorded by the bureau since it was established here last fall was 67.4 degrees, and as the mercury goes down to 68 degrees or 70 degrees every night of the winter this tremendous lowering of the mercury is extraordinary.—San Juan News.

UNION PAPERS.
 All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above
 Union Labels at the head of their columns

GOVERNOR PINGREE, they say, is about to head a new political party. Many sensible men will think that is anything but a recommendation for the party.

THE use of the word "exclusive" is bad enough at any time in a news item, but when it can only be used as a lie all bounds of journalistic propriety have been overstepped.

President McKinley's attitude toward his enemies in his own party is, to say the least, kindly. They revile him continually, while he says nothing but occasionally does them a good turn.

CONGRESS has adjourned, the President is enjoying his vacation, and American soldiers are winning victories every day in Luzon. It seems as though fortune has smiled once more.

AGUINALDO and his misguided followers are learning some costly lessons.
 Let us hope they will be sufficiently impressed to last until the people of the Philippines have come to know the blessings of civilization.

THE yellow journals now say President McKinley has gone south to hatch out a few political schemes, and not to escape for a brief period the cares of official life. The tale is doubtless in line with other yellow stories and worthy of as much attention.

THE order to clean the streets and alleys of the city has been issued, and it remains for the people to carry it out at once. If East Liverpool is to enjoy any considerable degree of health during the coming season it must be freed from the load of filth which each winter gathers about the streets and alleys.

VOTE NEXT SATURDAY.

It is the duty of every Republican to go to the polls next Saturday afternoon.
 The question at issue is so important that no man, interested in the success of the party, can afford to pass the primaries by without some attention. The danger is great when only a small proportion of the vote is cast, for upon these occasions incompetent and irresponsible men are usually nominated. When the people vote in large numbers they are usually interested enough to place the right ticket in the field.

SAVING HIS PEOPLE.

The position occupied by General Gomez saves his people from being the laughing stock of the world, since it cannot but be believed that a number of Cubans support him. The money grabbing members of the legislature have made themselves ridiculous, for they are clothed with no real authority and seem to be officers in the army, banded together for the purpose of taking every cent Uncle Sam will send. The people are gradually awakening to the fact that this body cares nothing for them and will do nothing to aid them. Consequently they turn to the old warrior who has during the past few months stood head and shoulders above his countrymen. If there were more of his kind in Cuba the final disposition of the island would not be a matter for much discussion on the part of American statesmen.

THE COUNTY CAN HELP

If This City Will Build a Hospital.

A DOZEN SICK ONES CARED FOR

At Great Expense During the Past Few Months—It Would Be Economy For the Poor Authorities, and Not a Little Help
 For the Hospital.

"If the people of this place erect a hospital the management will find the county a very good customer and one that will always pay its bills."

The speaker was Dr. O. P. Andrews, county physician. He has given the hospital matter a considerable degree of attention and has calculated the amount the institution would receive from the county. Continuing he said:

"In a community of this kind there are always to be found a number of people who are ill and have no one to care for them. They receive the attention of the county physician until they are able to go to the infirmary. That part of the arrangement is all right and works very well, but the difficulty appears when we endeavor to find a place to keep the sick until they recover. It is not every family that will take them in, and in some instances they do not receive the care and attention they should although the county pays well.

 Here is where the hospital comes in. If that institution was in operation the sick could be taken there, they would receive the best of care and the county would pay the bill. The amount expended on the dozen or more cases of this kind I have had during the past few months, would be a welcome addition to any hospital fund. This fact might be taken into consideration with some profit by the committees who are working to make the hospital a success."

CHARLES S. SPEAKER.

An Admirer Speaks of Him In Glowing Terms.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—I am sincerely glad in the knowledge that Charles S.
 Speaker has concluded to enter the race for the berth of judge of the court of common pleas. I have known Mr.
 Speaker for many years and have noted and marked his course in legal life. The result is that I am proud to call him friend. He is brainy, cultured, honest and honorable in a marked degree. He never goes back on a promise. He never goes back on a friend. His word is as good as his bond. He would do honor to Columbiana county. I pay him this brief tribute very gladly. He has no idea that I contemplate giving him anything of the kind. This is not an advertisement, nor yet a political card. It is simply my heart tribute to the man who I would love dearly to see elected at the coming contest. I have not one word to say derogatory to the other two candidates. I know them both and esteem them as clever and courteous gentlemen and good citizens. But the candidate of candidates, in my estimation, is Charles S. Speaker, and I earnestly hope that a snow storm of ballots will be cast for him in this city of East Liverpool.

Preparing Resolutions For Presentation
 at the Proper Time—Lengthy Session Was Held Last Night, But Not Much Was Accomplished.

Trades council met last evening and held a very lengthy session, but did not transact a great deal of business.

The credential committee made a report and the following delegates were seated: Grocery clerks, William Freezle; retail clerks, J. E. Anderson, William Horton; dishmakers, James Myler; L. U., 1669, Frank Hewitt, W.
 E. Hines and Charles Lucas.

The printers and transferrers reported that their union, No. 32, would give a social and entertainment in Brotherhood hall next Tuesday evening, and an invitation was extended to the council and all local labor unions to attend the meeting.

The trustees were instructed to place $400 of the money of the council in some institution where it would bear interest.

The entertainment committee stated that they had selected Turner hall as the place for holding their entertainment and Thursday evening, March 30, as the date.

The committee on legislation reported that they were making progress in regard to the gas ordinance, and stated that they would prepare resolutions and present them at the proper time. A number of letters were read relating to the question.

Other business of a private nature was transacted and the council adjourned.

AMERICAN WARE

Is Making Progress Among the People of Indiana.

J. R. Hickman, senior member of the firm of Hickman Bros., of Muncie, Ind., retired to his home this morning after spending yesterday in the city placing orders. When asked about the crockery trade Mr. Hickman said:

"I believe the order I placed yesterday doubled the one I placed the same time last year. Trade has been excellent and more American made crockery is now being sold in Indiana than ever before. It is true that considerable imported goods are being received by us, but the amount is rapidly decreasing. I firmly believe trade this year will far exceed that of last year although we consider last year's trade excellent."

A QUEER CHAP

Talked Wildly and Ran About Lower Broadway.

An individual, arrayed in clothing covered with clay, ran about the lower part of town last night like one possessed.

He met a well known resident in Cook street and talked for a few minutes to him in a most peculiar manner, and later accosted a man in Broadway. Half an hour later he ran down Broadway like one possessed, and turned into Second street. Who he is or what caused his strange actions form a mystery no one seems able to fathom.

DON'T BE TRICKED.

The Vote of Challis Has Chicanery on Its Wings.

Republicans who love the party will be very careful in noting the actions and votes of Mr. Challis, candidate for re-election to council from the first ward. He voted against the masses and in favor of the gas company in the "dollar" clause in the first place, and thus defeated the ordinance of Mr. Peach.
 When the second test came on Tuesday night last, noses were evidently first counted, in order to make sure that the friends of the gas company were all right with their ballot, and then Mr.
 Challis cast his vote, APPARENTLY in favor of Peach's ordinance. The job was too thinly veneered, however, and the nose and ears of the wolf were caught peeping out from under the sheep's woolly covering. The combination of gas company, petty trickery and Challis will not work. The people have become very weary of the actions of councilmen who vote in favor of monopolies and against the masses, the working men and working women, and the verdict is that it is time for such councilmen to take a back seat.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, MARCH 16.

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

GOVERNOR PINGREE, they say, is about to head a new political party. Many sensible men will think that is anything but a recommendation for the party.

THE use of the word "exclusive" is bad enough at any time in a news item, but when it can only be used as a lie all bounds of journalistic propriety have been overstepped.

President McKinley's attitude toward his enemies in his own party is, to say the least, kindly. They revile him continually, while he says nothing but occasionally does them a good turn.

CONGRESS has adjourned, the President is enjoying his vacation, and American soldiers are winning victories every day in Luzon. It seems as though fortune has smiled once more.

AGUINALDO and his misguided followers are learning some costly lessons. Let us hope they will be sufficiently impressed to last until the people of the Philippines have come to know the blessings of civilization.

THE yellow journals now say President McKinley has gone south to hatch out a few political schemes, and not to escape for a brief period the cares of official life. The tale is doubtless in line with other yellow stories and worthy of as much attention.

THE order to clean the streets and alleys of the city has been issued, and it remains for the people to carry it out at once. If East Liverpool is to enjoy any considerable degree of health during the coming season it must be freed from the load of filth which each winter gathers about the streets and alleys.

VOTE NEXT SATURDAY.

It is the duty of every Republican to go to the polls next Saturday afternoon. The question at issue is so important that no man, interested in the success of the party, can afford to pass the primaries by without some attention. The danger is great when only a small proportion of the vote is cast, for upon these occasions incompetent and irresponsible men are usually nominated. When the people vote in large numbers they are usually interested enough to place the right ticket in the field.

SAVING HIS PEOPLE.

The position occupied by General Gomez saves his people from being the laughing stock of the world, since it cannot but be believed that a number of Cubans support him. The money grabbing members of the legislature have made themselves ridiculous, for they are clothed with no real authority and seem to be officers in the army, banded together for the purpose of taking every cent Uncle Sam will send. The people are gradually awakening to the fact that this body cares nothing for them and will do nothing to aid them. Consequently they turn to the old warrior who has during the past few months stood head and shoulders above his countrymen. If there were more of his kind in Cuba the final disposition of the island would not be a matter for much discussion on the part of American statesmen.

THE COUNTY CAN HELP

A DOZEN SICK ONES CARED FOR

At Great Expense During the Past Few Months—It Would Be Economy For the Poor Authorities, and Not a Little Help For the Hospital.

"If the people of this place erect a hospital the management will find the county a very good customer and one that will always pay its bills."

The speaker was Dr. O. P. Andrews, county physician. He has given the hospital matter a considerable degree of attention and has calculated the amount the institution would receive from the county. Continuing he said:

"In a community of this kind there are always to be found a number of people who are ill and have no one to care for them. They receive the attention of the county physician until they are able to go to the infirmary. That part of the arrangement is all right and works very well, but the difficulty appears when we endeavor to find a place to keep the sick until they recover. It is not every family that will take them in, and in some instances they do not receive the care and attention they should although the county pays well. Here is where the hospital comes in. If that institution was in operation the sick could be taken there, they would receive the best of care and the county would pay the bill. The amount expended on the dozen or more cases of this kind I have had during the past few months, would be a welcome addition to any hospital fund. This fact might be taken into consideration with some profit by the committees who are working to make the hospital a success."

CHARLES S. SPEAKER.

An Admirer Speaks of Him in Glowing Terms.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—I am sincerely glad in the knowledge that Charles S. Speaker has concluded to enter the race for the berth of judge of the court of common pleas. I have known Mr. Speaker for many years and have noted and marked his course in legal life. The result is that I am proud to call him friend. He is brainy, cultured, honest and honorable in a marked degree. He never goes back on a promise. He never goes back on a friend. His word is as good as his bond. He would do honor to Columbiana county. I pay him this brief tribute very gladly. He has no idea that I contemplate giving him anything of the kind. This is not an advertisement, nor yet a political card. It is simply my heart tribute to the man who I would love dearly to see elected at the coming contest. I have not one word to say derogatory to the other two candidates. I know them both and esteem them as clever and courteous gentlemen and good citizens. But the candidate of candidates, in my estimation, is Charles S. Speaker, and I earnestly hope that a snow storm of ballots will be cast for him in this city of East Liverpool.

Preparing Resolutions For Presentation at the Proper Time—Lengthy Session Was Held Last Night, But Not Much Was Accomplished.

Trades council met last evening and held a very lengthy session, but did not transact a great deal of business.

The credential committee made a report and the following delegates were seated: Grocery clerks, William Freeze; retail clerks, J. E. Anderson, William Horton; dishmakers, James Myler; L. U., 1669, Frank Hewitt, W. E. Hines and Charles Lucas.

The printers and transferrers reported that their union, No. 32, would give a social and entertainment in Brotherhood hall next Tuesday evening, and an invitation was extended to the council and all local labor unions to attend the meeting.

The trustees were instructed to place $400 of the money of the council in some institution where it would bear interest.

The entertainment committee stated that they had selected Turner hall as the place for holding their entertainment and Thursday evening, March 30, as the date.

The committee on legislation reported that they were making progress in regard to the gas ordinance, and stated that they would prepare resolutions and present them at the proper time. A number of letters were read relating to the question.

Other business of a private nature was transacted and the council adjourned.

AMERICAN WARE

Is Making Progress Among the People of Indiana.

J. R. Hickman, senior member of the firm of Hickman Bros., of Muncie, Ind., retired to his home this morning after spending yesterday in the city placing orders. When asked about the crockery trade Mr. Hickman said:

"I believe the order I placed yesterday doubled the one I placed the same time last year. Trade has been excellent and more American made crockery is now being sold in Indiana than ever before. It is true that considerable imported goods are being received by us, but the amount is rapidly decreasing. I firmly believe trade this year will far exceed that of last year although we consider last year's trade excellent."

Republicans who love the party will be very careful in noting the actions and votes of Mr. Challis, candidate for re-election to council from the first ward. He voted against the masses and in favor of the gas company in the "dollar" clause in the first place, and thus defeated the ordinance of Mr. Peach. When the second test come on Tuesday night last, noses were evidently first counted, in order to make sure that the friends of the gas company were all right with their ballot, and then Mr. Challis cast his vote. APPARENTLY in favor of Peach's ordinance. The job was too thinly veneered, however, and the nose and ears of the wolf were caught peeping out from under the sheep's woolly covering. The combination of gas company, petty trickery and Challis will not work. The people have become very weary of the actions of councilmen who vote in favor of monopolies and against the masses, the working men and working women, and the verdict is that it is time for such councilmen to take a back seat.

REVERSED THE MAYOR

Judge Smith Passed on the Morrow Case.

NO MONEY CHANGED HANDS

At Least the Evidence Did Not Show It
and on That the Decision Was Given—I B. Cameron Sues E. M. Crosser, as Assignee of the Bower Company.

LISBON, March 16.—[Special]—The judgment of Mayor Bough, of East Liverpool, in the case of the city against William E. Morrow, was overruled by Judge Smith, for the reason that there was no evidence to show that money or anything else of value changed hands;
that there was only evidence that a game of craps was being played, and
the court had no right to presume craps to be a gambling game without proof.

A few weeks ago Morrow was fined $50 for permitting gambling on his premises.

In the case of Herbert Tetlow against Salem, leave was granted to file a petition in error. Tetlow was fined $50
and costs by the mayor of Salem for keeping his saloon open after 10 o'clock.
He claims the facts stated in the complaint do not constitute an offense.

Receiver Cameron Is After E.
M. Crosser as Assignee of

LISBON, March 16.—[Special]—Another petition has been filed by I. B.
Cameron, as receiver by the First National, against E. M. Crosser, as assignee
of D. C. Bower & Co. The petition says that since 1883 the company have been customers of the bank, and March 9, 1896 the company and the bank had a mutual accounting, at which time it was agreed that the company owed the bank $3,634.99 on overchecks. When the bank closed, Oct. 21, 1898, the receiver
says the amount of over-checks was $4,703.85. The assignee and receiver cannot agree on the amount due on the account, and the assignee would not allow the claim. The plaintiff says
the account is long, involved and complicated, and a referee should be appointed to make, state and report the account to the court. There is also a note of $2,500 executed by D. C. Bower & Co., to the bank May 25, 1898, and due Aug. 23, 1899; making a total of $7,203.85, for which judgment is asked.
The receiver also filed a petition against E. M. Crosser as assignee of D.
C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower asking $2,500 on a note dated May 21, 1898,
and due August 23. It is signed by D.
C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower.

start anything, what we will do to them will be a plenty. In case a fight starts, one battalion of the Tenth will be ordered to the firing line, and in that bunch will be Old Glory, the flag that came so proudly into Manila.
I am the only one of the old gang left;
but if God lets me live and gives me strength, I will give you my word that nothing will happen to that dear old banner.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FIRST WARD.

I have read in one of our papers statements that I am the tool of a party of Schemers, Tricksters and Sore Heads. I notice that the author did not have the manhood to sign his name to the statement; and as neither my backers, nor myself, have any axes to grind or favors to ask of our city council, I wish to brand all such charges as false. The only Schemers back of me are men who are scheming for Bet-

GRAND ARMY MEETINGS.

Arrangements Made For Moving to the New Quarters.

Arrangements have been completed for the moving of the Grand Army to its comfortable quarters in the Exchange building.

The farewell meeting will be held in the Thompson building Friday night,
and Saturday will be occupied in moving the effects of the post to the new room. A meeting will be held there Tuesday evening to which the public is invited, an excellent program having been prepared. Tuesday evening the Sons of Veterans will meet in the old hall
for the last time, and Friday evening of next week the Grand Army, Women's Relief corps and Sons of Veterans will hold a joint session. A large attendance and an enjoyable time is anticipated.

HANES—WILLIAMS.

Pretty Home Wedding Was Solemnized
Last Night.

A pretty home wedding took place yesterday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Williams in Second street, the contracting parties being their daughter, Miss Myrtle Cora Williams and Mr. R. William Hanes. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Crawford, of the First M.
E. church.

The happy couple left this morning for Akron and Canton, where they will remain 10 days. Upon their return they will reside in Second street.

THEY CAUGHT A TRAIN

But Not Until There Had Been Excitement.

ONE BOARDED THE MAIL CAR

Peculiar Plight of Two Ladies Who Waited Too Long at the Station—Confirmed a Class—All the News of Wells-
ville.

Much amusement was furnished the bystanders at the upper depot when the trains were going west this morning.

Miss Addie Dennis and Miss Maude
Anderson were desirous of leaving on the main line, but did not know their train was ready to start. After the train was in motion the young ladies attempted to board it. Miss Dennis caught the front end of the mail car and succeeded in landing in safety. Miss Anderson waited until the first passenger coach came along, and not understanding the science of boarding trains
in motion would certainly have come to grief, but for the timely assistance of several train officials. The train was at length stopped, but when it pulled out
Miss Dennis was still aboard the mail
car. Their destination was Kensington.

Confirmed a Class.

Last evening Bishop Brooke, of Oklahoma, confirmed a class of five at the Church of the Ascension. Later in the evening he delivered a special discourse on "Baptism and Confirmation."
A special musical program was rendered.

News of Wellsville.

The funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth Mills will take place at the residence of her son, E. S. Mills, and at 11 o'clock tomorrow services will be held at the Island Creek church where the remains will be taken by the morning train for interment.

Mrs. J. W. Waters is again under a physician's care. She is suffering with stomach disease.

Car two, in charge of Motorman Kerr, became disabled at Ninth street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Passengers had to transfer, and it was about two hours before damage could be repaired so that the car could move on its way to Liverpool.

Miss Verna Belkey left this morning for New Athens where she will attend a wedding. Before returning she will visit friends in Bridgeport.

James Johnston, who had his arm so badly injured while at work at Scio several weeks ago, still carries the injured member in a sling but hopes to return to work in a few weeks.

The concert given last evening by the Mozart Symphony club was very largely attended, and the concert was excellent.

Attorney Lones is in Lisbon attending to legal business.

Howard Brooks has been suffering with typhoid fever for the past month.

TWO ARRESTS

Will Be Made Because a Young Man Complained.

This morning a young man named
Carey called at city hall, and upon entering Mayor Bough's office said: "I want two men arrested immediately." Those in the office at that time were asked to retire and nothing more was heard of the conversation. Before the mayor had finished his talk with Mr.
Carey warrants for the arrest of several parties were made out. Carey was seen by a reporter, and when asked about the case would not talk, other than to say
no arrests would be made this week.
When Mayor Bough was asked for information he also refused to talk.

William Ferrall, who was arrested
Tuesday night, was discharged yesterday afternoon. He went into Walsh's restaurant Tuesday evening, and after eating a meal tendered 10 cents as payment. The price asked was 50 cents.
He was taken to jail, and as Walsh would not prefer a charge he was released.

No arrests were made during the night or this morning, and no police calls were sent to the fire station.

AN ADDRESS

REVERSED THE MAYOR

Judge Smith Passed on the Morrow Case.

NO MONEY CHANGED HANDS

At least the Evidence Did Not Show It and on That the Decision Was Given—I B. Cameron Sues E. M. Crosser, as Assignee of the Bower Company.

LISBON, March 16.—[Special]—The judgment of Mayor Bough, of East Liverpool, in the case of the city against William E. Morrow, was overruled by Judge Smith, for the reason that there was no evidence to show that money or anything else of value changed hands; that there was only evidence that a game of craps was being played, and the court had no right to presume craps to be a gambling game without proof.

A few weeks ago Morrow was fined $50 for permitting gambling on his premises.

In the case of Herbert Tetlow against Salem, leave was granted to file a petition in error. Tetlow was fined $50 and costs by the mayor of Salem for keeping his saloon open after 10 o'clock. He claims the facts stated in the complaint do not constitute an offense.

ANOTHER SUIT.

Receiver Cameron Is After E. M. Crosser as Assignee of the Bower Company.

LISBON, March 16.—[Special]—Another petition has been filed by I. B. Cameron, as receiver by the First National, against E. M. Crosser, as assignee of D. C. Bower & Co. The petition says that since 1883 the company have been customers of the bank, and March 9, 1896 the company and the bank had a mutual accounting, at which time it was agreed that the company owed the bank $3,634.99 on overchecks. When the bank closed, Oct. 21, 1898, the receiver says the amount of overchecks was $4,703.85. The assignee and receiver cannot agree on the amount due on the account, and the assignee would not allow the claim. The plaintiff says the account is long, involved and complicated, and a referee should be appointed to make, state and report the account to the court. There is also a note of $2,500 executed by D. C. Bower & Co., to the bank May 25, 1898 and due Aug. 23, 1899; making a total of $7,203.85, for which judgment is asked. The receiver also filed a petition against E. M. Crosser as assignee of D. C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower asking $2,500 on a note dated May 21, 1898, and due August 23. It is signed by D. C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower.

Assignments For Next Week.

Receiver Cameron Is After E.
M. Crosser as Assignee of the Bower Company.

LISBON, March 16. —[Special]—Another petition has been filed by I. B.
Cameron, as receiver by the First National, against E. M. Crosser, as assignee
of D. C. Bower & Co. The petition says
that since 1883 the company have been customers of the bank, and March 9, 1896 the company and the bank had a mutual accounting, at which time it was agreed that the company owed the bank $3,634.99 on overchecks. When the bank closed, Oct. 21, 1898, the receiver
says the amount of over-checks was $4,703.85. The assignee and receiver cannot agree on the amount due
on the account, and the assignee would not allow the claim. The plaintiff says
the account is long, involved and complicated, and a referee should be appointed to make, state and report the
note of $2,500 executed by D. C. Bower & Co., to the bank May 25, 1898 and
due Aug. 23, 1899; making a total of $7,203.85, for which judgment is asked.
The receiver also filed a petition
against E. M. Crosser as assignee of D.
C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower asking $2,500 on a note dated May 21, 1898,
and due August 23. It is signed by D.
C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower.

FORSTER IS OUT.

He Yesterday Afternoon Wired
His Resignation as a Water Trustee.

Clerk Gipner, of the water department, yesterday received a telegram from Trustee Thomas C. Forster, who is at present in Ashville, N. C., in which he stated that he would be compelled to resign his position on the board owing to the fact that his business called him away from the city so much. This will mean that there will be two trustees to select at the primaries Saturday.

Directors In Session.

The Young Men's Christian association directors met last evening and discussed several matters of interest to the association. They were all referred to the proper committees who will report at the next meeting, when it is expected Secretary Kling will be present.

The following letter dated at Manila
February 2, was received by Captain Palmer today:

"DEAR SERGEANT: I have a few spare moments and I will try and tell you how we are getting along out here in the land of Zulus. At present it looks like a fight with the insurgents, and at night we sleep with our brown clothes on, ready for business. We have a very strong outpost, and if those brownies start anything, what we will do to them will be a plenty.
In case a fight starts, one battalion of the Tenth will be ordered to the firing line, and in that bunch will be Old Glory, the flag that came so proudly into Manila.
I am the only one of the old gang left;
but if God lets me live and gives me

New Quarters.

Arrangements have been completed
for the moving of the Grand Army to its comfortable quarters in the Exchange
building.

The farewell meeting will be held in
the Thompson building Friday night,
and Saturday will be occupied in moving the effects of the post to the new room. A meeting will be held there
Tuesday evening to which the public is invited, an excellent program having been prepared. Tuesday evening the Sons of Veterans will meet in the old hall
for the last time, and Friday evening of next week the Grand Army, Women's Relief corps and Sons of Veterans will hold a joint session. A large attendance
and an enjoyable time is anticipated.

Peculiar Flight of Two Ladies Who Waited Too Long at the Station—Confirmed a Class—All the News of Wells-
ville.

Much amusement was furnished the bystanders at the upper depot when the
trains were going west this morning.

Miss Addie Dennis and Miss Maude
Anderson were desirous of leaving on
the main line, but did not know their
attempted to board it. Miss Dennis caught the front end of the mail car and succeeded in landing in safety. Miss Anderson waited until the first passenger coach came along, and not understanding the science of boarding trains
in motion would certainly have come to grief, but for the timely assistance of several train officials. The train was at length stopped, but when it pulled out
Miss Dennis was still aboard the mail
car. Their destination was Kensington.

Will Be Made Because a Young Man Complained.

This morning a young man named
Carey called at city hall, and upon entering Mayor Bough's office said: "I want two men arrested immediately." Those in the office at that time were asked to retire and nothing more was heard of the conversation. Before the mayor had finished his talk with Mr.
Carey warrants for the arrest of several parties were made out. Carey was seen by a reporter, and when asked about the
case would not talk, other than to say
no arrests would be made this week.
When Mayor Bough was asked for information he also refused to talk.

William Ferrall, who was arrested
Tuesday night, was discharged yesterday afternoon. He went into Walsh's restaurant Tuesday evening, and after eating a meal tendered 10 cents as pay-

He was taken to jail, and as Walsh
would not prefer a charge he was re-

No arrests were made during the
night or this morning, and no police
calls were sent to the fire station.

PLANS FOR NEW ARMY.

How the Enlisted Strength Will Be Distributed.

NEW FORCE WILL HAVE 63,095 MEN.

Enlistments for the regular army are being made at an unprecedented rate—Inducements to volunteers to stay in the service—will receive credit for enlisting.

The plans of the war department for the organization of a regular army of 65,000 men and the distribution of the enlisted strength among the several branches of the service were approved by President McKinley the other day, and they will be carried into effect at once. Secretary Alger carried to the cabinet, meeting a statement prepared under the supervision of Adjutant General Corbin showing the basis of company, troop and battery organization. The number of enlisted men allotted to the infantry, cavalry and artillery and the staff departments and the total enlisted strength that will be necessary to fill the regiments under the plan proposed. This statement was accepted and approved by the president.

The new army will absorb 63,095 enlisted men, leaving a surplus of 1,905 recruits on hand to fill vacancies. Each battery of artillery will have 120 men and each regiment of 14 batteries 1,680 men. The heavy batteries will contain the same number of men as the light. Under the old law heavy batteries had more men than light batteries. Each troop of cavalry will contain 100 men, making 1,200 men to the regiment. Each company of infantry will contain 112 men, making 1,344 men to the regiment. The allotments of enlisted men for a battery of artillery and a troop of cavalry were reduced, while the enlisted strength of each company of infantry was increased from 106 to 112. This table will show the distribution of enlisted men agreed on by the military authorities and approved by President McKinley.

	Number of men.
Cavalry, ten regiments.....	12,000
Enlisted staff and bands.....	340
Artillery, seven regiments.....	11,704
Enlisted staff and bands.....	210
Infantry, 25 regiments.....	33,000
Enlisted staff and bands.....	825
Signal corps.....	700
Hospital corps.....	2,700
Ordnance department.....	605
Communications.....	100
Post quartermaster sergeants.....	105
Sergeant electricians of artillery.....	75
Scouts.....	75

Total enlisted strength.....	63,095
RECAPITULATION.....
Total fighting strength.....	57,360
Total noncommissioned staff and bands.....	1,675
Total other personnel (Signal corps, hospital corps, ordnance department, etc.).....	4,360

Enlistments for the new regular army are being made at an unprecedented rate. The effect of the advertisements inserted in the newspapers has been to bring great crowds of recruits to every recruiting station. Many men of the volunteer organizations now being mustered out in southern camps are enlisting in the regular service. These men are welcome additions to the army, and every inducement to secure them will be made. They will receive credit for their volunteer enlistments, thus enabling them to secure continuous service pay, but will be obliged to join the army for the prescribed period of three years, volunteer service not counting as part of this. Each volunteer discharged will receive travel pay to the place of his enlistment, and six months' extra clothing allowance in cash.

Nearly all the recruits who have applied for enlistment in the regular army in the last few days, have asked to be assigned to regiments under orders to proceed to the Philippines or already there. There will be no trouble in accommodating these men, as it is intended to fill up the Philippine regiments immediately. Army officers are gratified over this rush for active service. They say it shows that the men who are applying for enlistment want to join the army for patriotic reasons and for adventure and not merely to secure a certain means of subsistence. If these applications continue, and the military authorities have no doubt that they will, the authorized strength of the army will be attained in a very short time.

The same opportunity presented to the volunteers in the United States who want to go into the regular establishment will be given to volunteer troops in Cuba and the Philippines. There are no volunteers in Porto Rico. It is believed in Washington that many of the volunteers now engaged in active campaigning against Aguinaldo's forces will re-enlist in the regular army when their muster out is ordered. All the volunteer troops in the Philippines will be brought home for muster out, but such of the enlisted men as desire to remain in the service will receive their discharge at Manila or wherever they may be stationed in the archipelago and permitted to enlist in the regulars. They will be entitled to continuous service pay, travel pay from the place where they would have landed in the United States to the places of enlistment in this country and six months clothing allowance.

When the army bill became a law, the enlistments in the regular service

numbered about 40,000. At the rate at which men are enlisting in the United States the additional 25,000 enlistments authorized by the law will be secured in a few months.—New York Sun.

ALL CHEER "PREXY" TAYLOR

Vassar Girls in Dress Suits Give Their President an Ovation.

The citizens of Poughkeepsie gave a dinner at the Nelson House the other night to President James M. Taylor of Vassar in recognition of his decision to remain at Vassar, instead of accepting the presidency of Brown university.

President Taylor was given an ovation on the occasion of the last ball play at Vassar, when he entered the theater, where the girls played Madeline Lucette Ryley's "Christopher, Jr." Some of the students were in evening dress suits borrowed from their brothers, while others were in evening gowns. When Dr. Taylor entered, the actresses and audience cheered and gave college yells, which ended in the Vassar Glee club singing the following song to the tune of "Jingle Bells."

A month or so ago our hearts were sore, downcast,

The sky of rose and gray a shadow overcast.

But Vassar girls declared, dear what all might say.

That Brown might try her very best, but prexy here would stay.

CHORUS.

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy, cheer.

We know he couldn't get away, but aren't we glad he's here!

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy, cheer.

For he will be our president for many a happy year!

Let every voice ring out to you the merry song.

And wish our president happy life and long.

The sky once overcast is bright and clear to day.

And Vassar is one ahead of Brown, for prexy's here to stay.

THE WORLD'S ARMAMENTS.

There Are 5,250,000 Soldiers in Civilized Countries.

In an article on the coming disarmament conference in The League, the Kleine Zeitung computes that should all the armies of the civilized world discard their uniforms no fewer than 5,250,000 fighters would have to go to work. The writer also indulges in the following series of startling conjectures: "The total population of the earth, to take one example, is only 32 times as large as the total of its soldier population. If every soldier in the world were to shoot 32 men, nobody would be left upon the earth who was not a soldier."—Philadelphia Press.

New Cure For Drunkenness.

Justice of the Peace Moritz Oehlel of East St. Louis advances a new idea for the cure of the drink habit. The justice has the Illinois law enlisted in his aid, and up to the other evening had turned out ten graduates. Should any of these graduates return to drinking they are liable to find themselves in jail and possibly in the penitentiary on a charge of perjury. Justice Oehlel's idea is to administer an iron bound oath to the man who desires to stop drinking. Two or more witnesses subscribe their names in each case, and should the oath be violated the witnesses will be subpoenaed to prosecute the man on a charge of perjury.—New York World.

The Armour Institute.

Speaking of the Armour's additional gift of $750,000 to the Armour Institute of Chicago, The Post of that city says: "Armour Institute is now regarded as among the best technical institutions in the country, but with increased means it will take its place among the highest ranking institutions of technical instruction in the world. Already students from India, Australia, Japan and other countries have been attracted to it and with its facilities, which will be materially increased, it is certain to become one of the features of Chicago. The institute has been the pet child of Mr. Armour and in its growth and wonderful development under Dr. Gunnsalus administration he finds his chief enjoyment."

STRANGE EVENTS.

A Philadelphia mother, sold her hair to provide food for her children during the recent cold snap.

Salem county (N. J.) farmers saved their potatoes through the cold weather by keeping lamps burning in their cellars.

The people of Placeville, Mich., are killing all the cats in town in the belief that they are responsible for the spread of diphtheria among the children.

An old man of Egg Harbor, N. J., almost cut his face off by the ax he was chopping kindling with catching in a clothesline and striking him in the forehead and cheek.

The state of Pennsylvania is making a fight for the $50,000 estate of an old maid who died without heirs nearer than cousins, which the state claims are not "blood relatives."

Mrs. Kirby of Bridgeport, N. J., cracked the shell of one of the eggs she was putting to hatch under a hen, but she patched it with adhesive plaster and let it go with the others. It recently hatched out the biggest chick in the lot.

PLANS FOR NEW ARMY.

How the Enlisted Strength Will Be Distributed.

NEW FORCE WILL HAVE 63,095 MEN.

Enlistments for the Regular Army Are Being Made at an Unprecedented Rate—Inducements to Volunteers to Stay in the Service—Will Receive Credit for Enlisting.

The plans of the war department for the organization of a regular army of 66,000 men and the distribution of the enlisted strength among the several branches of the service were approved by President McKinley the other day, and they will be carried into effect at once. Secretary Alger carried to the cabinet meeting a statement prepared under the supervision of Adjutant General Corbin showing the basis of company, troop and battery organization, the number of enlisted men allotted to the infantry, cavalry and artillery and the staff departments, and the total enlisted strength that will be necessary to fill the regiments under the plan proposed. This statement was accepted and approved by the president.

The new army will absorb 63,095 enlisted men, leaving a surplus of 1,905 recruits on hand to fill vacancies. Each battery of artillery will have 120 men and each regiment of 14 batteries 1,680 men. The heavy batteries will contain the same number of men as the light. Under the old law heavy batteries had more men than light batteries. Each troop of cavalry will contain 100 men, making 1,200 men to the regiment. Each company of infantry will contain 112 men, making 1,344 men to the regiment. The allotments of enlisted men for a battery of artillery and a troop of cavalry were reduced, while the enlisted strength of each company of infantry was increased from 106 to 112. This table will show the distribution of enlisted men agreed on by the military authorities and approved by President McKinley.

Every effort will be made to secure them. They will receive credit for their volunteer enlistments, thus enabling them to secure continuous service pay but will be obliged to join the army for the prescribed period of three years, volunteer service not counting as part of this. Each volunteer discharged will receive travel pay to the place of his enlistment and six months' extra clothing allowance in cash.

Nearly all the recruits who have applied for enlistment in the regular army in the last few days, have asked to be assigned to regiments under orders to proceed to the Philippines or already there. There will be no trouble in accommodating these men, as it is intended to fill up the Philippine regiments immediately. Army officers are gratified over this rush for active service. They say it shows that the men who are applying for enlistment want to join the army for patriotic reasons and for adventure and not merely to secure a certain means of subsistence. If these applications continue, and the military authorities have no doubt that they will, the authorized strength of the army will be attained in a very short time.

The same opportunity presented to the volunteers in the United States who want to go into the regular establishment will be given to volunteer troops in Cuba and the Philippines. There are no volunteers in Porto Rico. It is believed in Washington that many of the volunteers now engaged in active campaigning against Aguinaldo's forces will re-enlist in the regular army when their muster out is ordered. All the volunteer troops in the Philippines will be brought home for muster out, but such of the enlisted men as desire to remain in the service will receive their discharge at Manila or wherever they may be stationed in the archipelago and permitted to enlist in the regulars. They will be entitled to continuous service pay, travel pay from the place where they would have landed in the United States to the places of enlistment in this country and six months clothing allowance.

When the army bill became a law, the enlistments in the regular service

numbered about 40,000. At the rate at which men are enlisting in the United States the additional 25,000 enlistments authorized by the law will be secured in a few months.—New York Sun.

ALL CHEER "PREXY" TAYLOR

Vassar Girls in Dress Suits Give Their President an Ovation.

The citizens of Poughkeepsie gave a dinner at the Nelson House the other night to President James M. Taylor of Vassar in recognition of his decision to remain at Vassar instead of accepting the presidency of Brown university. President Taylor was given an ovation on the occasion of the last hall play at Vassar, when he entered the theater where the girls played Madeline Lucette Blythe's "Christopher, Jr." Some of the students were in evening dress suits borrowed from their brothers, while others were in evening gowns. When Dr. Taylor entered, the actresses and audience cheered and gave college yells, which ended in the Vassar Glee club singing the following song to the tune of "Single Bells."

And wish our president happy life and long.
The sky once overcast is bright and clear to day,
And Vassar is one ahead of Brown, for prexy's here to stay.

CHORUS.

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy cheer.

We know he couldn't get away, but aren't we glad he's here!

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy cheer.

For he will be our president for many a happy year.

Let every voice ring out to you the merry cheer,

PLANS FOR NEW ARMY.

How the Enlisted Strength Will Be Distributed.

NEW FORCE WILL HAVE 63,095 MEN.

Enlistments for the Regular Army are being made at an unprecedented rate—Inducements to Volunteers to Stay in the Service—Will Receive Credit for Enlisting.

The plans of the war department for the organization of a regular army of 45,000 men and the distribution of the enlisted strength among the several branches of the service were approved by President McKinley the other day, and they will be carried into effect at once. Secretary Alger carried to the cabinet meeting a statement prepared under the supervision of Adjutant General Corbin showing the basis of company, troop and battery organization. The number of enlisted men allotted to the infantry, cavalry and artillery and the staff departments and the total enlisted strength that will be necessary to fill the regiments under the plan proposed. This statement was accepted and approved by the president.

The new army will absorb 63,095 enlisted men, leaving a surplus of 1,905 recruits on hand to fill vacancies. Each battery of artillery will have 120 men and each regiment of 14 batteries 1,680 men. The heavy batteries will contain the same number of men as the light. Under the old law heavy batteries had more men than light batteries. Each troop of cavalry will contain 100 men, making 1,200 men to the regiment. Each company of infantry will contain 112 men, making 1,344 men to the regiment. The allotments of enlisted men for a battery of artillery and a troop of cavalry were reduced, while the enlisted strength of each company of infantry was increased from 106 to 112. This table will show the distribution of enlisted men agreed on by the military authorities and approved by President McKinley.

Enlistments for the new regular army are being made at an unprecedented rate. The effect of the advertisements inserted in the newspapers has been to bring great crowds of recruits to every recruiting station. Many of the volunteer organizations now being mustered out to southern camps are enlisting in the regular service. These men are welcome additions to the army, and every inducement to secure them will be made. They will receive credit for their volunteer enlistments, thus enabling them to secure continuous service pay but will be obliged to join the army for the prescribed period of three years, volunteer service not counting as part of this. Each volunteer discharged will receive travel pay to the place of his enlistment and six months' extra clothing allowance in cash.

Nearly all the recruits who have applied for enlistment in the regular army in the last few days have asked to be assigned to regiments under orders to proceed to the Philippines or already there. There will be no trouble in accommodating these men, as it is intended to fill up the Philippine regiments immediately. Army officers are gratified over this rush for active service. They say it shows that the men who are applying for enlistment want to join the army for patriotic reasons and for adventure and not merely to secure a certain means of subsistence. If these applications continue, and the military authorities have no doubt that they will, the authorized strength of the army will be attained in a very short time.

The same opportunity presented to the volunteers in the United States who want to go into the regular establishment will be given to volunteer troops in Cuba and the Philippines. There are no volunteers in Porto Rico. It is believed in Washington that many of the volunteers now engaged in active campaigning against Aguinaldo's forces will re-enlist in the regular army when their muster out is ordered. All the volunteer troops in the Philippines will be brought home for muster out, but such of the enlisted men as desire to remain in the service will receive their discharges at Manila or wherever they may be stationed in the archipelago and permitted to enlist in the regulars. They will be entitled to continuous service pay, travel pay from the place where they would have landed in the United States to the places of enlistment in this country and six months' clothing allowance.

numbered about 40,000. At the rate at which men are enlisting in the United States the additional 25,000 enlistments authorized by the law will be secured in a few months.—New York Sun.

A month or so ago our hearts were sore, downcast,
The sky of rose and gray a shadow overcast,
But Vassar girls declared, dear what all might say,
That Brown might try his very best, but prexy here would stay.

CHORUS.

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy, cheer.

We know he couldn't get away, but aren't we glad he's here!

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy, cheer.

For he will be our president for many a happy year.

Let every voice ring out to you the merry song
And wish our president happy life and long.

THE WORLD'S ARMAMENTS.

There Are 5,250,000 Soldiers in Civilized Countries.

In an article on the coming disarmament conference in The Hague, the Kleine Zeitung computes that should all the armies of the civilized world discard their uniforms no fewer than 5,250,000 fighters would have to go to work. The writer also indulges in the following series of startling conjectures:

"The total population of the earth, to take one example, is only 32 times as large as the total of its soldier population. If every soldier in the world were to shoot 32 men, nobody would be left upon the earth who was not a soldier."—Philadelphia Press.

New Cure For Drunkenness.

Justice of the Peace Moritz Oehlet of East St. Louis advances a new idea for the cure of the drink habit. The justice has the Illinois law enlisted in his aid, and up to the other evening had turned out ten graduates. Should any of these graduates return to drinking they are liable to find themselves in jail and possibly in the penitentiary on a charge of perjury. Justice Oehlet's idea is to administer an iron bound oath to the man who desires to stop drinking. Two or more witnesses subscribe their names in each case, and should the oath be violated the witnesses will be subpoenaed to prosecute the man on a charge of perjury.—New York World.

The Armour Institute.

Speaking of P. D. Armour's additional gift of $750,000 to the Armour Institute of Chicago, The Post of that city says: "Armour Institute is now regarded as among the best technical institutions in the country, but with increased means it will take its place among the highest ranking institutions of technical instruction in the world. Already students from India, Australia, Japan and other countries have been attracted to it and with its facilities, which will be materially increased, it is certain to become one of the features of Chicago. The Institute has been the pet child of Mr. Armour, and in its growth and wonderful development under Dr. Gusman's administration he finds his chief enjoyment."

STRANGE EVENTS.

A Philadelphia mother, sold her hair to provide food for her children during the recent cold snap.

Salem county (N. J.) farmers saved their potatoes through the cold weather by keeping lamps burning in their cellars.

The people of Placeville, Mich., are killing all the cats in town in the belief that they are responsible for the spread of diphtheria among the children.

An old man of Egg Harbor, N. J., almost cut his face off by the ax he was chopping kindling with catching in a clothesline and striking him in the forehead and cheek.

The state of Pennsylvania is making a fight for the $50,000 estate of an old maid who died without heirs nearer than cousins, which the state claims are not "blood relatives."

Mrs. Kirby of Bridgeport, N. J., cracked the shell of one of the eggs she was putting to hatch under a hen, but she patched it with adhesive plaster and let it go with the others. It recently hatched out the biggest chick in the lot.

OUR NEW SEA FIGHTERS

Features of the Projected Additions to the Navy.

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY.

Battleships to Be 420 Feet Long, of 11,500 Tons Displacement and Have 12 Knots Speed—Cruisers Will Be Larger and Have a Speed of 22 Knots.

Under the plans prepared by the bureau of construction and repair the projected battleships, armored cruisers and unprotected cruisers will when completed be the finest ships of their respective classes in the world.

Admiral Hichborn expects that the plans for the battleships and armored cruisers will be completed and approved by the department by the time Congress reconvenes in December, so that the secretary will be ready to award contracts the moment the armor controversy is settled. He said the other day that it is proposed to apply the electrical system in operating the machinery of the new ships more generally than will be done on board the battleships of the Maine class, and he promises that in all respects the ships will be greatly superior to anything of their respective types now afloat or under construction.

From the department I obtained these general features of the proposed battleships: Length, 420 feet; beam, 75 feet; displacement, 11,500 tons; speed, not less than 18½ knots; draft, mean, 24 feet; horsepower, natural draft, 12,800; forced draft, 18,400; coal capacity, 2,200 tons.

The hulls of the ships will be of steel, sheathed and coppered, and will be propelled by twin screws. Their engines will be of the quadruple expansion type, and they will be supplied with water tube boilers. Each ship will be equipped with two submarine torpedo tubes. With its maximum coal capacity aboard one of the proposed battleships, steaming at its economical speed of ten knots, will be able to steam 10,666 knots.

Each vessel will be supplied with this armament: Main battery—Four 12 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets; sixteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in redoubt or casemates, four of which will have end fire. Secondary fire—Ten 12 pounders, twelve 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

Final decision has not yet been reached as to the protection that will be given the ships, but as so far determined it will consist of a complete belt 7 feet 6 inches wide, 12 inches thick at water line between barbettes, thence tapering to 5 inches at extremities. The diagonal armor will be 12 inches in thickness. The side above the belt to main deck from barrette to barrette will be 6 inches and the casemates of redoubts will be protected by 6 inches. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate 12 inches throughout. The barbettes will be 13 inches in front, reduced to 10 inches in the rear. The conning tower will be 12 inches and the armored signal tower 9 inches. A cellulose belt will be supplied to each ship.

On account of having high speed the armored cruisers will not be so well protected or so well armed as the battleships. Like the battleships, they will have steel hulls, sheathed and coppered, twin screws and two masts. These will be their dimensions: Length, 460 feet; beam, 69 feet; displacement, 12,000 tons; speed, not less than 22 knots; draft, mean, 24 feet 6 inches; horsepower, natural draft, 16,310; forced draft, 23,300; coal capacity, 1,800 tons.

Steaming at its economical speed of 12 knots each armored cruiser will have a steaming radius of 7,830 knots. The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers of the water tube type. This will be the armament of each ship: Main battery—Four 8 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets, one forward and one aft; fourteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in broadside, the forward and after pair sponsored for end fire. Second battery—Ten 12 pounders, ten 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

It has not been fully determined what armored protection can be supplied to the ships. As originally contemplated, it was intended to provide each with a complete belt 6 inches thick at the water line and 7 feet 6 inches wide, full thickness from barrette to barrette, thence tapering to 4 inches at extremities. It is questionable whether the 6 inch armor can be carried above the belt, and it may be that the thickness of the belt will have to be reduced at the ends of the vessels. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate and the armor will be 9 inches thick all around. The barbettes will be 10 inches thick, reduced to 6 inches in the rear. The diagonal armor will be 8 inches, conning tower, 10 inches; armored signal tower, 8 inches, and protective deck, 6 inches on the slope and 5 inches flat. Cellulose belts will be supplied to the ships.

With respect to the third class cruisers, as they will be officially designated, the plans will be completed as promptly as possible in order that the contracts may be awarded within a short time. There will be six of these ships. Their hulls will be of steel, sheathed and coppered, and they will be supplied with twin screws and two masts, and will have their dimensions: Length, 280 feet; beam, 43 feet; displacement, 2,600 tons; speed, not less than 16 knots; draft, mean, 16 feet 9 inches; horsepower, natural draft, 2,450; forced, 3,500; coal capacity, 650.

Though the coal capacity is seemingly small compared with that of the battleships and armored cruisers, the little cruisers will be able to steam 7,234 knots and keep at sea 33 days without recoaling. Their armament will be: Main battery, ten 5 inch rapid fire guns, two on upper deck with shields on center line, eight in broadside, forward and aft pair sponsored; secondary battery, ten 3 pounders, two 1 pounders and four machine guns.

The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers water tube. Each ship will have a conning tower with six inch protection, a water tight deck and a cellulose belt. The department of justice has so constructed the personnel law that the navy department will be required by June 30 to take steps to retire officers voluntarily and compulsorily in order to make the number of vacancies which the law provides shall be made in any one year.—Cor. OUR WAR IN BRITISH EYES.

Admiral Colomb Tells Why Our Naval Strategy Was Hazardous.

Vice Admiral Philip Howard Colomb (retired) lectured recently in London on the "Lessons of the Spanish-American War" before the members of the United Service Institutions. After dealing with the impossibility of secrecy in warfare hereafter, owing to the vigilance of the press and the necessity for protecting cables in shallow water, he said he thought that if Spain had showed real comprehension of strategy the United States would not have been so successful.

The sure way for the United States would have been for her to send a sufficient force to the coast of Spain to balance the forces known to have been in Spanish ports and to send a squadron to the Cape Verde Islands the moment it was known a Spanish flotilla was assembling there. And, he added, if the island of Minorca had been seized as a base nothing offensive on the other side of the Atlantic would have been attempted by Spain.

The lesson to be deduced was, according to the lecturer, that American strategy was hazardous, in so far as it departed from the stereotyped rules of naval war. Admiral Cervera's ships were lost sight of, causing anxiety on the American coasts, and the Americans kept considerable squadrons wholly in a defensive attitude, instead of maintaining command of the sea. It was clear, he added, that if there had been coal supplies at Santiago de Cuba, and if Admiral Cervera's squadron had been reasonably efficient instead of "a miserable abortion," all it could have proposed to effect by entering Santiago might have been done without any interference upon the part of the United States navy.

From the actions of the Spanish forts the American ships deduced the idea that their very inefficient batteries were able to keep the ships at a distance. Regarding the purely tactical questions involved, the admiral said it was plain that Admiral Dewey took full advantage of the superiority of his guns and gunners and placed himself in so distant a position that neither the Spanish ships nor the Spanish batteries were able adequately to reply to his fire. The whole thing, continued the lecturer, "was terribly businesslike on the American side, with a pathetic parade of quixotic gallantry on the other."

In finishing Admiral Colomb commented upon the fact that all orders to the American ships were sent from Washington, which he considered was a momentous change in naval warfare.—New York Herald.

SLAVE AT A GOLD WEDDING.

Bill Arp's Family Honor Faithful Old Uncle Tip.

One of the honored guests at the celebration of the golden wedding of Bill Arp, the southern humorist, at Cartersville, Ga., the other night was Uncle Tip, an aged negro whose fortunes were long entwined with the family. The old southern custom was for the father of a bridegroom to give the bride a man slave, who should thenceforth be charged with her personal safety. Uncle Tip was the human present in Mr. Arp's case. His father had been deeded in the same manner to Mr. Arp's mother.

When the war broke out, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Arp's mother, and her two daughters were protected and provided for faithfully by Tip. On one occasion he had to go into Rome, Ga., for his mistress while the town was invested by Federal soldiers. The latter held him to work for them. At the first opportunity he sprang into the Etowah river and amid a shower of bullets swam three miles to the swamps and joined his helpless charges.—New York Journal.

Odd little blizzard items are drifting in from all points of the compass. Here is a specimen bit. It comes from Hagerstown, Md.: "Henry Boyer, who carries the Dry Run mail, had his mouth frozen up the other day. The breath on his beard and mustache was converted into a solid cake of ice."

SANTODOMINGO EXPEDITION

Napoleon Characterized It as His Greatest Folly.

From General Gourgaud's posthumous memoirs of Napoleon, just published, the following extract about the Santo Domingo expedition is taken:

Napoleon characterized the affair of Santo Domingo as the greatest folly he had ever committed. "Had it succeeded it would only have served to enrich the Nouilles and the Rochefoucaulds. I think that Josephine, as a creole, had some influence in this matter; not directly, but a wife always exercises an influence over her husband. I should have treated with the black chiefs, as with the authorities of the province, should have named negro officers in the regiments of their race, should have left Toussaint l'Ouverture as a viceroy, should have sent no troops thither, should have left everything to the blacks save some white ministers—a treasurer, for example—and I should have insisted that these should marry black women. Thus the negroes, seeing no white force around them, would have gained confidence in my system. The colony would have proclaimed the liberty of the slaves. It is true that I should have lost Martinique, for the blacks would have been freed, but all this would have happened without disorder."

"Colonel of Engineers Vincent was the only one who gave me wise advice in regard to this expedition. He sought to turn me from it by pointing out that it was better to treat with the negro than to seek his destruction. Every thing that he predicted happened. The Bourbons should renew their efforts to regain this beautiful colony, which brings in some 180,000,000 francs per annum. They should count upon losing 100,000 men in three years. But under their present system that would be for the best. They would rid themselves of all the officers and soldiers of the old army, and would regain a fine colony."

"At the time of my divorce the daughter of Lucien came to Paris. She took up her quarters with Mme. Mere, and criticised everything. She has a biting wit. I asked Caroline the reason of this conduct. I pressed her for an answer, and I found that the whole family was intriguing to have me marry her. I fiercely rejected the idea. She was my niece, and it would have seemed to me that I was committing incest. At first I had the intention of choosing a Parisian as my wife. I had made up a list of five or six names, but every one counseled the alliance with Austria save Fouché and Cambaceres, who dreaded it on account of their own conduct during the revolution, but who subsequently found that they had been mistaken."

CHINESE PRAISE BERESFORD

His Plans For Preservation of the Nation Approved at Hongkong.

A meeting was recently held in Hongkong for the purpose of passing resolutions commending Lord Charles Beresford and his plans for the preservation of China. The meeting adopted a set of resolutions, of which the following copy reached Seattle, Wash., recently:

Having closely followed with great and attentive interest and carefully considered all that Lord Charles Beresford has said and done in China in connection with his recent mission on behalf of the associated chambers of commerce, the Chinese community of Hongkong here assembled are in accord with and heartily support the policy the noble lord proposes with regard to the "open door," as regards commerce and also with regard to the reorganization of the Chinese army under the British.

Resolved, That we recognize the combined proposals, if carried out, will benefit China quite as much as England and other foreign nations, if not more, and we therefore hope that Lord Charles will be intrusted by the British government with the carrying out of the views he has so clearly enunciated, as we observe that his efforts are directed to the benefit of both his country and the Chinese empire and to the benefit of the trade of China, England and other countries.

Resolved, That we recognize and make our cordial acknowledgment for the sympathetic manner with which he has come to China, and that we desire to emphatically express our full confidence in Lord Charles, whose ability, integrity and zeal we are sure peculiarly fit him to successfully carry out the proposals he has made for the preservation of China.

Cocoon by Mail.

One of the strangest packages which has ever been handled by the clerks in the Waterville (Me.) postoffice was delivered to S. S. Lightbody the other afternoon. The package was a cocoon in the same form, in which it was taken from the tree. There was no tag attached to the cocoon. Instead the address was written on the husk. One of the three sides of the husk was taken up by the address, which used up nearly all the space allotted for it. Another side contained the postage stamps. Of these there was one 15 cent stamp, two 2 cent stamps, and, in spite of the fact that the remaining stamp of 1 cent denomination was one of the stamps issued in commemoration of the Maine, there was plenty of room for many more stamps of the same size, so large was the surface. The cocoon was sent by Fred Gonyer, who several months ago was employed at Mr. Lightbody's store. Mr. Gonyer is now in Palm Beach, Fla.—Portland Argus.

White Woman Elected as a "Medicine Man."

The Kiowa Indians at Wichita, Kan., recently elected a white woman as their "medicine man." Her name is Mrs. Poor Buffalo, or Belle Perkins. Her husband, who was the medicine man of the tribe, died recently, and she was elected to take his place. Mrs. Poor Buffalo is a white woman and has lived among the Kiowas for the past 30 years. She is now 40 years old. She is the first white woman to hold this kind of a position. Her duties are to supply the Indians with news from heaven.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SAYS DEWEY IS NOT WELL.

Captain Fraser Says He Cannot Endure the Strain Another Month.

Captain Fraser of London, late of the British imperial forces, arrived at Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, where he had the honor of dining with Admiral Dewey. To a correspondent Captain Fraser said:

"The war at Manila will have to end soon or the life of the great American admiral will be worth nothing. I dined with him at Manila within a month and am convinced that if he is not relieved of the terrible strain imposed upon him he cannot last a month longer. As he sat at the banquet table, surrounded by his staff, he looked to me like a dying man. His hair is snowy white, his face ashen, and he ate hardly anything."

"I had the pleasure of a few minutes' conversation with him when we retired to the smoking room. Having in mind his terribly enfeebled appearance, I asked him if he thought of returning to America soon. He replied: 'I would like to, but my work is by no means finished here. When it is, and only then, will I return.'"

"I am thoroughly convinced that only the admiral's indomitable will has kept him up so long. The strain on him is terrific, and the climatic conditions have reduced him to a shadow. His officers and men worship him. As an English officer and knowing the magnificent work he has done, I have the greatest admiration for him."

"One of his officers said to me just before I left Manila: 'The war will be ended by the admiral soon or it will end him. No man can stand such a strain as he does in this climate and live long.'—New York World.

NEW SERUM FOR PNEUMONIA

Professor Wasserman, One of Koch's Pupils, Makes a Discovery.

Professor Wasserman of Berlin, one of Professor Koch's ablest pupils, is believed to have discovered a new serum for the cure of pneumonia. He inoculated rabbits with the pneumococcus bacillus, which is generally believed to cause pneumonia, and with the serum thus gained he inoculated mice suffering from pneumonia. A subsequent series of experiments showed that it was in the red marrow of the bones that the antitoxin is produced and that red marrow taken from a human corpse after death from pneumonia and used as a serum will cure mice infected with that disease.

Accordingly it is hoped that this serum will have the same satisfactory results in human beings.—New York World.

THE SOUTHERN VETERAN SPEAKS

I've faced the fight with Jackson, I've marched along with Lee, I had some words with Sherman as he galloped to the sea, Exchanged brisk compliments with Grant when victory seemed in view, My old steel bayonet glittering at many a breast in blue.

I say, I've been with Jackson, and Lee he knew my name, And sometimes, when the fight was on, he called me by the same. I followed, fierce and fearless, where Long street led the way To fields whose bloody daisies were blent with blue and gray.

But now I'm in the Union, I see there, over head, The flag our fathers fought for, her rippling rills of red, All glorious and victorious—the splendor of her stars— And I say, "The blood of heroes dyed all her crimson bars."

I'm for that flag forever against foes on sea and shore! Who shames her? Who defames her? Give me my gun once more! We'll answer when they need us, when the war fires light the night; There's a Lee still left to lead us to the glory of the fight!

See how the old flag ripples and flaunts her folds in scorn! Her stars and bars will be the joy of nations yet unborn, And, though she waves o'er new made graves, neath alien soil and dew, There, in the starry silence, the gray sleep with the blue.

We're one in heart forever, we're one in heart and hand, The flag's a challenge to the sea, a garland to the land, We're united—one great country; freedom's the watchword still, There's a Lee that's left to lead us, let the storm break where it will! —Frank L. Stanton in Collier's Weekly.

OUR NEW SEA FIGHTERS

Features of the Projected Additions to the Navy.

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY.

Battleships to Be 420 Feet Long, of 11,500 Tons Displacement and Have 1-2 Knots Speed—Cruisers Will Be Larger and Have a Speed of 22 Knots.

Under the plans prepared by the bureau of construction and repair the projected battleships, armored cruisers and unprotected cruisers will when completed be the finest ships of their respective classes in the world.

Admiral Hichborn expects that the plans for the battleships and armored cruisers will be completed and approved by the department by the time congress reconvenes in December, so that the secretary will be ready to award contracts the moment the armor controversy is settled. He said the other day that it is proposed to apply the electrical system in operating the machinery of the new ships more generally than will be done on board the battleships of the Maine class, and he promises that in all respects the ships will be greatly superior to anything of their respective types now afloat or under construction.

From the department I obtained these general features of the proposed battleships. Length, 420 feet; beam, 75 feet; displacement, 11,500 tons; speed, not less than 18 1/2 knots; draft, mean, 24 feet; horsepower, natural draft, 12,800; forced draft, 18,400; coal capacity, 2,200 tons.

The hulls of the ships will be of steel, sheathed and coppered, and will be propelled by twin screws. Their engines will be of the quadruple expansion type, and they will be supplied with water tube boilers. Each ship will be equipped with two submarine torpedo tubes. With its maximum coal capacity aboard one of the proposed battleships, steaming at its economical speed of ten knots, will be able to steam 10,666 miles.

Each vessel will be supplied with this armament. Main battery—Four 12 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets; sixteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in redoubt or casemates, four of which will have end fire. Secondary fire—Ten 12 pounders, twelve 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

Final decision has not yet been reached as to the protection that will be given the ships, but as so far determined it will consist of a complete belt 7 feet 6 inches wide, 12 inches thick at water line between barbettes, thence tapering to 5 inches at extremities. The diagonal armor will be 12 inches in thickness. The side above the belt to main deck from barbettes to barbettes will be 6 inches and the casemates of redoubts will be protected by 6 inches. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate 12 inches throughout. The barbettes will be 13 inches in front, reduced to 10 inches in the rear. The conning tower will be 12 inches and the armored signal tower 9 inches. A cellulose belt will be supplied to each ship.

On account of having high speed the armored cruisers will not be so well protected or so well armed as the battleships. Like the battleships, they will have steel hulls, sheathed and coppered, twin screws and two masts. These will be their dimensions: Length, 400 feet; beam, 69 feet; displacement, 12,000 tons; speed, not less than 22 knots; draft, mean, 24 feet 6 inches; horsepower, natural draft, 16,910; forced draft, 23,300; coal capacity, 1,800 tons.

Steaming at its economical speed of 12 knots each armored cruiser will have a steaming radius of 7,800 miles. The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers of the water tube type. This will be the armament of each ship. Main battery—Four 8 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets, one forward and one aft, fourteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in broadside, the forward and after pair spigoned for end fire. Second battery—Ten 12 pounders, ten 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

It has not been fully determined what armored protection can be supplied to the ships. As originally contemplated, it was intended to provide each with a complete belt 6 inches thick at the water line and 7 feet 6 inches wide, full thickness from barbettes to barbettes, thence tapering to 4 inches at extremities. It is questionable whether the 6 inch armor can be carried above the belt, and it may be that the thickness of the belt will have to be reduced at the ends of the vessels. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate and the armor will be 9 inches thick all around. The barbettes will be 10 inches thick, reduced to 6 inches in the rear. The diagonal armor will be 8 inches, conning tower, 10 inches; armored signal tower, 8 inches, and protective deck, 6 inches on the slope and 3 inches flat. Cellulose belts will be supplied to the ships.

With respect to the third class cruisers, as they will be officially designated, the plans will be completed as promptly as possible in order that the contracts may be awarded within a short time. There will be six of these ships. Their hulls will be of steel, sheathed and con-

pered, and they will be supplied with twin screws and two masts, and will have flush upper decks. These will be their dimensions: Length, 280 feet; beam, 43 feet; displacement, 2,600 tons; speed, not less than 16 knots; draft, mean, 16 feet 9 inches; horsepower (natural draft), 2,450; forced, 3,500; coal capacity, 650.

Though the coal capacity is seemingly small compared with that of the battleships and armored cruisers, the little cruisers will be able to steam 7,234 knots and keep at sea 33 days without recoaling. Their armament will be main battery, ten 5 inch rapid fire guns, two on upper deck with shields on center line, eight in broadside, forward and aft pairs spigoned; secondary battery, ten 3 pounders, two 1 pounders and four machine guns.

The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers water tube. Each ship will have a conning tower with six inch protection, a water tight deck and a cellulose belt. The department of justice has so constructed the personnel law that the navy department will be required by June 30 to take steps to retire officers voluntarily and compulsorily in order to make the number of vacancies which the law provides shall be made in any one year. —Cot. OUR WAR IN BRITISH EYES.

Admiral Colomb Tells Why Our Naval Strategy Was Hazardous.

Vice Admiral Philip Howard Colomb (retired) lectured recently in London on the "Lessons of the Spanish-American War" before the members of the United Service Institutions. After dealing with the impossibility of secrecy in warfare hereafter, owing to the vigilance of the press and the necessity for protecting cables in shallow water, he said he thought that if Spain had showed real comprehension of strategy the United States would not have been so successful.

The sure way for the United States would have been for her to send a sufficient force to the coast of Spain to balance the forces known to have been in Spanish ports and to send a squadron to the Cape Verde Islands the moment it was known a Spanish flotilla was assembling there. And, he added, if the island of Minorca had been seized as a base nothing offensive on the other side of the Atlantic would have been attempted by Spain.

The lesson to be deduced was, according to the lecturer, that American strategy was hazardous, in so far as it departed from the stereotyped rules of naval war. Admiral Cervera's ships were lost sight of, causing anxiety on the American coasts, and the Americans kept considerable squadrons wholly in a defensive attitude, instead of maintaining command of the sea. It was clear, he added, that if there had been coal supplies at Santiago de Cuba, and if Admiral Cervera's squadron had been reasonably efficient instead of "a miserable abortion," all it could have proposed to effect by entering Santiago might have been done without any interference upon the part of the United States navy.

From the actions of the Spanish forts the American ships deduced the idea that their very inefficient batteries were able to keep the ships at a distance. Regarding the purely tactical questions involved, the admiral said it was plain that Admiral Dewey took full advantage of the superiority of his guns and gunners and placed himself in so distant a position that, neither the Spanish ships nor the Spanish batteries were able adequately to reply to his fire. The whole thing, continued the lecturer, "was terribly businesslike on the American side, with a pathetic parade of quixotic gallantry on the other."

In finishing Admiral Colomb commented upon the fact that all orders to the American ships were sent from Washington, which he considered was an momentous change in naval warfare. —New York Herald.

SLAVE AT A GOLD WEDDING.

Bill Arp's Family Honor Faithful Old Uncle Tip.

One of the honored guests at the celebration of the golden wedding of Bill Arp, the southern humorist, at Cartersville, Ga., the other night was Uncle Tip, an aged negro whose fortunes were long entwined with the family. The old southern custom was for the father of a bridegroom to give the bride a man slave, who should thenceforth be charged with her personal safety. Uncle Tip was the human present in Mr. Arp's case. His father had been deeded in the same manner to Mr. Arp's mother.

When the war broke out, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Arp's mother, and her two daughters were protected and provided for faithfully by Tip. On one occasion he had to go into Rome, Ga., for his mistress while the town was invested by Federal soldiers. The latter held him to work for them. At the first opportunity he sprang into the Etowah river and amid a shower of bullets swam three miles to the swamps and joined his helpless charges. —New York Journal.

SANTODOMINGO EXPEDITION.

Napoleon Characterized It as His Greatest Folly.

From General Gourgaud's posthumous memoirs of Napoleon, just published, the following extract about the Santo Domingo expedition is taken.

Napoleon characterized the affair of Santo Domingo as the greatest folly he had ever committed. "Had it succeeded it would only have served to enrich the Noailles and the Rochefoucaults. I think that Josephine, as a creole, had some influence in this matter; not directly, but a wife always exercises an influence over her husband. I should have treated with the black chiefs, as with the authorities of the province, should have named negro officers in the regiments of their race, should have left Toussaint l'Ouverture, a victor, should have sent no troops farther, should have left everything to the blacks save some white ministers—a treasurer, for example—and I should have insisted that these should marry black women. Thus the negroes, seeing no white force around them, would have gained confidence in my system. The colony would have proclaimed the liberty of the slaves. It is true that I should have lost Martinique, for the blacks would have been freed, but all this would have happened without disorder.

"Colonel of Engineers Vincent was the only one who gave me wise advice in regard to this expedition. He sought to turn me from it by pointing out that it was better to treat with the negro than to seek his destruction. Everything that he predicted happened. The Bourbons should renew their efforts to regain this beautiful colony, which brings in some 180,000,000 francs per annum. They should count upon losing 100,000 men in three years. But under their present system that would be for the best. They would rid themselves of all the officers and soldiers of the old army, and would regain a fine colony.

"At the time of my divorce the daughter of Lucien came to Paris. She took up her quarters with Mme. Mere, and criticized everything. She has a biting wit. I asked Caroline the reason of this conduct. I pressed her for an answer, and I found that the whole family was intriguing to have me marry her. I fiercely rejected the idea. She was my niece, and it would have seemed to me that I was committing incest. At first I had the intention of choosing a Parisian as my wife. I had made up a list of five or six names, but every one counseled the alliance with Austria save Fouché and Cambaceres, who dreaded it on account of their own conduct during the revolution, but who subsequently found that they had been mistaken."

CHINESE PRAISE BERESFORD.

His Plans For Preservation of the Nation Approved at Hongkong.

A meeting was recently held in Hongkong for the purpose of passing resolutions commending Lord Charles Beresford and his plans for the preservation of China. The meeting adopted a set of resolutions, of which the following copy reached Seattle, Wash., recently.

Having closely followed with great and tentative interest and carefully considered all that Lord Charles Beresford has said and done in China in connection with his recent mission on behalf of the associated chambers of commerce, the Chinese community of Hongkong here assembled are in accord with and heartily support the policy the noble lord proposes with regard to the "open door" as regards commerce and also with regard to the reorganization of the Chinese army under the British.

Resolved, That we recognize the combined proposals, if carried out, will benefit China quite as much as England and other foreign nations, if not more, and we therefore hope that Lord Charles will be intrusted by the British government with the carrying out of the views he has so clearly enunciated, as we observe that his efforts are directed to the benefit of both his country and the Chinese empire and to the benefit of the trade of China, England and other countries.

Resolved, That we recognize and make our cordial acknowledgment for the sympathetic manner with which he has come to China, and that we desire to emphatically express our full confidence in Lord Charles, whose ability, integrity and zeal we are sure peculiarly fit him to successfully carry out the proposals he has made for the preservation of China.

Cocooned by Mail.

One of the strangest packages which has ever been handled by the clerks in the Waterville (Me.) postoffice was delivered to S. S. Lightbody the other afternoon. The package was a cocoon in the same form in which it was taken from the tree. There was no tag attached to the cocoon. Instead the address was written on the husk. One of the three sides of the husk was taken up by the address, which used up nearly all the space allotted for it. Another side contained the postage stamps. Of these there was one 15 cent stamp, two 2 cent stamps, and, in spite of the fact that the remaining stamp of 1 cent denomination was one of the stamps issued in commemoration of the Maine, there was plenty of room for many more stamps of the same size, so large was the surface. The cocoon was sent by Fred Gonyer, who several months ago was employed at Mr. Lightbody's store. Mr. Gonyer is now in Palm Beach, Fla. —Portland Argus.

SAYS DEWEY IS NOT WELL.

Captain Fraser Says He Cannot Endure the Strain Another Month.

Captain Fraser of London, late of the British imperial forces, arrived at Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, where he had the honor of dining with Admiral Dewey. To a correspondent Captain Fraser said:

"The war at Manila will have to end soon or the life of the great American admiral will be worth nothing. I dined with him at Manila within a month and am convinced that if he is not relieved of the terrible strain imposed upon him, he cannot last a month longer. As he sat at the banquet table, surrounded by his staff, he looked to me like a dying man. His hair is snowy white, his face ashen, and he ate hardly anything."

"I had the pleasure of a few minutes' conversation with him when we retired to the smoking room. Having in mind his terribly enfeebled appearance, I asked him if he thought of returning to America soon. He replied: 'I would like to, but my work is by no means finished here. When it is, and only then, will I return.'"

"I am thoroughly convinced that only the admiral's indomitable will has kept him up so long. The strain on him is terrific, and the climatic conditions have reduced him to a shadow. His officers and men worship him. As an English officer and knowing the magnificent work he has done, I have the greatest admiration for him."

"One of his officers said to me just before I left Manila: 'The war will be ended by the admiral soon or it will end him. No man can stand such a strain as he does in this climate and live long.' —New York World.

NEW SERUM FOR PNEUMONIA.

Professor Wasserman, One of Koch's Pupils, Makes a Discovery.

Professor Wasserman of Berlin, one of Professor Koch's ablest pupils, is believed to have discovered a new serum for the cure of pneumonia.

He inoculated rabbits with the pneumococcus bacillus, which is generally believed to cause pneumonia, and with the serum thus gained he inoculated mice suffering from pneumonia.

A subsequent series of experiments showed that it was in the red marrow of the bones that the antitoxin is produced and that red marrow taken from a human corpse after death from pneumonia and used as a serum will cure mice infected with that disease.

Accordingly it is hoped that this serum will have the same satisfactory results in human beings. —New York World.

OTIS MAY RE-ENLIST VOLUNTEERS.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—It is expected that Gen. Otis will be authorized to organized three or four regiments of the provisional army out of the volunteers from the various states now at Manila when the time comes for mustering out these volunteers. At present the volunteers, it is stated at the war department, do not want to come home, having the American determination not to "retreat while under fire."

In the Union.

THE SOUTHERN VETERAN SPEAKS. I've faced the fight with Jackson, I've marched along with Lee, I had some words with Sherman as he galloped to the sea, Exchanged brisk compliments with Grant when victory seemed in view, My old steel bayonet glittering at many a breast in blue.

I say, I've been with Jackson, and Lee he knew my name, And sometimes, when the fight was on, he called me by the same. I followed, fierce and fearless, where Long street led the way, To fields whose bloody daisies were blent with blue and gray.

But now I'm in the Union, I see there, overhead, The flag our fathers fought for, her rippling folds of red, All glorious and victorious—the splendor of her stars— And I say, "The blood of heroes dyed all her crimson bars."

I'm for that flag forever gainst foes on sea and shore! Who shames her? Who defames her? Give me my gun once more! We'll answer when they need us, when the war fires light the night; There's a Lee still left to lead us to the glory of the fight!

See how the old flag ripples and flaunts her folds in scorn! Her stars and bars will be the joy of nations yet unborn, And, though she waves o'er new made graves, neath alien sod and dew, There, in the starry silence, the gray sleep with the blue.

We're one in heart forever, we're one in heart and hand, The flag's a challenge to the sea, a garland to the land.

OUR NEW SEA FIGHTERS

Features of the Projected Additions to the Navy.

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY.

Battleships to Be 420 Feet Long, of 11,500 Tons Displacement and Have 12-2 Knots Speed—Cruisers Will Be Larger and Have a Speed of 22 Knots.

Under the plans prepared by the bureau of construction and repair the projected battleships, armored cruisers and unprotected cruisers will when completed be the finest ships of their respective classes in the world.

Admiral Hichborn expects that the plans for the battleships and armored cruisers will be completed and approved by the department by the time congress reconvenes in December, so that the secretary will be ready to award contracts the moment the armor controversy is settled. He said the other day that it is proposed to apply the electrical system in operating the auxiliaries of the new ships more generally than will be done on board the battleships of the Maine class, and he promises that in all respects the ships will be greatly superior to anything of their respective types now afloat or under construction.

The hulls of the ships will be of steel, sheathed and coppered, and will be propelled by twin screws. Their engines will be of the quadruple expansion type, and they will be supplied with water tube boilers. Each ship will be equipped with two submarine torpedo tubes. With its maximum coal capacity aboard one of the proposed battleships, steaming at its economical speed of ten knots, will be able to steam 10,666 miles.

Each vessel will be supplied with this armament: Main battery—Four 12 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets; sixteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in redoubt or casemates, four of which will have end fire. Secondary fire—Ten 12 pounders, twelve 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

Final decision has not yet been reached as to the protection that will be given the ships, but as so far determined it will consist of a complete belt 7 feet 6 inches wide, 12 inches thick at water line between barbettes, thence tapering to 5 inches at extremities. The diagonal armor will be 12 inches in thickness. The side above the belt to main deck from barrette to barrette will be 6 inches and the casemates of redoubts will be protected by 6 inches. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate 12 inches throughout. The barbettes will be 13 inches in front, reduced to 10 inches in the rear. The conning tower will be 12 inches and the armored signal tower 9 inches. A cellulose belt will be supplied to each ship.

On account of having high speed the armored cruisers will not be so well protected or so well armed as the battleships. Like the battleships, they will have steel hulls, sheathed and coppered, twin screws and two masts. These will be their dimensions: Length, 460 feet; beam, 69 feet; displacement, 12,000 tons; speed, not less than 22 knots; draft, mean, 24 feet 6 inches; horsepower, natural draft, 16,310; forced draft, 23,300; coal capacity, 1,800 tons. Steaming at its economical speed of 12 knots each armored cruiser will have a steaming radius of 7,800 miles. The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers of the water tube type. This will be the armament of each ship: Main battery—Four 8 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets, one forward and one aft, fourteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in broadside, the forward and after pair sponsored for end fire. Second battery—Ten 12 pounders, ten 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

It has not been fully determined what armored protection can be supplied to the ships. As originally contemplated, it was intended to provide each with a complete belt 6 inches thick at the water line and 7 feet 6 inches wide, full thickness from barrette to barrette, thence tapering to 4 inches at extremities. It is questionable whether the 6 inch armor can be carried above the belt, and it may be that the thickness of the belt will have to be reduced at the ends of the vessels. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate and the armor will be 9 inches thick all around. The barbettes will be 10 inches thick, reduced to 6 inches in the rear. The diagonal armor will be 8 inches, conning tower, 10 inches; armored signal tower, 8 inches, and protective deck, 6 inches on the slope and 8 inches flat. Cellulose belts will be supplied to the ships.

With respect to the third class cruisers, as they will be officially designated, the plans will be completed as promptly as possible in order that the contracts may be awarded within a short time. There will be six of these ships. Their hulls will be of steel sheathed and con-

pered, and they will be supplied with twin screws and two masts, and will have flush upper decks. These will be their dimensions: Length, 280 feet; beam, 43 feet; displacement, 2,000 tons; speed, not less than 16 knots; draft, mean, 16 feet 9 inches; horsepower (natural draft), 2,450; forced, 3,500; coal capacity, 650.

Though the coal capacity is seemingly small compared with that of the battleships and armored cruisers, the little cruisers will be able to steam 7,234 knots and keep at sea 33 days without recoaling. Their armament will be: Main battery, ten 5 inch rapid fire guns, two on upper deck with shields on center line, eight in broadside, forward and aft pairs sponsored; secondary battery, ten 3 pounders, two 1 pounders and four machine guns.

The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers water tube. Each ship will have a conning tower with six inch protection, a water tight deck and a cellulose belt. The department of justice has so constructed the personnel law that the navy department will be required by June 30 to take steps to retire officers voluntarily and compulsorily in order to make the number of vacancies which the law provides shall be made in any one year.—Cor. OUR WAR IN BRITISH EYES.

Admiral Colomb Tells Why Our Naval Strategy Was Hazardous.

Vice Admiral Philip Howard Colomb (retired) lectured recently in London on the "Lessons of the Spanish-American War" before the members of the United Service Institutions. After dealing with the impossibility of secrecy in warfare hereafter, owing to the vigilance of the press and the necessity for protecting cables in shallow water, he said he thought that if Spain had showed real comprehension of strategy the United States would not have been so successful.

The sure way for the United States would have been for her to send a sufficient force to the coast of Spain to balance the forces known to have been in Spanish ports and to send a squadron to the Cape Verde Islands the moment it was known a Spanish flotilla was assembling there. And, he added, if the island of Minorca had been seized as a base nothing offensive on the other side of the Atlantic would have been attempted by Spain.

The lesson to be deduced was, according to the lecturer, that American strategy was hazardous, in so far as it departed from the stereotyped rules of naval war. Admiral Cervera's ships were lost sight of, causing anxiety on the American coasts, and the Americans kept considerable squadrons wholly in a defensive attitude, instead of maintaining command of the sea. It was clear, he added, that if there had been coal supplies at Santiago de Cuba, and if Admiral Cervera's squadron had been reasonably efficient instead of "a miserable abortion," all it could have proposed to effect by entering Santiago might have been done without any interference upon the part of the United States navy.

From the actions of the Spanish forts the American ships deduced the idea that their very inefficient batteries were able to keep the ships at a distance. Regarding the purely tactical questions involved, the admiral said it was plain that Admiral Dewey took full advantage of the superiority of his guns and gunners and placed himself in so distant a position that neither the Spanish ships nor the Spanish batteries were able adequately to reply to his fire. The whole thing, continued the lecturer, was terribly businesslike on the American side, with a pathetic parade of quixotic gallantry on the other.

In finishing Admiral Colomb commented upon the fact that all orders to the American ships were sent from Washington, which he considered was a momentous change in naval warfare.—New York Herald.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Henry Knoblock, western salesman for the Dresden, came in last night. He will remain here several days.

Earnest Farrell went to Leechburg this morning and will play with the orchestra of that place tonight.

W. E. Sergeant, of Akron, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. He has taken a position in a pottery in this place.

Fritz Sanerinsen has taken a position as night messenger at the telegraph office in the place of Harry Vincent, resigned.

Hon. David Boyce, who is enjoying his stay in California, has the thanks of the NEWS REVIEW for Los Angeles newspapers.

The household effects of J. Simpson were yesterday shipped to Trenton. The family moved to this place only a few weeks ago.

The executive committee of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters met last evening, but did nothing but transact routine business.

William Howard and Miss Susie Kirkham were married at the home of the bride in Trentvale street last evening by Reverend Crawford.

Earl Clark, of Lincoln avenue, fell on a camera yesterday afternoon. The glass broke and badly cut his face. Several stitches were required.

John Melius, a decorator formerly connected with the East End pottery, and who has been seriously ill in the Farmer block, is slowly improving.

Constable Miller this morning telegraphed Squire Rose from Akron that he would arrive here this evening at 8 o'clock, bringing James Parish with him.

The Chevalier club are making preparations for a stag party to be given at their rooms the evening of April 15. An elaborate musical program will be rendered.

Fishermen are having splendid sport at Walker, and a number of fine fish are caught every day. George Bryan yesterday caught seven, some of them weighing two pounds.

The heavy rain yesterday afternoon washed a large hole in Jefferson street between the railroad and the river bank. It was filled in today under the supervision of Inspector Harris.

Dr. J. O. Taggart left today for Toronto, where he conducted funeral services over the remains of George Magee, who died in Chicago Monday. Services were held in the United Presbyterian church of that place.

The freight reports for the month of February have been completed by Clerk Hill, of the general freight office, and have been forwarded to Pittsburg and Cleveland. The reports show that much business was handled during the month.

The Young Men's Christian association basketball team have selected purple and gold for the colors. They are practising every evening for their game to be played tomorrow evening with the Alliance team and will do their utmost to win.

The question was recently raised whether Thomas Lloyd could be assessor for the Third ward and township trustee, and Judge Boone decided that since one was a municipal office and the other a township position, the law did not stand in the way.

The remains of Robert Johnson were yesterday interred in the cemetery at Georgetown. He died at Hookstown Monday, and was the last of a family of eight children. Those who attended the funeral from this place were Mrs. H. Badgley, Mrs. John Reese and Mrs. Mary J. Johnson.

"Improvement of the prayer meeting" was the subject of an address by Rev. J. T. Aiken, of Bagly, Pa., to a large congregation in the Second U. P. church last evening. Tonight a thank offering and missionary service will be held under the leadership of Reverend Aiken and others.

SPATZ MEANT NO HARM.

Innocently Offered Patronage Instead of Cash—Legislative Bribery Investigation, at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The legislative bribery committee met in the house chamber last night to hear testimony on the charges of alleged bribery in connection with the consideration in the house of the McCarrell jury bill, which bill the anti-Quay members declared was introduced to aid Senator Quay in his trial at Philadelphia on the charges of conspiracy.

Representative Sylvester S. Smith of Cameron was the first witness called. He said he had been spoken to by a certain person, who told him there was "2½" in it if he voted for the McCarrell bill. (It was understood at a previous meeting of the committee that "2½" meant $250.)

Mr. Smith asked to be excused for the present from stating in public the name of the person who approached him. This request was granted him, after he had given the name privately to the committee.

Representative Charles B. Spatz, Democrat, of Berks county, whom members of the house last week testified had invited them to a hotel room to talk over the McCarrell bill, took the stand and made an explanatory statement. He said that he learned that a petition was being circulated for a fusion between the Democrats and Independent Republicans on the senatorship and he prepared a petition of his own, pledging the Democrats to stand by their caucus nominee. He thought that he saw an inclination on the part of Representatives Miller and Johnston of Northampton and he invited them to go with him to Martin Lawler's room, where there was pen and ink. On the way there Mr. Spatz may have said there was something in it for them, but he did not mean money. He thought a Democrat would be elected senator and if such was the case, the signers of the paper would be the "chosen few," and they would be favored with patronage. At no time did he offer anyone any money to sign the paper, because he had no reason to offer any. He never offered any money to anyone for any legislation or for the senatorship.

He specifically denied having offered money to Representatives Heil or Miller to sign the paper.

PRESIDENT TOOK A DRIVE.

Looked Better After His Return—Taking a Good Rest.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 16.—Senator Hanna took his guests on a carriage drive about five miles from town, to the country home of Wyman Jones, the senator's brother-in-law. The weather was mild, a good breeze was stirring

MR. HANNA'S HOUSE IN THOMASVILLE. through the pines and the gathering clouds, which in the afternoon resulted in a shower of rain, shielded the party from the sun.

The president enjoyed the drive, and his brightness on his return showed it had done him good. The party was home for lunch and soon afterward the president went to bed for the afternoon. After dinner, Senator Hanna and his guests chatted a while and the president retired early.

The Best Way to Sample Whisky.

One of the best judges of whisky in Chicago is a man who never drinks it. He is Captain Joseph E. G. Ryan, formerly of the Seventh.

Captain Ryan is a whisky expert. He can tell almost to a day the age of any sample submitted to him. Give him a few drops of whisky, and he can tell you the brand, the distiller, where it was made, when, and detect adulteration if there is any. Blend two or three kinds of whisky, and he can tell the blend.

And he never tastes it, being strictly temperate in all his habits.

It is all told by the smell. Captain Ryan's nose is a very sensitive organ, and he has trained it with the utmost care.

"Smelling is by far the most satisfactory method of testing," he says. "If a man has a great deal to sample, and tastes each kind, he soon gets so that he cannot distinguish one from the other. The sense of taste becomes blunted, and he loses all the fine distinctions."

"On the other hand, the more a man uses his nose, the more acute the sense of smell becomes, and he is able to detect the slightest difference between samples."—Chicago Journal.

A Boy's Notion of Perjury.

Milton Lawson of San Antonio was recently convicted of murder in the first degree and his punishment assessed at confinement in the penitentiary for a term of 50 years. In the trial of the case Orange Lake, a 14-year-old boy brother of the man appellant killed was put on the witness stand. On being asked if he understood the nature of an oath he made the startling reply that if he told one lie he would go to the legislature and if he told two lies he would be sent to congress. The upper court declared Lake an incompetent witness. —Dallas News.

A Long Task.

If one island a day were to follow the example of Negros and accept American rule, 3 years and 13 weeks would be required merely to accept the proffers of friendship of the remaining 1,198 Philippines. With many of them hostile, a much longer time, apparently, will be required to place the starry emblem above their shores. —New York Press.

Kipling Much Improved.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Mr. Kipling was able to sit up in bed last night and partake of a course dinner. He ate heartily of several dishes of a more substantial nature than any yet given to him. The improvement continues from hour to hour, and Dr. Dunham thinks his patient will be able to leave his bed before Sunday.

Statesmen to Take a Jaunt.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—About 60 senators and representatives have accepted invitations for a trip that has been planned to inspect the routes of the proposed Nicaragua and Panama canals, coming home by way of Santiago and other points of interest in the West Indies. They will go as the guests of the Panama Canal company.

The Truce of the Czar.

The czar, when he had read the trip made by our Oregon, He wanted ships built like it, too, and said "Please put me on!" A ship that travels round the world and never gets aglee, Some thirteen thousand miles of run, it's good enough for me."

And so he sent an envoy here to see how it was made, This ship called Oregon, that puts all others in the shade; Of mighty depth and noble shape and wondrous iron knit frame! The envoy looked it over well—"The czar must have the same!"

The czar he straightway sent for him who built the floating fort And asked him for his price list, too, and fee him cakes and port. His eye imperial ran o'er the little figured card, And he stared and stared and stared and stared and stared at it quite hard.

He slept on it, he ate on it, and with a tremulous sigh He gave it back unto the man whose fame stood up so high. "Alas, your price is too much!" All tall at once did cease. But next day all the wide world heard the "universal peace!" —Harold MacGrath in Syracuse Herald.

REFORMED CHURCH MISSIONS.

Commissioners for the National Foreign Board Held a Meeting at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The commissioners for the board of foreign missions of the Reformed church in the United States met in this city. The board has ten commissioned missionaries at work in Japan, where the foreign missionary work of the church is concentrated.

The following officers were chosen: President, Rev. Dr. James I. Good of Reading; vice president, Rev. Dr. J. H. Prugh of Pittsburg; secretary, Rev. Dr. S. M. Callender of Mechanicsburg; treasurer, Rev. Dr. J. L. Lemburger, Lebanon. The other members of the board present were Elder Benjamin Koons of Dayton, Dr. J. Z. Gerhart, Elder J. Y. Dietz, Philadelphia. The executive committee consists of Rev. Dr. Bartholomew of Pottsville; Rev. Dr. Peter Greding, Indiana; Rev. Dr. Jacob Dolman, Akron, O.; Rev. Dr. J. S. Kieffer, Hagerstown, Md.; Rev. C. R. Diefenbacher, Greensburg.

Reports were read from all of the missionaries in the field, and the report to the general synod was made. The work in all parts of Japan is in a prosperous condition. During the year $33,000 was contributed to Japan missions by the churches, but the scope of the work requires a greater outlay. The conference will meet in Harrisburg next March.

Minister Accepted a Call.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—Rev. J. B. Tuttle, pastor of the First Baptist church of Portsmouth, O., accepted a call to the North Baptist church of this city. He will assume charge on Easter Sunday.

REPORTED SOLDIERS' DEATHS.

One Name Sent In by General Henry and Another by Colonel Ray.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The following dispatches were received at the war department:

"SAN JUAN DE PORTO RICO, March 14. Adjutant General, Washington:

"Private Thomas A. Paleghaar, Company B, Nineteenth infantry, died general hospital, March 13.

"HENRY, Commanding."

Testing Local Option Liquor Law.

CLEVELAND, March 16.—Constitutionality of the Ohio local option liquor law is being tested in a case brought to trial before Judge Ricks in the United States circuit court. The question is raised by the attorneys of Emil Stevens, who was fined and given a workhouse sentence for violating the local option law in Jefferson county.

Reformers to Hold a Meeting.

DETROIT, March 16.—Elwood Pomeroy of Newark, N. J., has issued a call for a social and political conference at Buffalo, June 28 to July 3. Governor Pingree's name heads the list of signers, which includes nearly 100 prominent reformers. Some here construe it as the beginning of a Pingree move for a presidential nomination.

Hope of France Intervening.

LONDON, March 16.—A special dispatch from Madrid says Premier Silvela, in an interview just published there, spoke in favor of the intervention of France for the purpose of obtaining permission from the United States for Spain to resume direct negotiations for the release of the Spanish prisoners held by the Philippine rebels.

The question was recently raised whether Thomas Lloyd could be assessor for the Third ward and township trustee, and Judge Boone decided that since one was a municipal office and the other a township position, the law did not stand in the way.

The remains of Robert Johnson were yesterday interred in the cemetery at Georgetown. He died at Hookstown Monday, and was the last of a family of eight children. Those who attended the funeral from this place were Mrs. H. Badgley, Mrs. John Reese and Mrs. Mary J. Johnson.

"Improvement of the prayer meeting" was the subject of an address by Rev. J. T. Aiken, of Bagly, Pa., to a large congregation in the Second U. P. church last evening. Tonight a thank offering and missionary service will be held under the leadership of Reverend Aiken and others.

SPATZ MEANT NO HARM.

Innocently Offered Patronage Instead of Cash—Legislative Bribery Investigation, at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The legislative bribery committee met in the house chamber last night to hear testimony on the charges of alleged bribery in connection with the consideration in the house of the McCarrell jury bill, which bill the anti-Quay members declared was introduced to aid Senator Quay in his trial at Philadelphia on the charges of conspiracy.

Representative Sylvester S. Smith of Cameron was the first witness called. He said he had been spoken to by a certain person, who told him there was "2½" in it if he voted for the McCarrell bill. (It was understood at a previous meeting of the committee that "2½" meant $250.)

Mr. Smith asked to be excused for the present from stating in public the name of the person who approached him. This request was granted him, after he had given the name privately to the committee.

Representative Charles B. Spatz, Democrat, of Berks county, whom members of the house last week testified had invited them to a hotel room to talk over the McCarrell bill, took the stand and made an explanatory statement. He said that he learned that a petition was being circulated for a fusion between the Democrats and Independent Republicans on the senatorship and he prepared a petition of his own, pledging the Democrats to stand by their caucus nominee. He thought that he saw an inclination on the part of Representatives Miller and Johnston of Northampton and he invited them to go with him to Martin Lawler's room, where there was pen and ink. On the way there Mr. Spatz may have said there was something in it for them, but he did not mean money. He thought a Democrat would be elected senator and if such was the case, the signers of the paper would be the "chosen few," and they would be favored with patronage. At no time did he offer anyone any money to sign the paper, because he had no reason to offer any. He never offered any money to anyone for any legislation or for the senatorship.

He specifically denied having offered money to Representatives Heil or Miller to sign the paper.

PRESIDENT TOOK A DRIVE.

Looked Better After His Return—Taking a Good Rest.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 16.—Senator Hanna took his guests on a carriage drive about five miles from town, to the country home of Wyman Jones, the senator's brother-in-law. The weather was mild, a good breeze was stirring through the pines and the gathering clouds, which in the afternoon resulted in a shower of rain, shielded the party from the sun.

The president enjoyed the drive, and his brightness on his return showed it had done him good. The party was home for lunch and soon afterward the president went to bed for the afternoon. After dinner, Senator Hanna and his guests chatted a while and the president retired early.

The Best Way to Sample Whisky.

One of the best judges of whisky in Chicago is a man who never drinks it. He is Captain Joseph E. G. Ryan, formerly of the Seventh.

Captain Ryan is a whisky expert. He can tell almost to a day the age of any sample submitted to him. Give him a few drops of whisky, and he can tell you the brand, the distiller, where it was made, when, and detect adulteration if there is any. Blend two or three kinds of whisky, and he can tell the blend.

And he never tastes it, being strictly temperate in all his habits.

It is all told by the smell. Captain Ryan's nose is a very sensitive organ, and he has trained it with the utmost care.

"Smelling is by far the most satisfactory method of testing," he says. "If a man has a great deal to sample, and tastes each kind, he soon gets so that he cannot distinguish one from the other. The sense of taste becomes blunted, and he loses all the fine distinctions."

"On the other hand, the more a man uses his nose, the more acute the sense of smell becomes, and he is able to detect the slightest difference between samples."—Chicago Journal.

A Boy's Notion of Perjury.

Milton Lawson of San Antonio was recently convicted of murder in the first degree and his punishment assessed at confinement in the penitentiary for a term of 50 years. In the trial of the case Orange Lake, a 14-year-old boy brother of the man appellant killed was put on the witness stand. On being asked if he understood the nature of an oath he made the startling reply that if he told one lie he would go to the legislature and if he told two lies he would be sent to congress. The upper court declared Lake an incompetent witness.—Dallas News.

A Long Task.

If one island a day were to follow the example of Nagros and accept American rule, 3 years and 13 weeks would be required merely to accept the proffers of friendship of the remaining 1,198 Philippines. With many of them hostile, a much longer time, apparently, will be required to place the starry emblem above their shores.—New York Press.

Kipling Much Improved.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Mr. Kipling was able to sit up in bed last night and partake of a course dinner. He ate heartily of several dishes of a more substantial nature than any yet given to him. The improvement continues from hour to hour, and Dr. Dunham thinks his patient will be able to leave his bed before Sunday.

Statesmen to Take a Jaunt.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—About 60 senators and representatives have accepted invitations for a trip that has been planned to inspect the routes of the proposed Nicaragua and Panama canals, coming home by way of Santiago and other points of interest in the West Indies. They will go as the guests of the Panama Canal company.

The Truce of the Czar.

The czar, when he had read the trip made by our Oregon, He wanted ships built like it, too, and said: "Please put me on!" A ship that travels round the world and never gets age, Some thirteen thousand miles of run, it's good enough for me.

And so he sent an envoy here to see how it was made, This ship called Oregon, that puts all others in the shade; Of mighty depth and noble shape and wondrous iron knit frame! The envoy looked it over well—"The czar must have the same!"

The czar he straightway sent for him who built the floating fort And asked him for his price list, too, and fed him cakes and port. His eye imperial ran o'er the little figured card, And he stared and stared and stared and stared and stared at it quite hard.

He slept on it, he ate on it, and with a tremulous sigh He gave it back unto the man whose fame stood up so high. "Alas, your price it is too much!" All tall at once did cease, But next day all the wide world heard the "universal peace!" —Barold MacGrath in Syracuse Herald.

REFORMED CHURCH MISSIONS.

Commissioners For the National Foreign Board Held a Meeting at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The commissioners for the board of foreign missions of the Reformed church in the United States met in this city. The board has ten commissioned missionaries at work in Japan, where the foreign missionary work of the church is concentrated.

The following officers were chosen: President, Rev. Dr. James I. Good of Reading; vice president, Rev. Dr. J. H. Prugh of Pittsburg; secretary, Rev. Dr. S. M. Callender of Mechanicsburg; treasurer, Rev. Dr. J. L. Lemburger, Lebanon. The other members of the board present were Elder Benjamin Koons of Dayton, Dr. J. Z. Gerhart, Elder J. Y. Dietz, Philadelphia. The executive committee consists of Rev. Dr. Bartholomew of Pottsville; Rev. Dr. Peter Greding, Indiana; Rev. Dr. Jacob Dolman, Akron, O.; Rev. Dr. J. S. Kieffer, Hagerstown, Md.; Rev. C. R. Dittenbacher, Greensburg.

Reports were read from all of the missionaries in the field, and the report to the general synod was made. The work in all parts of Japan is in a prosperous condition. During the year $33,000 was contributed to Japan missions by the churches, but the scope of the work requires a greater outlay. The conference will meet in Harrisburg next March.

Minister Accepted a Call.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—Rev. J. B. Tuttle, pastor of the First Baptist church of Portsmouth, O., accepted a call to the North Baptist church of this city. He will assume charge on Easter Sunday.

REPORTED SOLDIERS' DEATHS.

Testing Local Option Liquor Law.

CLEVELAND, March 16.—Constitutionality of the Ohio local option liquor law is being tested in a case brought to trial before Judge Ricks in the United States circuit court. The question is raised by the attorneys of Emil Stevens, who was fined and given a workhouse sentence for violating the local option law in Jefferson county.

Reformers to Hold a Meeting.

DETROIT, March 16.—Eltweed Pomeroy of Newark, N. J., has issued a call for a social and political conference at Buffalo, June 28 to July 3. Governor Pingree's name heads the list of signers, which includes nearly 100 prominent reformers. Some here construe it as the beginning of a Pingree move for a presidential nomination.

Hope of France Intervening.

LONDON, March 16.—A special dispatch from Madrid says Premier Silvela, in an interview just published there, spoke in favor of the intervention of France for the purpose of obtaining permission from the United States for the release of the Spanish prisoners held by the Philippine rebels.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1899.

FILIPINOS DEFEATED.

Wheaton Routed a Force of About 2,000.

A HEAVY LOSS WAS INFLICTED.

Bodies of Some of the Dead Seen Floating Down the River—Over 300 of the Rebels Captured—More Than 100 Dead Found and New Made Graves.

MANILA, March 16.—General Lloyd Wheaton, commanding the United States flying column, attacked and defeated a force of 2,000 Filipinos at Pasig Wednesday afternoon, inflicting a heavy loss upon them. The American loss was slight. Many bodies of rebels killed in the engagement were floating down the river.

Private Fernoff of Company L, Twentieth regiment, was killed.

The wounded were:

Private Newman, Company F, Twentieth regiment.

Private Carroll, Company A, Twenty-second regiment.

Private Marshall, Company B, Twenty-second regiment.

Private Combs, Company C, Twenty-second regiment.

Private Rogers, Company L, Twenty-second regiment.

About 350 Filipinos surrendered at the town of Taguig to the Washington regiment and 175 were captured at Pasig by the Twentieth regiment.

Our troops found 106 dead Filipinos and 100 new graves near Pasig.

The prisoners were unarmed and, therefore, it was presumed they executed their threat of throwing their arms into the river.

LONDON, March 16.—The Evening News published the following dispatch from Manila:

"General Wheaton has probably routed the Filipinos and has occupied Pasig, Taguig and Pateros. Several hundred of the enemy were killed and as many were captured."

"General Otis says this is the greatest victory since Feb. 5. The Americans will now press toward Aguinaldo's headquarters."

WASHINGTON, March 16.—General Otis has cabled the following list of casualties suffered by the United States troops Monday:

"MANILA, March 15.

Adjutant General, Washington:

"Casualties March 13, near Caloocan: Killed—Twenty-third Kansas, Company L, Private James W. Kline.

"Wounded—Twenty-second infantry, M. Privates William Renshart, leg, moderate; D. Willet Herman, scalp, slight; William S. O'Brien, head, severe; John Mubahille, scalp, slight; A. Theodore A. Mizner, finger, severe; Daniel Carroll, forearm, slight; E. Joseph Hoffman, thigh, severe; Joseph B. Cox, thumb, severe; I. John Blazek, chest, severe; David Mulholland, arm, moderate.

"Twenty-second infantry, K. Corporal Chris Thompson, side, severe; B. Privates Charles Simon, back, moderate; K. Thomas Miller, hand, severe; D. Frank Nash, knee, severe; M. Richard F. Piper, thigh, slight; G. Lester M. Folger, neck, slight; H. Charles Sharkey, thigh, slight; Charles Davis, neck, severe. Second Oregon, B. Private Walter Irwin, foot, moderate, accidental injury. Twenty-second infantry, B. Corporal Charles J. Uxley, confusion, side. Twentieth infantry, E. Privates William Sampson, sprain, ankle; H. Adolph G. Koehper, sprain, ankle; B. Peter J. Phelan, hand, moderate; F. Corporal John E. Hoffman, sprain, ankle. March 14, near Guadalupe, killed: First Washington, E. Private Ralph Van Buskirk. Wounded, Second Oregon, D. Privates Alfred O. Carden, chest, severe; F. W. O. B. Dodson, ankle, slight; E. Charles J. Olson, foot, severe.

(Signed) "OTIS."

The following dispatch from General Otis was also received:

"MANILA, March 15.

Adjutant General, Washington:

"Three thousand insurgents moved down last night to towns of Pasig and Pateros, on shore Laguna bay, fronting Wheaton's troops on Pasig river line; by heavy fighting Wheaton has dislodged and driven them back, taking 400 prisoners and inflicting heavy loss in killed and wounded; he reports his loss as very moderate; he now occupies these towns with sufficient force to hold them.

(Signed) "OTIS."

LONDON, March 16.—The Daily Graphic published this morning a letter from a British naval officer in Manila, under date of Feb. 7, describing the beginning of the fighting between the Americans and Filipinos, which, he says, was due to an attempt on the part of the latter to rush an American post.

"The British officers," he continues, "were not allowed to land until the day following the battle, and were even then prohibited from going to the front, but on yesterday's battlefield I saw Filipino prisoners burying heaps of their dead.

"It cannot for a moment be doubted that the Americans fought with gallantry and pluck, while the rebels, who were armed with Mausers and Remingtons, maintained a stubborn defense. Their dead bodies testify to this. It is also clear that the Filipinos were as tounded and demoralized by the American tactics and the vigorous pursuit the Americans kept up throughout the day, instead of following, as the Filipinos expected, the Spanish custom of midday rest."

TO SIGN THE TREATY.

Spanish Cabinet Decided It Will Follow Dissolution of Cortes.

MADRID, March 16.—The cabinet council decided that the treaty of peace with the United States should be ratified immediately after the dissolution of the cortes, which will probably be decreed today.

HARD BLOWS AT BEEF.

Canned Article Made Soldiers Sick—Witness Said Dead Maggots Were Canned With the Meat.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The court of inquiry investigating the beef controversy held a short executive session Wednesday afternoon and determined to leave last night for Omaha, where an inspection of the stockyards will be made.

Then the members will proceed to Kansas City. It is the expectation of the court to return to Chicago by Tuesday of next week, when the examination of witnesses will be proceeded with.

During the hearing here an officer of the regular army, First Lieutenant M. E. Davis of the First cavalry, was called at the request of Major Lee, the representative of General Miles. Lieutenant Davis testified that in Cuba one-half the canned roast beef issued to the soldiers was thrown away because it was unfit to eat. He testified that he had opened one can himself and found maggots in it.

Major Lee asked: "How did the maggots get in there?"

"They were canned in there," the witness replied.

Colonel Davis:

"Are you aware that in the process of canning this meat undergoes such an intense heat that no animal life could survive in it?"

Major John Bliss Shaw, a local physician, who was with the Third Illinois in Porto Rico, told about being called out one night to look after the men of Company A, who were reported to have been poisoned by eating canned roast beef. He said they vomited fearfully, and it seemed that hypodermic injections of morphine would hardly relieve the pain. They were sick for some days afterward, with a great deal of diarrhoea and intestinal trouble.

"When the men ceased eating the canned roast beef was there any improvement?" asked Major Lee.

"Yes; the canned roast beef generally gave them diarrhoea and gastro-enteritis."

Further along this question was asked:

"When the beef was eaten from cans, did you order it emptied out of the can immediately?"

"We tried to have it served immediately, but under that intense heat putrefaction would set in almost as soon as the can was opened. I think ptomaines were developed almost immediately after the opening of the cans."

He also gave other testimony.

Colonel Fred Bennett of the Third Illinois testified that the canned beef was bad and that some of the refrigerated beef showed signs of decomposition and was covered with a greenish mold.

"I went to General Grant," said the witness, "a great many times to speak about the condition of the beef, but he always claimed it was the fault of the cooks."

Colonel Bennett is a lawyer and has at times acted as attorney for stockyard companies. He was asked by Major Lee what class of cattle is used in the canning process.

"Very inferior," was the answer.

Packhouse Expert Leets of Chicago was asked what was meant by the class of cattle called "canners."

"The most inferior of cattle," he said. "A majority of these animals would be condemned in an English market."

The witness startled the commissioners by stating that a large number of condemned cattle were used in many packinghouses in the manufacture of canned beef.

William Replogle, a member of the auxiliary hospital corps, stated that he had opened cans of beef in Porto Rico while maggots hung to the cover.

"Much of the beef was thrown to the dogs," he said, "but even the hungry beasts refused to eat it."

The witness recalled an incident which interested the representative of General Miles. A soldier had been unable to get rations, according to the witness, and was forced to eat the canned beef, saying at the time that he could not keep it on his stomach. Within a week he died. Replogle also testified that maggots had been found in the refrigerated beef.

Others also testified.

Acquitted of Murder Charge.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Baron Curt Von Biedenfeld was acquitted of the charge of murder in the killing of Constable Charles McDonald. He killed him during a quarrel.

Governor Dyer Renominated.

PROVIDENCE, March 16.—The annual convention of the Republican party of Rhode Island was held here, Governor Dyer of Providence and the other state officers were unanimously renominated.

A RUN ON A BANK.

Depositors Crowded Into a Cincinnati Institution.

A MAD DEPOSITOR SUSPECTED.

He Had Been Ordered to Withdraw His Money and Was Believed to Have Circulated Stories as to the Bank's Condition—Police Enforced Order.

CINCINNATI, March 16.—The Cincinnati Savings society, 43 and 45 West Fifth street, was the scene of a panicky run. The officers of the bank suspect that a disgruntled depositor, who had been asked to withdraw his account and threatened to get even, circulated the story that the bank was in bad condition. It has nearly 14,000 depositors. When the bank opened a crowd of depositors were waiting to draw their money.

Some of them neglected to bring their books and were sent after them. These spread the alarm. Frightened women and men crowded around the place so that it was necessary to call policemen to preserve order. Meantime, the bank paid as rapidly as possible. In the afternoon the crush was so great that two patrol wagons were brought up and ropes stretched across the sidewalk so that the crowd could be kept in order.

About 4 o'clock the doors were closed with the announcement that they would be open at 9 o'clock this morning. The police with difficulty cleared the sidewalks. All the banks of the city believed in the soundness of the Savings society, and freely offered it all the money it needed.

CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART.

That City to Have a Fine Institution. Valuable Donations Made.

CLEVELAND, March 16.—Articles of incorporation were obtained for the Cleveland Museum of Art. This brings to a head a project which has been

years in forming. At the disposal of the 15 trustees, who will be elected, are the munificent art bequests made by will by the late Horace Kelley, John Huntington and H. B. Hurlbut.

The value of the property they left for the gallery probably exceeds $750,000. In addition to this and made possible by a clause in the deed of gift of the magnificent Wade park to the city, Mr. J. H. Wade has given for the gallery a tract of land in the park facing Euclid avenue, near Adelbert college, in the heart of the fine new East End park way and boulevard system.

The gallery, work on which will probably begin next summer, will be a handsome building of classic design and the museum corporation will maintain in it an art gallery, an academic school of art and an art polytechnic school.

Favorable to Legislator-Soldiers.

COLUMBUS, March 16.—After a conference with Auditor of State Gilbert, Attorney General Monnett rendered a decision that the members of the Ohio legislature who served in the volunteer army in the war with Spain, can draw pay for both positions. The salary of several legislators has been held up pending this decision.

Dr. Scovel Very Ill.

WOOSTER, O., March 16.—S. F. Scovel, D. D., president of Wooster university, was considered in a critical condition as the result of a very large carbuncle over the jugular vein. He has been suffering for many weeks.

TORNADO IN ALABAMA.

Injured a Number of People and Destroyed Much Property.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 16.—A tornado struck the town of Avondale, on the eastern outskirts of the city, injuring a number of people and destroying much property.

Parsonage For Chaplain Hunter.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 16.—Letters were received here from the members of the Presbyterian church at Jamestown, Pa., stating that they had decided to build their pastor, Rev. Joseph L. Hunter, chaplain of the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment, a parsonage, and had adopted the "endless chain" system of letters to raise the funds.

BROOKE HAS THE POWER.

He Can Dissolve the Cuban Assembly If He Thinks Necessary—Gomez Will Ignore It.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The authorities consulted Gonzales Quesada, the Cuban representative, who has advised that the Cuban military assembly be allowed to run its course without molestation, as he holds that it has no strength outside of its own membership, and that any move to disband it would give the members an opportunity to appear as martyrs.

This view has been accepted thus far, and may continue, although General Brooke, being on the ground, has considerable latitude of action.

HAVANA, March 16.—General Gomez has decided to proceed with the plans agreed upon for distributing the $3,000,000 to the Cuban troops on disbanding, as though the military assembly did not exist.

General Brooke asked Washington several days ago whether, in case he dissolved the assembly, his action would be approved. The cabled reply authorized him to dissolve that body if, in his judgment, such an act was necessary. He hopes the assembly will soon cease of its own accord to hold its meetings, but should sessions disquieting to the public mind continue he will intervene.

ENTERTAINED CHOATE.

Lord Salisbury and Other Notables Attended a Banquet Given in London.

LONDON, March 16.—Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador to the court of St. James, made his first public appearance in England at the banquet of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, which was held at the Metropole hotel last evening. There was a brilliant and distinguished gathering, about 250 persons having been invited to meet the ambassador, including the lord chief justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen, the prime minister, the Marquis of Salisbury, and others.

Mr. Choate, who, on arriving, was heartily welcomed by the chairman and officials of the association, sat in the place of honor, on the right of the chairman.

TO RELATIVES OF THE DEAD.

Adj. Gen. Corbin Wishes Instructions Regarding Bodies of Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The following notice was given the press by Adjutant General Corbin:

"The secretary of war requests that parents and friends of soldiers who were killed around Santiago or who have since died in Cuba, desiring their remains sent home, send their home addresses to the quartermaster general, United States army, Washington. The remains upon arrival in this country will be sent by express to the address given. Otherwise the remains will be interred at Arlington."

ORDERED TO CAMP MEADE.

Major Wilkins Told to Have on Hand Supplies For Coming Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The re-establishment of Camp Meade, near Middletown, Pa., as a place for the muster out of volunteer troops is going rapidly forward. An officer of the quartermaster's department has been there some time and is now putting the camp in condition for the occupancy of the troops. Major Harry E. Wilkins, chief commissary of subsistence at New York, was ordered to Camp Meade to purchase and have on hand supplies to feed the troops when they reach there.

The difficulty that has already been encountered in southern ports has hastened matters at Meade.

SPANISH OFFICERS CONDEMNED.

Castellanos Said Soldiers Were Only Good Part of the Army.

MADRID, March 16.—An extraordinary speech made by General Castellanos, the Spanish governor general of Cuba, who was recently appointed captain general of Madrid, to the soldiers during an inspection which he made of the barracks caused intense anger in military circles.

The captain general said:

"There is only one thing good in the army and it is the soldier himself. As to the officers, if they are derelict in their duty I am accustomed to send them to the gallies."

The officers have demanded that the minister of war, General Polaviega, take action in the matter.

To Accompany American Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Lieutenant Vitale, military attache of the Italian embassy, was granted permission by the war department to accompany troops from New York to San Francisco and thence to Manila and to remain with the army during the campaign in the Philippines. He desires to study, for his government, the American method of land and sea transportation of troops and to observe campaign methods in the islands.

Pingree Signed a Pet Measure.

LANSING, Mich., March 16.—Governor Pingree put the finishing touch to the legislation for which he has been contending since before his first term as governor, when he signed the Atkinson equal taxation bill. The act becomes operative immediately.

JOHN SHERMAN IS SICK.

Aged Statesman Has Pneumonia on the Paris.

HIS WIFE KEPT IN IGNORANCE.

Fearful of the Effect Upon Her, as She Is Not Entirely Recovered—The Patient Reported Better When the Steamer Reached St. Pierre, Martinique.

ST. PIERRE, Martinique, March 16.—On the arrival of the American line steamer Paris, Captain Watkins, from Fort De France, last evening, Mr. Sherman's physicians reported that his condition was much improved and gave ground for encouragement.

PORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, March 16.—John Sherman, who is a passenger on board the American line steamer Paris, Captain Frederick Watkins, which arrived here from Trinidad with the party of excursionists who are making a tour of the West Indian islands, is suffering from pneumonia.

While at San Juan de Porto Rico last Wednesday Mr. Sherman was entertained by Brigadier General Fred Grant, commander of the military department of San Juan, and caught cold. The malady was not considered serious until Tuesday night, after leaving Port of Spain, when pneumonia in the most serious form developed.

Dr. Graf of the Paris and Dr. Magoe of Duluth are attending him and Mr. and Mrs. Colgate Hoyt of New York and F. B. Wiborg of Cincinnati, close relations of Mr. Sherman, are constantly near him.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Several cablegrams were received from Fort de France regarding Former Secretary Sherman's condition. One, which came to General Miles, said the sufferer was much better and serious results were not feared. From the fact that Mr. Sherman was in first-class health when he left on the West Indian trip, the family here had every reason to hope that he will recover from the attack, as the dispatches concerning him say he is being given the best of care and attention. Mrs. Sherman is at her home in this city. The knowledge of her husband's condition is kept from her because of the effect it might have, as she has not entirely recovered from an attack of paralysis last fall.

MAJOR SMITH'S DENIAL.

Never Even Thought of It.

NEW YORK, March 16.—When shown the reports from Chicago regarding a great combination of all the ready print and plate houses, about to be formed in that city, Major O. J. Smith, president of the American Press association, with headquarters in this city and branches in all the principal cities of the United States, said:

"The report is utterly without the slightest foundation, and so far as this association is concerned, nothing of the kind has ever been talked of, or thought of."

Government Clerks Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—There was a heavy reduction in the clerical force of the war department, 120 employes being reduced in grade and 50 being discharged from the government service. The reason was the reduced state of the appropriations for their employment.

Mrs. Place to Be Executed.

ALBANY, March 16.—Governor Roosevelt refused to commute the sentence of Mrs. Martha Place, the Brooklyn murderer, and she will be executed some day during the next week at Sing Sing prison.

Gomez Conferred With Brooke.

Ground Has Been Purchased, and Work
Will Be Commenced Soon—Little Girl
May Lose Her Foot—Postoffice Had a Big Month.

The trustees of the First and Second
M. E. churches have purchased a piece of ground near the state line and possibly next week will commence the erection of a chapel. The deal for the ground was completed several weeks ago, and much of the work reflects credit on the members of the Second church. Next Sunday a mission will be organized in the Neville institute at Dry Run under the leadership of Reverend Haverfield, and it is thought that gentleman will have charge of the new mission. It is the intention of the two churches to convert the mission into a third church should it be profitable.

Property to Change Hands.

No less than six real estate agents were in East End yesterday, with as many prospective customers. None of the agents will say anything, but it was learned last evening considerable property will change hands within the next few weeks. Most of the land which will be bought during the season is situated near the race track and on the ridge overlooking the river.

Building News.

Frederick Rayl will commence the erection of a residence in Pennsylvania avenue, Helana, within a few weeks.
The home will contain all the modern improvements.

Work on the residence of Captain Martin in Mulberry street is progressing rapidly and by the last of April it will be ready for occupancy.

Finley Cooley has commenced the erection of an addition to his home in Pennsylvania avenue.

The Alarm Failed to Sound.

Last evening Thomas Bucheit, living on the Andrews farm, returned to his home rather late. He went in the house quietly and went to bed. This morning a searching party was instituted, and after hunting about the hills several hours returned to the house, and upon going to his room found him in bed.
The trouble came about by the failure of an alarm clock to sound.

New Wagon Arrived.

The horses used in hauling the patrol at fire station No. 1 were taken to station No. 2 yesterday afternoon to replace the horses used at that place since it was opened. The wagon was converted into a one-horse hitch, the other horse to be used in the street wagon, also brought up yesterday afternoon.
Chief Morley and Fireman Bryan assisted Fireman Terrence in making the change.

Opened for Traffic.

Pennsylvania avenue, which has been closed to traffic since last fall, was opened yesterday morning. The closing was caused by the improving of the culvert, and now that the derrick has been removed to the opposite side of the street many teamsters and farmers are glad. The culvert will not be completed for many weeks, although work is being done every day.

Big Postal Business.

The receipts at the postoffice for the month ending last night were very large and more business was handled during the month than was the same month of last year. When the quarterly report is completed it will show an increase over the report of the last quarter.

May Lose Her Foot.

It is thought that Nora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, of Grandview street, will be compelled to suffer an operation of the left foot. The member was burned some time ago and recently has turned black and is causing her much pain at present.

Among the Sick.

Chambers Smith is ill at his home with a slight attack of fever. His condition is not serious.

The condition of Lincoln Harker continues to improve and it is now thought his recovery is but a matter of a short time.

Baseball Meeting.

A meeting of the East End Red baseball club is scheduled for tomorrow evening. Several vacant positions in the club will be filled and a manager will also be selected.

Coming to Town.

S. G. Kernott, of Catlettsburg, Ky., has written friends in this city that he will move his family and effects to East End March 22. He has rented a home in Helana.

NO REVENUE STAMPS

Are Required on the Expense Accounts of Candidates.

Secretary of State Kinney has given out for publication the following statement:

"The question as to whether candidates' statements of expenses, as required by the corrupt practices act, and nomination papers should bear the revenue stamp, has been frequently submitted to the secretary of state. In order to obtain definite information upon the subject, Secretary of State Kinney addressed a telegram to the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, requesting a ruling upon these questions, and today received a telegram in answer
as follows:

"No stamps are required under internal revenue laws on any instruments pertaining to the exercise of the elective franchise, such as statements of expenses incurred by candidates."

NEW SAMPLES.

Potteries Are Again After Their Old Trade.

A number of potteries are arranging new samples for their travelers, and in a short time they will be presented to the trade.

"The time lost in waiting for the trust to begin business is being made up as rapidly as possible," said a well informed manufacturer. "Those few months cost Liverpool a pretty penny because no preparation for capturing trade was made. But that is all gone now. No buyers are being turned away."

MORMON ELDERS

Came to the City Last Night From Cleveland.

Elders Burton and Erickson, of the Mormon church, arrived in the city last night from Cleveland. They attempted to keep out of the way of a reporter in Second street, and when asked what they intended to do while in the city refused to talk. They went to the home of one of the members of their belief, and this morning it was learned they would remain in the city the remainder of the week.

MARLATT IS QUIET.

The Last Punishment Did Him Some Good.

Demon Marlatt has again subsided and is behaving himself very well at the penitentiary, but is being closely watched. He has quit talking to himself and does not worry the guards.

But his cage is not empty. Instead it is occupied by Frenchy Wings, another notorious prisoner. He refused to eat the food given him, and is now being disciplined.

STOLE A HAT.

Some Sneak Thief Called on a Dancing Party.

Monday evening at the Chevalier club dance some one stole a $4 hat and an ostrich plume which had been left in the cloak room.

The fellow was seen by parties in the hall and his description was furnished the police who watched the trains during the night, but failed to locate the man.

On the River.

Business was somewhat quiet on the river yesterday. Packets had the channel to themselves. The Virginia took a good trip to Cincinnati and the Avalon left for Charleston.

The stage of water last night was 9 feet and falling. The rainfall of the past 48 hours caused the perceptible difference in the condition of the river.

The Ben Hur will be down tonight, and the Lorena and Greenwood were up this afternoon with large cargoes. The Greenwood will be down tomorrow evening. The Queen City is due up tomorrow from Cincinnati.

New Weather Prophet.

The employees about the freight depot
now have great faith in Agent T. J.
Thomas as a weather prophet. Yesterday morning it is said Mr. Thomas told the boys colder weather would set in before the day was over, and since his prediction was true the boys are anxiously waiting the time when he will forecast warmer weather.

New Site For the American
Army Hospital at Manila.

Island Where Our Soldiers Are Taken to Recuperate Is at the Mouth of Manila Bay—Natural Fortress That Commands the Approach to the City.

Arthur C. Johnson, special war correspondent of The Rocky Mountain News, writing from Manila under date of Jan. 22, describes the new site for the American army hospital at Manila
as follows:

Corregidor island may be termed one of the beauty spots of the Philippine group. Compared to nearly all the other islands of the archipelago it is but a mere speck protruding from the sea, but close investigation discovers a stretch of nearly three miles of picturesque rocks, banana and pineapple groves, bubbling springs and sheltered little bays on the shore line.

Corregidor, or Alderman, island is located squarely in the entrance to Manila bay. Its rocky promontories have for centuries frowned down on the sea craft which have crept past its base to gain the broad expanse of Manila bay and tack away to the city of Manila, 28 miles off. It halted the Spanish galleons which 200 years ago entered and left the bay bound to and from Mexico twice a year with their loads of treasure. The island was the first to inspect the ships of England, France and Germany when they came poking their noses into the bay looking for trade. When Dewey and the Americans sailed past the island in the gloom of midnight a hoarse gun on a Corregidor hill demanded "Halt!" but failed to bring down its man when the order was not obeyed.

On Dec. 1 the government took its first steps toward instituting a convalescent hospital on Corregidor island.
The 5,000 bed hospital which formerly existed in Camp Merritt, San Francisco, had been transported to Manila on the Scandia. Major Owens, with Steward
R. F. Geraghty as his right hand man and 50 hospital men of the regular service, went to Corregidor and cleared space for the hospital. Today there is a little colony of tents situated where the old Spanish arsenal stood, and 200 patients who have run the gantlet of the army hospitals in Manila bask in the sunshine and drink in the drafts of fresh sea air. The waves of a tiny cove lap the shore beside the camp and make an excellent bathing place.

The regular boat service to Corregidor was inaugurated on Christmas day, 1898. Thomas J. Tarsney, formerly adjutant general of the state of Colorado, is at the head of the enterprise, and the company is already doing a lucrative excursion business as well as handling government transportation contracts.
The side wheel steamer Manila leaves the Pasig river wharf each morning at 8:30 loaded with the 24 hours supply of fresh meat for the Robinson Crusoes on Corregidor, pale faced soldiers and pleasure seekers.

The journey requires three hours. At the end of that time the traveler has begun to pay some attention to the little heap of rocks and is able to discern a tower on the very pinnacle of a small mountain, which turns out to be the celebrated revolving Corregidor light, which may be seen 20 miles out in the China sea. This lighthouse is now in charge of a United States signal corps detachment. There are about 500 Filipinos on the island, so it is necessary to garrison the place to protect the hospital. The Pennsylvania camp is but a few hundred yards along the shore from the village of Corregidor.

High up on the promontory overhanging the town may be seen the vine clad ancient fortifications of the Spaniards.
From the wharf the road divides, one branch entering the little thatched village and the other passing through a queer little gate built into the cliffs and opening the way to the collection of arsenal buildings, little whitewashed stone affairs, which have all been occupied by Steward Geraghty and his hospital.

The tent space for the hospital has been cleared from banana groves. The tents are pitched end to end, usually on slightly sloping ground, which is well drained. The front opening of a ward discloses a long aisle of center poles and cots. The patients are all dismissed and either running about or looling on their army blankets. The buildings which were occupied by the old Spanish garrison have been turned into quarters and storerooms. One of the principal places of storage for the hospital is the little Corregidor church.
This is a cement building about 40 feet long and fitted with the regulation chapel altar. A huge sheet of canvas has been hung up to protect the images and fittings of the altar and the entire front of the church piled with scores of barrels of military medical supplies, barrels of brandy, army blankets, mattresses and all the necessities of a well equipped hospital.

The island is heavily wooded with mountainous tropical growths, and the shore is niched with bays. The rocky points have command of the region for 20 miles around and will make wonderfully strong battery points when the United States commences to modernize the defenses of Manila.

At 3 o'clock the steamer draws away from the wharf, and Corregidor has pulled up her drawbridge for the night.
During the present insurgent troubles
the little garrison on the island, including the hospital corps, stays by its arms, for the natives of the island have been infused with Aguinaldo doctrines and are continually in signal call with their trothors of the mainland.

Climate and Consumption.

I am in favor of treating tuberculosis patients near their homes and in the same or nearly the same climate as that in which they will have to live and work after their restoration to health.
My reasons for advocating such principles are founded on the experiences of all modern phthisio-therapists, who have demonstrated that the hygienic and dietetic treatment in special sanitariums is feasible and successful in nearly all climates.

I know from personal observation that cures of pulmonary tuberculosis effected in our ordinary home climates, which are on the average not considered as especially favorable to this class of sufferers, have been more lasting and more assured than cures obtained in more genial climes.

And, with all due deference to the opinions of others, I do not believe there exists any climate which has a special curative quality for any form of pulmonary tuberculosis. Climate can only be considered as a more or less valuable adjunct in the treatment of consumption, but not a specific.—S. A.
Knopf, M. D., in North American Review.

Didn't Lose Any Sleep.

Jenner, the famous English physician, was essentially a strong and self reliant man. He attended the prince consort through his fatal illness, he was the Prince of Wales' doctor when the heir to the British throne had so narrow an escape in 1872, and he also went to Darmstadt and remained in attendance upon the Princess Alice till she died.
To practice medicine in "the fierce light that beats upon a throne" is not calculated to lessen the physician's anxieties, and one who knew Jenner well once questioned him on this point and hinted that his responsibilities must sometimes be sufficient to render sleep or rest impossible.

"Sleep," replied Jenner, in his characteristic way. "I don't think that anxiety about a patient ever kept me awake five minutes in my life. I go to a bedside. I do my best. What more can I do? Why should I not sleep?"

Fishing for Health.

When a man breaks down with that dread disease, consumption, and recognizes his condition, he starts out to fish for health. He tries this thing and that thing.
He consults this doctor and that doctor.
He indulges in all kinds of absurd athletic exercises. He tries first one climate and then another. He tries the rest cure and the work cure. He grows steadily worse.

That is the story of most consumptives.
Finally, when the consumptive dies, the doctor shrugs his shoulders and pronounces consumption incurable. A thirty years' test of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has demonstrated that it cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, before the lungs are too far wasted. In a consumptive there is a weaker spot than even the lungs. That spot is the stomach.
A consumptive never really begins to dis-until his stomach gives out. The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only braces up the stomach, but acts directly on the lungs, healing them and driving out all impurities. Honest medicine dealers will not urge you to take an inferior substitute.

"I had a very bad cough, also night-sweats, and was almost in my grave with consumption," writes Mrs. Clara A. McIntyre, Box 171, Ashland, Middlesex Co., Mass. "A friend of mine who had died with consumption came to me in a dream and told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thank the Lord, I did so. By the time I had taken half of the first bottle I felt much better. I kept on until I had taken three bottles. That was all I needed. I got well and strong again."

Whenever constipation is one of the complicating causes of disease, the most perfect remedy is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are always effective, yet absolutely mild and harmless. There never was any remedy invented which can take their place. They never gripe.

Some Pertinent Questions That Can Be Answered With One Reply.

Why is it that in East Liverpool and its suburbs with a combined population of 1,400 there is only one medical preparation which gives statements from residents to back up its representations?
Why is it that Doan's Kidney Pills do this in East Liverpool as in every other town and city of any importance
in the Union?

Why is it that there are advertised in every newspaper a dozen remedies and only one can supply local proof, located endorsement or its claims?

The solution of the problem is simple.
Only one remedy has the curing and staying power. Other remedies make all kinds of gigantic yet futile efforts to get local proof but the attempt ends in producing a statement or two from places that as far as East Liverpool is concerned might just as well live in the moon.

Here is East Liverpool proof which backs up the merits.

Mrs. William James who lives at 285 Third street, says: "I was troubled off and on for eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys, a dull aching pain across my loins, up under my shoulder blades and rheumatic pains in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes in the weather and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight.
The trouble affected my nervous system, causing a frequent fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. I generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and obtained instant relief. The symptoms all left, and there was nothing wrong with my kidneys
after the treatment."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by

Insured Harrison's Renomination.

Chicago, March 16.—The result of the Democratic primaries, which were held here, insured the renomination of Carter H. Harrison for mayor. No opposition to the Harrison ticket was made at the polls by the adherents of ex-Governor Altgeld, who will run as an inde-

OBJECTED TO COLLINS

On the Ground That He Was a Democrat.

Jos. P. Hanlon Faced the Same Objection, but Came Out All Right—The Ticket For Monday's Primaries Made Out by the Republican Central Committee.

The Republican central committee last night made arrangements for the primary election to be held Saturday afternoon.

There was a good attendance at the meeting, and it was called to order by Chairman George H. Owen. Several short addresses were made before the committee began the transaction of business.

When the work of making up the ticket was commenced an objection was raised to the name of Thomas S. Collins, who is a candidate for council from the Third ward, on the ground that he was a Democrat. He presented an affidavit stating that he had voted the Republican ticket for the last four years. This settled the question, but when the name of Joseph P. Hanlon, who is a candidate for justice of the peace, was reached a like objection was raised. A committee was sent after Mr. Hanlon, and he made oath that he had been a Republican for two years and would continue to vote the Republican ticket, no matter what action the committee took. This was satisfactory to the committee, and the ticket will be as follows:

Justice of the peace—Daniel McLane, J. P. Hanlon.
Constable—L. L. Golden, C. W. Powell.
Township trustee—J. W. Albright.
Township assessor—W. S. McBane.
Council—First ward, Willard Morris, James Challis; Second ward, Josiah T. Smith, W. C. Stewart, Joseph Osborn; Third ward, George Peach, Thomas S. Collins; Fourth ward, William Cuthbert, George Olnhausen.
Assessor—First ward, Robert McKenty, Grant McDade; Second ward, J. E. Anderson, Sylvester Kinsey, T. G. Stevenson; Third ward, Thomas Lloyd, Henry Deitz, Thomas Green; Fourth ward, E. N. Croxall.
Water works trustee—Jacob Shenkel, W. L. Smith.
Cemetery trustee—Frank Dickey.
Board of education—Rev. J. C. Taggart, J. H. Smith, Harry Peach, W. B. Hill.
The name of Enoch Elden was also placed on the ticket as a candidate for the board of education, but he withdrew from the race this morning.

The election will be conducted under the Australian ballot system, and the matter of having tickets printed was left in the hands of a committee. Each candidate will be entitled to have one representative in the polls while the votes are being counted, and the members of the central committee will act as judges and clerks of the election.

After some discussion it was decided to have only one voting precinct in the Third ward. The places selected are as follows:

First ward—First precinct, East End fire station; Second precinct, Robert Hall's office; Third precinct, Minerva street.
Second ward—First precinct, city hall; Second precinct, planing mill.
Third ward—Landry office.
Fourth ward—First precinct, store in Sixth street; Second precinct, Collins building.
Township—City hall, East End, West End.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free.

TOD SLOANE MAKES A CALL.

Visits Jean de Reszke and Condoles With Him on His Size.

"I wish to see Mr. James D. Risky," said a well dressed little fellow to the clerk at the Gilsey House in New York recently. It was "Tod" Sloane, the jockey, with a big bundle in his arms, paying a social call.

"Do you mean Mr. Jean de Reszke, the opera singer?" inquired the clerk. "Well, Jim and James is all the same," replied the jockey. "Send up my card to Mr. Risky."

Max Hirsh, treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera House, who is a great friend of Sloane's, was discussing things operative with him the other day, when he happened to tell him of the splendid stable M. de Reszke keeps in Poland. He was surprised that Sloane, who knows the Prince of Wales and so many other celebrities both at home and abroad, had never met the singer, and the jockey's visit to the Gilsey House was the result of the conversation. M. de Reszke saw Sloane ride in England and had spoken admiringly of him. He was admitted at once to the singer's presence. The jockey is not much of a conversationalist, and he knows it, so he brought along a lot of photographs of himself to use as topics of talk. When he saw the singer he said to him:

"My, but you're big! You'd never make a jockey in a million years." "I have often regretted my size on that account," replied the singer, "but, you see, being big gives me large lungs, and I can sing better. But I love horses, and I like to ride, and I keep lots of jockeys in my place in Poland." "Did you ever meet the Prince of Wales?" inquired "Tod." "Yes," the singer said. "I know him very well." "I know him, too," the jockey announced, proudly. "Ever meet Lord William? Lord William Beresford, you know. I stopped at his place in England. Here's a photograph of himself, he gave me." "I saw you ride on the other side," the singer observed, "and I was delighted with you."

"They all are," the jockey answered complacently. Then he added, "I brought some pictures of me that I thought you might like to stick around your room." These were accepted with thanks, and then Mr. Sloane asked the singer to have a drink. They talked about the photographs. "Tod" said he'd never heard "Mr. Risky" sing, and he'd like to, so he was invited around to the opera house. Then he asked the singer if he'd ever been up in a balloon. Sloane was once assistant to an aeronaut, and this was one of the topics he could talk on. They kept coming back to the subject of the photographs, however. Sloane remarked that he had 98 pairs of trousers, all of which he had selected himself and had made under his own supervision. He told about his diamonds also and of all the horse races he had ever won.

When he came down stairs, he met a lot of his racing friends. "I've just been calling on Jim Risky," he said, with a slight display of vanity. "Gin rickey!" cried the crowd in derision. "No, Jim Risky, the opera singer," he replied. "He's a dead game sport too. He asked me to go and visit him in Poland, where the mineral water comes from. I don't know where it is, but I guess the place is all right. It's a shame Risky is so big. He'd make a splendid jockey, for I'm sure he's got the spunk. It's a shame such a nice chap should waste his time singing. You ought to see where he put his photographs of me—right on the mantelpiece, next to the pictures of a lot of kings and queens."—New York Journal.

Mysterious Illness.
A puzzling illness visited nurses and patients at the Retreat for the Sick in Richmond a few days ago. The institution has two resident physicians, and all the physicians in the city practice there. At the same hour a number of the nurses were seized with pains in the back and head and went into delirium. While in this state several cried out that hot metal or sand was being poured down their backs. It became necessary to put some of the nurses in straitjackets to prevent violence to themselves. The physicians were baffled, and the illness remains a mystery.—New York Sun.

MACHINE TO TRY PUPILS

Ergograph to Indicate Their Comparative Abilities.

Nervous Condition of the Subject and Physical State Are Indicated by the Instrument—Fatigue Is Shown by the Fingers—It Will Aid the Teachers.

Tests psychological in their nature are being made in the public schools in Chicago for the purpose of determining the comparative ability of the younger pupils to stand the fatigues of study.

These tests have for their ultimate object the reduction of the ordinary common school or public school education to a scientific basis and are made through the medium of the ergograph, an invention of Professor A. Mosso of Italy, which has never been tried, it is understood, in the United States before.

The experiments are under the direction of Professor Frederick W. Smedley, lecturer on pedagogy at the University of Chicago, and Mr. Victor Campbell, the principal of the Brighton evening school. As not more than 100 children have been examined, while it is the intention to experiment with fully 1,000, it is too early to speak of results. Both Professor Smedley and Mr. Campbell argue that if a child is backward in his studies there is some cause for it that the instructor should determine and for which he should find a remedy.

The ergograph consists of two main parts, one of which is a cylinder, revolved by means of clockwork, about which a paper strip is pasted, on which the records are made. The working portion of the second part is a small sliding carriage to which is attached a stylographic pen, the point of which rests upon the paper covered cylinder. To one end of this carriage is attached a weight and to the other a cord made of twisted wire.

The arm of the child to be examined is strapped into a rest—that has no connection with the ergograph, however—so that it is possible to move only the fingers. The second finger is then hooked into a loop in the end of the wire cord spoken of, and the pupil is required to work the finger back and forth in time with a metronome, which is a contrivance for marking time.

This moves the carriage and the pen attached back and forth, and on the paper of the cylinder, which has been set into a barely perceptible motion, the pen records an unbroken line that weaves from side to side on the paper, forming an outline something like the teeth of a saw.

Naturally, as the finger of the pupil weakens from fatigue, the distance he is able to pull the carriage forward grows shorter and shorter, until he cannot move it at all. Correspondingly the teeth of the saw made by the pen grow shorter until the jagged line becomes almost perfectly straight.

The physiological principle upon which the operation of the ergograph is based is that one set of muscles is an index to the general condition of the body. It is agreed that in the majority of cases there is a physical cause for the bad standing of a child at school. If he grows thin and bellow, it is probable he is not cared for properly and that some tonic or physical remedy is necessary. Possibly the cause of the failing health of a child is overwork.

This does not necessarily cause a breakdown, but it certainly proves a menace to health. The stupid boy or girl in school is no doubt crowded with work and derives no benefit whatever from any of the studies. It is for the purpose of combining physical with mental training, that these tests have been inaugurated in the public schools of Chicago under the auspices of the board of education.

As to the test on the ergograph, the regularity of the saw teeth, as these may be called, recorded on the paper indicates the nervous condition of the pupil, and the length of time the child can continue pulling the carriage with his finger is an index to his physical condition.

From this record the length of time the child can work to advantage and the period of fatigue and the period when the child is at its best mentally can be learned. When these are found out, the teacher is in position to instruct the pupil to the best possible advantage.

In addition to the ergograph record the height, weight and lung capacity of each pupil were noted.—New York Herald.

Terribly Cold In Porto Rico.

The cold snap has reached San Juan. Although we are a little late in point of time, we get there just the same. At 4:45 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 28 the thermometer dropped to 65.9 degrees F., according to the official minimum thermometer of the weather bureau. The lowest that has heretofore been recorded by the bureau since it was established here last fall was 67.4 degrees, and as the mercury goes down to 68 degrees or 70 degrees every night of the winter this tremendous lowering of the mercury is extraordinary.—San Juan News.

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns

GOVERNOR PINGREE, they say, is about to head a new political party. Many sensible men will think that is anything but a recommendation for the party.

THE use of the word "exclusive" is bad enough at any time in a news item, but when it can only be used as a lie all bounds of journalistic propriety have been overstepped.

President McKinley's attitude toward his enemies in his own party is, to say the least, kindly. They revile him continually, while he says nothing but occasionally does them a good turn.

CONGRESS has adjourned, the President is enjoying his vacation, and American soldiers are winning victories every day in Luzon. It seems as though fortune has smiled once more.

AGUINALDO and his misguided followers are learning some costly lessons. Let us hope they will be sufficiently impressed to last until the people of the Philippines have come to know the blessings of civilization.

THE yellow journals now say President McKinley has gone south to hatch out a few political schemes, and not to escape for a brief period the cares of official life. The tale is doubtless in line with other yellow stories and worthy of as much attention.

THE order to clean the streets and alleys of the city has been issued, and it remains for the people to carry it out at once. If East Liverpool is to enjoy any considerable degree of health during the coming season it must be freed from the load of filth which each winter gathers about the streets and alleys.

VOTE NEXT SATURDAY.

It is the duty of every Republican to go to the polls next Saturday afternoon. The question at issue is so important that no man, interested in the success of the party, can afford to pass the primaries by without some attention. The danger is great when only a small proportion of the vote is cast, for upon these occasions incompetent and irresponsible men are usually nominated. When the people vote in large numbers they are usually interested enough to place the right ticket in the field.

SAVING HIS PEOPLE.

The position occupied by General Gomez saves his people from being the laughing stock of the world, since it cannot but be believed that a number of Cubans support him. The money grabbing members of the legislature have made themselves ridiculous, for they are clothed with no real authority and seem to be officers in the army, banded together for the purpose of taking every cent Uncle Sam will send. The people are gradually awakening to the fact that this body cares nothing for them and will do nothing to aid them. Consequently they turn to the old warrior who has during the past few months stood head and shoulders above his countrymen. If there were more of his kind in Cuba the final disposition of the island would not be a matter for much discussion on the part of American statesmen.

THE COUNTY CAN HELP

A DOZEN SICK ONES CARED FOR

At Great Expense During the Past Few Months—It Would Be Economy For the Poor Authorities, and Not a Little Help For the Hospital.

The speaker was Dr. O. P. Andrews, county physician. He has given the hospital matter a considerable degree of attention and has calculated the amount the institution would receive from the county. Continuing he said:

"In a community of this kind there are always to be found a number of people who are ill and have no one to care for them. They receive the attention of the county physician until they are able to go to the infirmary. That part of the arrangement is all right and works very well, but the difficulty appears when we endeavor to find a place to keep the sick until they recover. It is not every family that will take them in, and in some instances they do not receive the care and attention they should although the county pays well. Here is where the hospital comes in. If that institution was in operation the sick could be taken there, they would receive the best of care and the county would pay the bill. The amount expended on the dozen or more cases of this kind I have had during the past few months, would be a welcome addition to any hospital fund. This fact might be taken into consideration with some profit by the committees who are working to make the hospital a success."

CHARLES S. SPEAKER.

An Admirer Speaks of Him In Glowing Terms.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—I am sincerely glad in the knowledge that Charles S. Speaker has concluded to enter the race for the berth of judge of the court of common pleas. I have known Mr. Speaker for many years and have noted and marked his course in legal life. The result is that I am proud to call him friend. He is brainy, cultured, honest and honorable in a marked degree. He never goes back on a promise. He never goes back on a friend. His word is as good as his bond. He would do honor to Columbiana county. I pay him this brief tribute very gladly. He has no idea that I contemplate giving him anything of the kind. This is not an advertisement, nor yet a political card. It is simply my heart tribute to the man who I would love dearly to see elected at the coming contest. I have not one word to say derogatory to the other two candidates. I know them both and esteem them as clever and courteous gentlemen and good citizens. But the candidate of candidates, in my estimation, is Charles S. Speaker, and I earnestly hope that a snow storm of ballots will be cast for him in this city of East Liverpool.

DOLLAR CLAUSE AGAIN

It Has Not Been Lost In Trades Council.

COMMITTEE IS STILL AT WORK

Preparing Resolutions For Presentation at the Proper Time—Lengthy Session Was Held Last Night, But Not Much Was Accomplished.

Trades council met last evening and held a very lengthy session, but did not transact a great deal of business.

The credential committee made a report and the following delegates were seated: Grocery clerks, William Freezie; retail clerks, J. E. Anderson, William Horton; dishmakers, James Myler; L. U., 1669, Frank Hewitt, W. E. Hines and Charles Lucas.

The printers and transferers reported that their union, No. 32, would give a social and entertainment in Brotherhood hall next Tuesday evening, and an invitation was extended to the council and all local labor unions to attend the meeting.

The trustees were instructed to place $400 of the money of the council in some institution where it would bear interest.

The entertainment committee stated that they had selected Turner hall as the place for holding their entertainment and Thursday evening, March 30, as the date.

The committee on legislation reported that they were making progress in regard to the gas ordinance, and stated that they would prepare resolutions and present them at the proper time. A number of letters were read relating to the question.

Other business of a private nature was transacted and the council adjourned.

AMERICAN WARE

Is Making Progress Among the People of Indiana.

J. R. Hickman, senior member of the firm of Hickman Bros., of Muncie, Ind., retired to his home this morning after spending yesterday in the city placing orders. When asked about the crockery trade Mr. Hickman said:

"I believe the order I placed yesterday doubled the one I placed the same time last year. Trade has been excellent and more American made crockery is now being sold in Indiana than ever before. It is true that considerable imported goods are being received by us, but the amount is rapidly decreasing. I firmly believe trade this year will far exceed that of last year although we consider last year's trade excellent."

A QUEER CHAP

Talked Wildly and Ran About Lower Broadway.

An individual, arrayed in clothing covered with clay, ran about the lower part of town last night like one possessed.

He met a well known resident in Cook street and talked for a few minutes to him in a most peculiar manner, and later accosted a man in Broadway. Half an hour later he ran down Broadway like one possessed, and turned into Second street. Who he is or what caused his strange actions form a mystery no one seems able to fathom.

DON'T BE TRICKED.

The Vote of Challis Has Chicanery on Its Wings.

Republicans who love the party will be very careful in noting the actions and votes of Mr. Challis, candidate for re-election to council from the first ward. He voted against the masses and in favor of the gas company in the "dollar" clause in the first place, and thus defeated the ordinance of Mr. Peach. When the second test come on Tuesday night last, noses were evidently first counted, in order to make sure that the friends of the gas company were all right with their ballot, and then Mr. Challis cast his vote. APPARENTLY in favor of Peach's ordinance. The job was too thinly veneered, however, and the nose and ears of the wolf were caught peeping out from under the sheep's woolly covering. The combination of gas company, petty trickery and Challis will not work. The people have become very weary of the actions of councilmen who vote in favor of monopolies and against the masses, the working men and working women, and the verdict is that it is time for such councilmen to take a back seat.

Morrow Case.

NO MONEY CHANGED HANDS

At Least the Evidence Did Not Show It
and on That the Decision Was Given—I
B. Cameron Sues E. M. Crosser, as As-
signee of the Bower Company.

LISBON, March 16. —[Special]—The judgment of Mayor Bough, of East Liverpool, in the case of the city against William E. Morrow, was overruled by Judge Smith, for the reason that there was no evidence to show that money or anything else of value changed hands;
that there was only evidence that a game of craps was being played, and
the court had no right to presume craps to be a gambling game without proof.

A few weeks ago Morrow was fined $60 for permitting gambling on his premises.

In the case of Herbert Tetlow against Salem, leave was granted to file a petition in error. Tetlow was fined $50
and costs by the mayor of Salem for keeping his saloon open after 10 o'clock.
He claims the facts stated in the complaint do not constitute an offense.

LISBON, March 16.—[Special]—Another petition has been filed by I. B.
Cameron, as receiver by the First National, against E. M. Crosser, as assignee
of D. C. Bower & Co. The petition says that since 1883 the company have been customers of the bank, and March 9, 1896 the company and the bank had a mutual accounting, at which time it was agreed that the company owed the bank $3,634.99 on overchecks. When the bank closed, Oct. 21, 1898, the receiver says the amount of over-checks was $4,708.85. The assignee and receiver cannot agree on the amount due
on the account, and the assignee would not allow the claim. The plaintiff says
the account is long, involved and complicated, and a referee should be appointed to make, state and report the account to the court. There is also a
note of $2,500 executed by D. C. Bower & Co., to the bank May 25, 1898 and
due Aug. 23, 1899; making a total of $7,203.85, for which judgment is asked.
The receiver also filed a petition
against E. M. Crosser as assignee of D.
C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower asking $2,500 on a note dated May 21, 1898,
and due August 23. It is signed by D.
C. Bower & Co., and Belle Bower.

Miss Addie Dennis and Miss Maude
Anderson were desirous of leaving on
the main line, but did not know their train was ready to start. After the train was in motion the young ladies
attempted to board it. Miss Dennis caught the front end of the mail car and succeeded in landing in safety. Miss Anderson waited until the first passenger coach came along, and not understanding the science of boarding trains
in motion would certainly have come to grief, but for the timely assistance of several train officials. The train was at length stopped, but when it pulled out
Miss Dennis was still aboard the mail
car. Their destination was Kensington.

Will Be Made Because a Young Man Complained.

This morning a young man named
Carey called at city hall, and upon entering Mayor Bough's office said: "I want two men arrested immediately."
Those in the office at that time were asked to retire and nothing more was heard of the conversation. Before the mayor had finished his talk with Mr.
Carey warrants for the arrest of several parties were made out. Carey was seen by a reporter, and when asked about the case would not talk, other than to say
no arrests would be made this week.
When Mayor Bough was asked for information he also refused to talk.

William Ferrall, who was arrested
Tuesday night, was discharged yesterday afternoon. He went into Walsh's restaurant Tuesday evening, and after eating a meal tendered 10 cents as payment. The price asked was 50 cents.
He was taken to jail, and as Walsh
would not prefer a charge he was released.

No arrests were made during the night or this morning, and no police
calls were sent to the fire station.

PLANS FOR NEW ARMY.

How the Enlisted Strength Will Be Distributed.

NEW FORCE WILL HAVE 63,095 MEN.

Enlistments For the Regular Army Are Being Made at an Unprecedented Rate—Inducements to Volunteers to Stay in the Service—Will Receive Credit For Enlisting.

The plans of the war department for the organization of a regular army of 65,000 men and the distribution of the enlisted strength among the several branches of the service were approved by President McKinley the other day, and they will be carried into effect at once. Secretary Alger carried to the cabinet meeting a statement prepared under the supervision of Adjutant General Corbin showing the basis of company, troop and battery organization, the number of enlisted men allotted to the infantry, cavalry and artillery and the staff departments and the total enlisted strength that will be necessary to fill the regiments under the plan proposed. This statement was accepted and approved by the president.

The new army will absorb 63,095 enlisted men, leaving a surplus of 1,905 recruits on hand to fill vacancies. Each battery of artillery will have 120 men and each regiment of 14 batteries 1,680 men. The heavy batteries will contain the same number of men as the light. Under the old law heavy batteries had more men than light batteries. Each troop of cavalry will contain 100 men, making 1,200 men to the regiment. Each company of infantry will contain 112 men, making 1,344 men to the regiment. The allotments of enlisted men for a battery of artillery and a troop of cavalry were reduced, while the enlisted strength of each company of infantry was increased from 106 to 112. This table will show the distribution of enlisted men agreed on by the military authorities and approved by President McKinley.

Enlistments for the new regular army are being made at an unprecedented rate. The effect of the advertisements inserted in the newspapers has been to bring great crowds of recruits to every recruiting station. Many men of the volunteer organizations now being mustered out in southern camps are enlisting in the regular service. These men are welcome additions to the army, and every inducement to secure them will be made. They will receive credit for their volunteer enlistments, thus enabling them to secure continuous service pay, but will be obliged to join the army for the prescribed period of three years, volunteer service not counting as part of this. Each volunteer discharged will receive travel pay to the place of his enlistment and six months' extra clothing allowance in cash.

Nearly all the recruits who have applied for enlistment in the regular army in the last few days, have asked to be assigned to regiments under orders to proceed to the Philippines or already there. There will be no trouble in accommodating these men, as it is intended to fill up the Philippine regiments immediately. Army officers are gratified over this rush for active service. They say it shows that the men who are applying for enlistment want to join the army for patriotic reasons and for adventure and not merely to secure a certain means of subsistence. If these applications continue, and the military authorities have no doubt that they will, the authorized strength of the army will be attained in a very short time.

The same opportunity presented to the volunteers in the United States who want to go into the regular establishment will be given to volunteer troops in Cuba and the Philippines. There are no volunteers in Porto Rico. It is believed in Washington that many of the volunteers now engaged in active campaigning against Aguinaldo's forces will re-enlist in the regular army when their minister out is ordered. All the volunteer troops in the Philippines will be brought home for minister out, but such of the enlisted men as desire to remain in the service will receive their discharge at Manila or wherever they may be stationed in the archipelago and permitted to enlist in the regulars. They will be entitled to continuous service pay, travel pay from the place where they would have landed in the United States to the places of enlistment in this country and six months' clothing allowance.

When the army bill became a law, the enlistments in the regular service

numbered about 40,000. At the rate at which men are enlisting in the United States the additional 25,000 enlistments authorized by the law will be secured in a few months.—New York Sun.

ALL CHEER "PREXY" TAYLOR

Vassar Girls In Dress Suits Give Their President an Ovation.

The citizens of Poughkeepsie gave a dinner at the Nelson House the other night to President James M. Taylor of Vassar in recognition of his decision to remain at Vassar instead of accepting the presidency of Brown university.

President Taylor was given an ovation on the occasion of the last ball play at Vassar, when he entered the theater where the girls played Madeleine Lucette Ryley's "Christopher, Jr." Some of the students were in evening dress suits borrowed from their brothers, while others were in evening gowns. When Dr. Taylor entered, the actresses and audience cheered and gave college yells, which ended in the Vassar Glee club singing the following song to the tune of "Jingle Bells."

A month or so ago our hearts were sore, downcast,
The sky of rose and gray a shadow overcast,
But Vassar girls declared, dear what all might say,
That Brown might try his very best, but prexy here would stay.

CHORUS.

Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy, cheer,
We know he couldn't get away, but aren't we glad he's here!
Rah, rah, rah! raise the cry; cheer for prexy, cheer,
For he will be our president for many a happy year.
Let every voice ring out to you the merry song,
And wish our president happy life and long.
The sky once overcast is bright and clear to day,<
And Vassar is one ahead of Brown, for prexy's here to stay.

THE WORLD'S ARMAMENTS.

There Are 5,250,000 Soldiers In Civilized Countries.

In an article on the coming disarmament conference in The Hague the Kleine Zeitung computes that should all the armies of the civilized world discard their uniforms no fewer than 5,250,000 fighters would have to go to work. The writer also indulges in the following series of startling conjectures: "The total population of the earth, to take one example, is only 32 times as large as the total of its soldier population. If every soldier in the world were to shoot 32 men, nobody would be left upon the earth who was not a soldier."—Philadelphia Press.

New Cure For Drunkenness.

Justice of the Peace Moritz Oehlet of East St. Louis advances a new idea for the cure of the drink habit. The justice has the Illinois law enlisted in his aid, and up to the other evening had turned out ten graduates. Should any of these graduates return to drinking they are liable to find themselves in jail and possibly in the penitentiary on a charge of perjury. Justice Oehlet's idea is to administer an iron bound oath to the man who desires to stop drinking. Two or more witnesses subscribe their names in each case, and should the oath be violated the witnesses will be subpoenaed to prosecute the man on a charge of perjury.—New York World.

The Armour Institute.

Speaking of P. D. Armour's additional gift of $750,000 to the Armour Institute of Chicago, The Post of that city says: "Armour Institute is now regarded as among the best technical institutions in the country, but with increased means it will take its place among the highest ranking institutions of technical instruction in the world. Already students from India, Australia, Japan and other countries have been attracted to it and with its facilities, which will be materially increased, it is certain to become one of the features of Chicago. The Institute has been the pet child of Mr. Armour and in its growth and wonderful development under Dr. Gunsalus' administration he finds his chief enjoyment."

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

OUR NEW SEA FIGHTERS

Features of the Projected Additions to the Navy.

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY.

Battleships to Be 420 Feet Long, of 11,500 Tons Displacement and Have 1-2 Knots Speed—Cruisers Will Be Larger and Have a Speed of 22 Knots.

Under the plans prepared by the bureau of construction and repair the projected battleships, armored cruisers and unprotected cruisers will when completed be the finest ships of their respective classes in the world.

Admiral Hichborn expects that the plans for the battleships and armored cruisers will be completed and approved by the department by the time congress reconvenes in December, so that the secretary will be ready to award contracts the moment the armor controversy is settled. He said the other day that it is proposed to apply the electrical system in operating the auxiliaries of the new ships more generally than will be done on board the battleships of the Maine class, and he promises that in all respects the ships will be greatly superior to anything of their respective types now afloat or under construction.

From the department I obtained these general features of the proposed battleships: Length, 420 feet; beam, 76 feet; displacement, 11,500 tons; speed, not less than 18½ knots; draft, mean, 24 feet; horsepower, natural draft, 12,800; forced draft, 18,400; coal capacity, 2,200 tons.

The hulls of the ships will be of steel, sheathed and coppered, and will be propelled by twin screws. Their engines will be of the quadruple expansion type, and they will be supplied with water tube boilers. Each ship will be equipped with two submarine torpedo tubes. With its maximum coal capacity aboard one of the proposed battleships, steaming at its economical speed of ten knots, will be able to steam 10,666 miles.

Each vessel will be supplied with this armament: Main battery—Four 12 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets; sixteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in redoubt or casemates, four of which will have end fire. Secondary fire—Ten 12 pounders, twelve 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

Final decision has not yet been reached as to the protection that will be given the ships, but as so far determined it will consist of a complete belt 7 feet 6 inches wide, 12 inches thick at water line between barbettes, thence tapering to 5 inches at extremities. The diagonal armor will be 12 inches in thickness. The side above the belt to main deck from barrette to barrette will be 6 inches and the casemates of redoubts will be protected by 6 inches. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate 12 inches throughout. The barbettes will be 13 inches in front, reduced to 10 inches in the rear. The conning tower will be 12 inches and the armored signal tower 9 inches. A cellulose belt will be supplied to each ship.

On account of having high speed the armored cruisers will not be so well protected or so well armed as the battleships. Like the battleships, they will have steel hulls, sheathed and coppered, twin screws and two masts. These will be their dimensions: Length, 460 feet; beam, 69 feet; displacement, 12,000 tons; speed, not less than 22 knots; draft, mean, 24 feet 6 inches; horsepower, natural draft, 16,310; forced draft, 23,300; coal capacity, 1,800 tons.

Steaming at its economical speed of 12 knots each armored cruiser will have a steaming radius of 7,830 miles. The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers of the water tube type. This will be the armament of each ship: Main battery—Four 8 inch guns, in pairs, in turrets, one forward and one aft, fourteen 6 inch rapid fire guns, in broadside, the forward and after pair sponsored for end fire. Second battery—Ten 12 pounders, ten 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and six machine guns.

It has not been fully determined what armored protection can be supplied to the ships. As originally contemplated, it was intended to provide each with a complete belt 6 inches thick at water line and 7 feet 6 inches wide, full thickness from barrette to barrette, thence tapering to 4 inches at extremities. It is questionable whether the 6 inch armor can be carried above the belt, and it may be that the thickness of the belt will have to be reduced at the ends of the vessels. The turrets will be balanced, with inclined front plate and the armor will be 9 inches thick all around. The barbettes will be 10 inches thick, reduced to 6 inches in the rear. The diagonal armor will be 8 inches, conning tower, 10 inches; armored signal tower, 8 inches, and protective deck, 6 inches on the slope and 8 inches flat. Cellulose belts will be supplied to the ships.

With respect to the third class cruisers, as they will be officially designated, the plans will be completed as promptly as possible in order that the contracts may be awarded within a short time. There will be six of these ships. Their hulls will be of steel sheathed and con-

pered, and they will be supplied with twin screws and two masts, and will have flush upper decks. These will be their dimensions: Length, 280 feet; beam, 43 feet; displacement, 2,600 tons; speed, not less than 16 knots; draft, mean, 16 feet 9 inches; horsepower (natural draft), 2,450; forced, 3,500; coal capacity, 650.

Though the coal capacity is seemingly small compared with that of the battleships and armored cruisers, the little cruisers will be able to steam 7,234 knots and keep at sea 33 days without recoaling. Their armament will be: Main battery, ten 5 inch rapid fire guns, two on upper deck with shields on center line, eight in broadside, forward and aft pair sponsored; secondary battery, ten 3 pounders, two 1 pounders and four machine guns.

The engines will be quadruple expansion and the boilers water tube. Each ship will have a conning tower with six inch protection, a water tight deck and a cellulose belt. The department of justice has so constructed the personnel law that the navy department will be required by June 30 to take steps to retire officers voluntarily and compulsorily in order to make the number of vacancies which the law provides shall be made in any one year.—Cor. New York Herald.

OUR WAR IN BRITISH EYES.

Admiral Colomb Tells Why Our Naval Strategy Was Hazardous.

Vice Admiral Philip Howard Colomb (retired) lectured recently in London on the "Lessons of the Spanish-American War" before the members of the United Service Institutions. After dealing with the impossibility of secrecy in warfare hereafter, owing to the vigilance of the press and the necessity for protecting cables in shallow water, he said he thought that if Spain had showed real comprehension of strategy the United States would not have been so successful.

The sure way for the United States would have been for her to send a sufficient force to the coast of Spain to balance the forces known to have been in Spanish ports and to send a squadron to the Cape Verde Islands the moment it was known a Spanish flotilla was assembling there. And, he added, if the island of Minorca had been seized as a base nothing offensive on the other side of the Atlantic would have been attempted by Spain.

The lesson to be deduced was, according to the lecturer, that American strategy was hazardous, in so far as it departed from the stereotyped rules of naval war. Admiral Cervera's ships were lost sight of, causing anxiety on the American coasts, and the Americans kept considerable squadrons wholly in a defensive attitude, instead of maintaining command of the sea. It was clear, he added, that if there had been coal supplies at Santiago de Cuba, and if Admiral Cervera's squadron had been reasonably efficient instead of "a miserable abortion," all it could have proposed to effect by entering Santiago might have been done without any interference upon the part of the United States navy.

From the actions of the Spanish forts the American ships deduced the idea that their very inefficient batteries were able to keep the ships at a distance. Regarding the purely tactical questions involved, the admiral said it was plain that Admiral Dewey took full advantage of the superiority of his guns and gunners and placed himself in so distant a position that, neither the Spanish ships nor the Spanish batteries were able adequately to reply to his fire. The whole thing, continued the lecturer, "was terribly business-like on the American side, with a pathetic parade of phony gallantry on the other."

In finishing Admiral Colomb commented upon the fact that all orders to the American ships were sent from Washington, which he considered was a momentous change in naval warfare.—New York Herald.

SLAVE AT A GOLD WEDDING.

Bill Arp's Family Honor Faithful Old Uncle Tip.

One of the honored guests at the celebration of the golden wedding of Bill Arp, the southern humorist, at Cartersville, Ga., the other night was Uncle Tip, an aged negro whose fortunes were long entwined with the family. The old southern custom was for the father of a bridegroom to give the bride a man slave, who should thenceforth be charged with her personal safety. Uncle Tip was the human present in Mr. Arp's case. His father had been deeded in the same manner to Mr. Arp's mother.

When the war broke out, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Arp's mother, and her two daughters were protected and provided for faithfully by Tip. On one occasion he had to go into Rome, Ga., for his mistress while the town was invested by Federal soldiers. The latter held him to work for them. At the first opportunity he sprang into the Etowah river and amid a shower of bullets swam three miles to the swamps and joined his helpless charges.—New York Journal.

Odd little blizzard items are drifting in from all points of the compass. Here is a specimen bit. It comes from Hagerstown, Md.—Henry Boyer, who carries the Dry Run mail, had his mouth frozen up the other day. The breath on his beard and mustache was converted into a solid cake of ice.

SANTODOMINGO EXPEDITION.

Napoleon Characterized It as His Greatest Folly.

From General Gourgaud's posthumous memoirs of Napoleon, just published, the following extract about the Santo Domingo expedition is taken:

"Napoleon characterized the affair of Santo Domingo as the greatest folly he had ever committed. 'Had it succeeded, it would only have served to enrich the Noailles and the Rochefoucaults. I think that Josephine, as a creole, had some influence in this matter, not directly, but a wife always exercises an influence over her husband. I should have treated with the black chiefs, as with the authorities of the province, should have named negro officers in the regiments of their race, should have left Toussaint l'Ouverture as a viceroy, should have sent no troops further, should have left everything to the blacks save some white ministers—a treasurer, for example. And I should have insisted that these should marry black women. Thus the negroes, seeing no white force around them, would have gained confidence in my system. The colony would have proclaimed the liberty of the slaves. It is true that I should have lost Martinique, for the blacks would have been freed, but all this would have happened without disorder.

"Colonel of Engineers Vincent was the only one who gave me wise advice in regard to this expedition. He sought to turn me from it by pointing out that it was better to treat with the negro than to seek his destruction. Everything that he predicted happened. The Bourbons should renew their efforts to regain this beautiful colony, which brings in some 180,000,000 francs per annum. They should count upon losing 100,000 men in three years. But under their present system that would be for the best. They would rid themselves of all the officers and soldiers of the old army, and would regain a fine colony.

"At the time of my divorce the daughter of Lucien came to Paris. She took up her quarters with Mme. Mere, and criticised everything. She has a biting wit. I asked Caroline the reason of this conduct. I pressed her for an answer and I found that the whole family was intriguing to have me marry her. I fiercely rejected the idea. She was my niece, and it would have seemed to me that I was committing incest. At first I had the intention of choosing a Parisian as my wife. I had made up a list of five or six names, but every one counseled the alliance with Austria save Fouché and Cambaceres, who dreaded it on account of their own conduct during the revolution, but who subsequently found that they had been mistaken.

CHINESE PRAISE BERESFORD.

His Plans For Preservation of the Nation Approved at Hongkong.

A meeting was recently held in Hongkong for the purpose of passing resolutions commending Lord Charles Beresford and his plans for the preservation of China. The meeting adopted a set of resolutions, of which the following copy reached Seattle, Wash., recently:

Having closely followed with great and attentive interest and carefully considered all that Lord Charles Beresford has said and done in China in connection with his recent mission on behalf of the associated chambers of commerce, the Chinese community of Hongkong here assembled are in accord with and heartily support the policy the noble lord proposes with regard to the 'open door' as regards commerce and also with regard to the reorganization of the Chinese army under the British.

Resolved, That we recognize the combined proposals, if carried out, will benefit China quite as much as England and other foreign nations, if not more, and we therefore hope that Lord Charles will be intrusted by the British government with the carrying out of the views he has so clearly enunciated, as we observe that his efforts are directed to the benefit of both his country and the Chinese empire, and to the benefit of the trade of China, England and other countries.

Resolved, That we recognize and make our cordial acknowledgment for the sympathetic manner with which he has come to China, and that we desire to emphatically express our full confidence in Lord Charles, whose ability, integrity and zeal we are sure peculiarly fit him to successfully carry out the proposals he has made for the preservation of China.

Cocoon by Mail.

One of the strangest packages which has ever been handled by the clerks in the Waterville (Me.) postoffice was delivered to S. S. Lightbody the other afternoon. The package was a cocoon in the same form in which it was taken from the tree. There was no tag attached to the cocoon. Instead the address was written on the husk. One of the three sides of the husk was taken up by the address, which used up nearly all the space allotted for it. Another side contained the postage stamps. Of these there was one 15 cent stamp, two 2 cent stamps, and, in spite of the fact that the remaining stamp of 1 cent denomination was one of the stamps issued in commemoration of the Maine there was plenty of room for many more stamps of the same size, so large was the surface. The cocoon was sent by Fred Gonyer, who several months ago was employed at Mr. Lightbody's store. Mr. Gonyer is now in Palm Beach, Fla.—Portland Argus.

White Woman Elected as a "Medicine Man."

The Kiowa Indians at Wichita, Kan., recently elected a white woman as their "medicine man." Her name is Mrs. Poor Buffalo, or Belle Perkins. Her husband, who was the medicine man of the tribe, died recently, and she was elected to take his place. Mrs. Poor Buffalo is a white woman and has lived among the Kiowas for the past 30 years. She is now 40 years old. She is the first white woman to hold this kind of a position. Her duties are to supply the Indians with news from heaven.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SAYS DEWEY IS NOT WELL.

Captain Fraser Says He Cannot Endure the Strain Another Month.

Captain Fraser of London, late of the British imperial forces, arrived at Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, where he had the honor of dining with Admiral Dewey. To a correspondent Captain Fraser said:

"The war at Manila will have to end soon or the life of the great American admiral will be worth nothing. I dined with him at Manila within a month and am convinced that if he is not relieved of the terrible strain imposed upon him, he cannot last a month longer. As he sat at the banquet table, surrounded by his staff, he looked to me like a dying man. His hair is snowy white, his face ashen, and he ate hardly anything.

"I had the pleasure of a few minutes' conversation with him when we retired to the smoking room. Having in mind his terribly enfeebled appearance, I asked him if he thought of returning to America soon. He replied: 'I would like to, but my work is by no means finished here. When it is, and only then, will I return.'

"I am thoroughly convinced that only the admiral's indomitable will has kept him up so long. The strain on him is terrific, and the climatic conditions have reduced him to a shadow. His officers and men worship him. As an English officer and knowing the magnificent work he has done, I have the greatest admiration for him.

"One of his officers said to me just before I left Manila: 'The war will be ended by the admiral soon or it will end him. No man can stand such a strain as he does in this climate and live long.'—New York World.

NEW SERUM FOR PNEUMONIA.

Professor Wasserman, One of Koch's Pupils, Makes a Discovery.

Professor Wasserman of Berlin, one of Professor Koch's ablest pupils, is believed to have discovered a new serum for the cure of pneumonia.

He inoculated rabbits with the pneumococcus bacillus, which is generally believed to cause pneumonia, and with the serum thus gained he inoculated mice suffering from pneumonia.

A subsequent series of experiments showed that it was in the red marrow of the bones that the antitoxin is produced and that red marrow taken from a human corpse after death from pneumonia and used as a serum will cure mice infected with that disease.

Accordingly it is hoped that this serum will have the same satisfactory results in human beings.—New York World.

OTIS MAY RE-ENLIST VOLUNTEERS.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—It is expected that Gen. Otis will be authorized to organize three or four regiments of the provisional army out of the volunteers from the various states now at Manila when the time comes for mustering out these volunteers. At present the volunteers, it is stated at the war department, do not want to come home, having the American determination not to "retreat while under fire."

In the Union.

THE SOUTHERN VETERAN SPEAKS. I've faced the fight with Jackson, I've marched along with Lee, I had some words with Sherman as he galloped to the sea, Exchanged brisk compliments with Grant when victory seemed in view, My old steel bayonet glittering at many a breast in blue.

I say, I've been with Jackson, and Lee he knew my name. And sometimes, when the fight was on, he called me by the same. I followed, fierce and fearless, where Long street led the way. To fields whose bloody daisies were plent with blue and gray.

But now I'm in the Union, I see there, overhead, The flag our fathers fought for, her ripping rills of red. All glorious and victorious—the splendor of her stars— And I say, "The blood of heroes dyed all her crimson bars."

I'm for that flag forever gainst foes on sea and shore! Who shames her? Who defames her? Give me my gun once more! We'll answer when they need us, when the war fires light the night; There's a Lee still left to lead us to the glory of the fight!

See how the old flag ripples and flaunts her folds in scorn! Her stars and bars will be the joy of nations yet unborn, And, though she waves o'er new made graves, neath alien sod and dew, There, in the starry silence, the gray sleep with the blue.

We're one in heart forever, we're one in heart and hand, The flag's a challenge to the sea, a garland to the land.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Henry Knoblock, western salesman for the Dresden, came in last night. He will remain here several days.

Earnest Farrell went to Leechburg this morning and will play with the orchestra of that place tonight.

W. E. Sergeant, of Akron, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. He has taken a position in a pottery in this place.

Fritz Sanerinsen has taken a position as night messenger at the telegraph office in the place of Harry Vincent, resigned.

Hon. David Boyce, who is enjoying his stay in California, has the thanks of the NEWS REVIEW for Los Angeles newspapers.

The household effects of J. Simpson were yesterday shipped to Trenton. The family moved to this place only a few weeks ago.

The executive committee of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters met last evening, but did nothing but transact routine business.

William Howard and Miss Susie Kirkham were married at the home of the bride in Trentvale street last evening by Reverend Crawford.

Earl Clark, of Lincoln avenue, fell on a camera yesterday afternoon. The glass broke and badly cut his face. Several stitches were required.

John Melius, a decorator formerly connected with the East End pottery, and who has been seriously ill in the Farmer block, is slowly improving.

Constable Miller this morning telegraphed Squire Rose from Akron that he would arrive here this evening at 8 o'clock, bringing James Farish with him.

The Chevalier club are making preparations for a stag party to be given at their rooms the evening of April 15. An elaborate musical program will be rendered.

Fishermen are having splendid sport at Walker, and a number of fine fish are caught every day. George Bryan yesterday caught seven, some of them weighing two pounds.

The heavy rain yesterday afternoon washed a large hole in Jefferson street between the railroad and the river bank. It was filled in today under the supervision of Inspector Harris.

Dr. J. C. Taggart left today for Toronto, where he conducted funeral services over the remains of George Magee, who died in Chicago Monday. Services were held in the United Presbyterian church of that place.

The freight reports for the month of February have been completed by Clerk Hill, of the general freight office, and have been forwarded to Pittsburg and Cleveland. The reports show that much business was handled during the month.

The Young Men's Christian association basketball team have selected purple and gold for the colors. They are practising every evening for their game to be played tomorrow evening with the Alliance team and will do their utmost to win.

The question was recently raised whether Thomas Lloyd could be assessor for the Third ward and township trustee, and Judge Boone decided that since one was a municipal office and the other a township position, the law did not stand in the way.

The remains of Robert Johnson were yesterday interred in the cemetery at Georgetown. He died at Hookstown Monday, and was the last of a family of eight children. Those who attended the funeral from this place were Mrs. H. Badgley, Mrs. John Reese and Mrs. Mary J. Johnson.

"Improvement of the prayer meeting" was the subject of an address by Rev. J. T. Aiken, of Bagly, Pa., to a large congregation in the Second U. P. church last evening. Tonight a thank offering and missionary service will be held under the leadership of Reverend Aiken and others.

SPATZ MEANT NO HARM.

Innocently Offered Patronage Instead of Cash—Legislative Bribery Investigation, at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The legislative bribery committee met in the house chamber last night to hear testimony on the charges of alleged bribery in connection with the consideration in the house of the McCarrell jury bill, which bill the anti-Quay members declared was introduced to aid Senator Quay in his trial at Philadelphia on the charges of conspiracy.

Representative Sylvester S. Smith of Cameron was the first witness called. He said he had been spoken to by a certain person, who told him there was "2 1/2" in it if he voted for the McCarrell bill. (It was understood at a previous meeting of the committee that "2 1/2" meant $250.)

Mr. Smith asked to be excused for the present from stating in public the name of the person who approached him. This request was granted him, after he had given the name privately to the committee.

Representative Charles B. Spatz, Democrat, of Berks county, whom members of the house last week testified had invited them to a hotel room to talk over the McCarrell bill, took the stand and made an explanatory statement. He said that he learned that a petition was being circulated for a fusion between the Democrats and Independent Republicans on the senatorship and he prepared a petition of his own, pledging the Democrats to stand by their caucus nominee. He thought that he saw an inclination on the part of Representatives Miller and Johnston of Northampton and he invited them to go with him to Martin Lawler's room, where there was pen and ink. On the way there Mr. Spatz may have said there was something in it for them, but he did not mean money. He thought a Democrat would be elected senator and if such was the case, the signers of the paper would be the "chosen few," and they would be favored with patronage. At no time did he offer anyone any money to sign the paper, because he had no reason to offer any. He never offered any money to anyone for any legislation or for the senatorship.

He specifically denied having offered money to Representatives Heil or Miller to sign the paper.

PRESIDENT TOOK A DRIVE.

Looked Better After His Return—Taking a Good Rest.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 16.—Senator Hanna took his guests on a carriage drive about five miles from town, to the country home of Wyman Jones, the senator's brother-in-law. The weather was mild, a good breeze was stirring through the pines and the gathering clouds, which in the afternoon resulted in a shower of rain, shielded the party from the sun.

The president enjoyed the drive, and his brightness on his return showed it had done him good. The party was home for lunch and soon afterward the president went to bed for the afternoon. After dinner, Senator Hanna and his guests chatted a while and the president retired early.

The Best Way to Sample Whisky.

One of the best judges of whisky in Chicago is a man who never drinks it. He is Captain Joseph E. G. Ryan, formerly of the Seventh.

Captain Ryan is a whisky expert. He can tell almost to a day the age of any sample submitted to him. Give him a few drops of whisky, and he can tell you the brand, the distiller, where it was made, when, and detect adulteration if there is any. Blend two or three kinds of whisky, and he can tell the blend.

And he never tastes it, being strictly temperate in all his habits.

It is all told by the smell. Captain Ryan's nose is a very sensitive organ, and he has trained it with the utmost care.

"Smelling is by far the most satisfactory method of testing," he says. "If a man has a great deal to sample, and tastes each kind, he soon gets so that he cannot distinguish one from the other. The sense of taste becomes blunted, and he loses all the fine distinctions.

"On the other hand, the more a man uses his nose, the more acute the sense of smell becomes, and he is able to detect the slightest difference between samples."—Chicago Journal.

A Boy's Notion of Perjury.

Milton Lawson of San Antonio was recently convicted of murder in the first degree and his punishment assessed at confinement in the penitentiary for a term of 50 years. In the trial of the case Orange Lake, a 14-year-old boy brother of the man appellant killed was put on the witness stand. On being asked if he understood the nature of an oath he made the startling reply that if he told one lie he would go to the legislature and if he told two lies he would be sent to congress. The upper court declared Lake an incompetent witness.—Dallas News.

A Long Task.

If one island a day were to follow the example of Negros and accept American rule, 3 years and 13 weeks would be required merely to accept the proffers of friendship of the remaining 1,198 Philippines. With many of them hostile, a much longer time, apparently, will be required to place the starry emblem above their shores.—New York Press.

Kipling Much Improved.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Mr. Kipling was able to sit up in bed last night and partake of a course dinner. He ate heartily of several dishes of a more substantial nature than any yet given to him. The improvement continues from hour to hour, and Dr. Dunham thinks his patient will be able to leave his bed before Sunday.

Statesmen to Take a Jaunt.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—About 60 senators and representatives have accepted invitations for a trip that has been planned to inspect the routes of the proposed Nicaragua and Panama canals, coming home by way of Santiago and other points of interest in the West Indies. They will go as the guests of the Panama Canal company.

The Truce of the Czar.

The czar, when he had read the trip made by our Oregon. He wanted ships built like it, too, and said: "Please put me on! A ship that travels round the world and never gets aged. Some thirteen thousand miles of run, it's good enough for me."

And so he sent an envoy here to see how it was made. This ship called Oregon, that puts all others in the shade. Of mighty depth and noble shape and wondrous iron knit frame! The envoy looked it over well—"The czar must have the same!"

The czar he straightway sent for him who built the floating fort And asked him for his price list, too, and fed him cakes and port. His eye imperial ran o'er the little figured card. And he stared and stared and stared and stared and stared at it quite hard.

He slept on it, he ate on it, and with a tremulous sigh He gave it back unto the man whose fame stood up so high. "Alas, your price it is too much!" All that at once did cease. But next day all the wide world heard the "universal peace!" —Barold MacGrath in Syracuse Herald.

REFORMED CHURCH MISSIONS.

Commissioners for the National Foreign Board Held a Meeting at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The commissioners for the board of foreign missions of the Reformed church in the United States met in this city. The board has ten commissioned missionaries at work in Japan, where the foreign missionary work of the church is concentrated.

The following officers were chosen: President, Rev. Dr. James I. Good of Reading; vice president, Rev. Dr. J. H. Prugh of Pittsburg; secretary, Rev. Dr. S. M. Callender of Mechanicsburg; treasurer, Rev. Dr. J. L. Lemburger, Lebanon. The other members of the board present were Elder Benjamin Koons of Dayton, Dr. J. Z. Gerhart, Elder J. Y. Dietz, Philadelphia. The executive committee consists of Rev. Dr. Bartholomew of Pottsville; Rev. Dr. Peter Greding, Indiana; Rev. Dr. Jacob Dolman, Akron, O.; Rev. Dr. J. S. Kieffer, Hagerstown, Md.; Rev. C. R. Diefenbacher, Greensburg.

Reports were read from all of the missionaries in the field, and the report to the general synod was made. The work in all parts of Japan is in a prosperous condition. During the year $33,000 was contributed to Japan missions by the churches, but the scope of the work requires a greater outlay. The conference will meet in Harrisburg next March.

Minister Accepted a Call.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—Rev. J. B. Tuttle, pastor of the First Baptist church of Portsmouth, O., accepted a call to the North Baptist church of this city. He will assume charge on Easter Sunday.

REPORTED SOLDIERS' DEATHS.

Testing Local Option Liquor Law.

CLEVELAND, March 16.—Constitutionality of the Ohio local option liquor law is being tested in a case brought to trial before Judge Ricks in the United States circuit court. The question is raised by the attorneys of Emil Stevens, who was fined and given a workhouse sentence for violating the local option law in Jefferson county.

Reformers to Hold a Meeting.

DETROIT, March 16.—Eltweed Pomeroy of Newark, N. J., has issued a call for a social and political conference at Buffalo, June 28 to July 3. Governor Pingree's name heads the list of signers, which includes nearly 100 prominent reformers. Some here construe it as the beginning of a Pingree move for a presidential nomination.

Hope of France Intervening.

LONDON, March 16.—A special dispatch from Madrid says Premier Silvela, in an interview just published there, spoke in favor of the intervention of France for the purpose of obtaining permission from the United States for Spain to resume direct negotiations for the release of the Spanish prisoners held by the Philippine rebels.
